ARRIVAL OF THE TRANSPORT STEAMER SALVOR—REPORTED OCCUPATION OF FORT SUMPTER.—The transport steamer Salvor, Captain Mott, arrived at this port about 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, from Beaufort, S. C. This vessel left Philadelphia about three weeks ago, with a number of conscripts, under the command of Captain O'Neal. She lay off Morris Island on the 20th and 21st of October, and while there two monitors and two of Gilmore's batteries opened on Fort Sumpter, and continued firing rapidly during both days, eliciting no reply from the fort, which it is supposed has no guns mounted, but is garrisoned by some two hundred rebel soldiers. Occasionally a gun is fired from a battery on the north end of James' Island. The other rebel forts have been silent for some time past.

The rebel flag was flying over Fort Sumpter when the Salvor left, which was on the evening of the 31st ultimo. She then went farther south to Beaufort, stopping at Hilton Head on the way down. The Salvor left Beaufort at nine o'clock on Tuesday last, and Hilton Head at five o'clock, at which place she took on board Captain O'Neal, of the Invalid Corps, who arrived from Morris Island in the transport steamer Golden Gate, and brought the news which created such an excitement in the city on Saturday and Sunday. He states that when he left Morris Island the Union flag was flying over the fort, and that it was garrisoned by the 104th Pennsylvania Regiment from Doylestown. The officers of the Salvor knew nothing of its capture.

MEETING OF COAL OPERATORS.—A large meeting of coal merchants, who are owners or otherwise connected with the coal mines of the interior, was held in this city, on Saturday, for the purpose of consulting as to the proper measures to be taken respecting the quelling of the riots about Mauch Chunk. Statements were made as to the extent and probable growth of the existing demonstrations, and it was unanimously resolved to report upon the immediate attention of the State authorities the urgent necessity of a speedy military assistance. A sub-committee were appointed to wait upon Governor Curtin, and represent to him the real condition of affairs in the coal districts. Subsequently a committee waited upon Major General Couch, at his office, and by him they were very kindly and courteously received. The General stated that though the district in which the riots were progressing was out of his military district, yet he would lend whatever assistance was in his power. He would immediately consult with Governor Curtin, and would send forthwith a sufficient force of soldiers to Easton. The Governor, we understand, has already moved in the matter, and there is every probability of an utter quelling of the insurgents. Mr. Smith, of the Philadelphia firm of Hall, Corlies, & Co., whom we stated on Saturday as having been instantly killed by a gang of "Buckshots," was a native of Pottsville, where his burial will probably take place. He was killed on Thursday night, under these circumstances: He had come to his home at the Yorktown colliery, from Easton, and about nine o'clock, had retired to sleep. Soon afterwards, a man in soldier's apparel knocked at the door of his house, and inquired of Mrs. Smith, who opened it, whether he could see Mr. Smith. He said he had urgent business with him, that would suffer by delay. It was idle to dispute facts with the man, for it appeared that his business was of the most pressing character. Accordingly, Mr. Smith was waked up, and on coming down stairs he was deliberately shot by the stranger in the forehead, falling instantly dead. The report of the weapon was the signal for a whole gang of men to enter the house, but their object, finding the object of their vengeance dead upon the ground they were satisfied. They severely wounded Mr. Ulrick, the storekeeper, and left the building. No violence was offered to Mrs. Smith, whom they left in a state of utter insensibility. The whole gang escaped, not an arrest being made, nor is it at all probable that the guilty can be identified. Mr. Smith was a man of exemplary character, an upright and intelligent citizen, and distinguished for tact, integrity, and public spirit. He had recently endeavored to get rid of the class of men who work the mines of the Lehigh region. Knowing them to be a dangerous and ignorant people, he tried in vain to supplant them by a more intelligent class of workmen. This, too, has been the aim of all our coal operators, and necessity has been their only apology for employing the kind of men who have so long held sway in the coal districts.

THE DRAFT.—The provost marshals of the various districts have nearly completed the draft operations, and in a few weeks there will be left them nothing to do but the looking up of deserters and delinquents. This is no small labor, but it will no doubt be effectively and judiciously discharged. It will require some industry and tact to discover the whereabouts of skedaddlers, and bring them to a consciousness of their obligations. Preparations will be immediately commenced, and everything will be in readiness by the 15th of January, to enforce the new draft ordered to commence on that day. The last proclamation for more troops, it will be remembered, called upon the States for volunteers; but in case they should not come forward, then to enforce a conscription for the full number. From present indications, it is likely that the city of Philadelphia will furnish its quota almost entirely by draft. Neither State nor city government have held out any inducements to volunteering. City Councils have scarcely thought upon the subject, notwithstanding the days of grace are so few. If we would be spared another draft, it becomes on the wealthy citizens to come to the rescue. Bounties must be offered if we would have volunteer enlistments. Who will respond? Our public associations, the Union Leagues, and the merchants generally have done nobly. Are they ceased? The duty of those who remain to enjoy life and all its pleasures at home, to those who have gone forth to defend their firesides, is now even more urgent than ever. The spineal cannot be lost on men who have appreciated their responsibility since this war began, and who will not falter whenever the President calls again upon them. In this connection we may state to those anxious to enlist, that a very favorable opportunity now presents itself. Capt. Cadwallader, recruiting at 611 Chestnut street, received on Saturday, from the War Department, through the provost marshal general, authority to continue to recruit for the old regiments in the field, and to offer the following bounties, viz: For veteran volunteers $402, and for all others $302. Each recruit will receive $75 in cash before leaving the rendezvous.

OUR DOMESTIC MARKETS.—It is well worth the while to pass through the market-houses, or at least some of them, especially on market-days, if merely to have an ocular demonstration of the bounty of Providence. The rich stores of autumn have been gathered, and brought to the very doors of the consumers. The thousands of stalls, strong as they are, fairly bend beneath the weight of meat of various kinds. The butchers, as a class of men, appear gay and happy in their clean, white garments, and busy in serving out steaks, ribs, roasting pieces, &c. In the fish line, there can be had every kind in season, fresh from the river or sea. In farm produce there never was a larger amount, or greater variety, than at the present time. Flour, which is considered the staff of life, is plentiful, and sells at a much lower rate than most of other articles necessary for sustaining life. As a general thing the prices are at least 25 per cent. higher than they were before the rebellion broke out. This advance, perhaps, may be attributed in a great measure to the necessary issue of paper money, the circulation of which, and consuming unlimited daily. Prices will probably come down in equal ratio to the decrease of paper money. It was evident that some speculators started a short time ago to make a fortune at once out of apples. The sum of four dollars, and even four dollars and a half per barrel, was demanded for them as people could do without the fruit, the sales were necessarily limited. The result is, as they are a perishable article, the prices have fallen off at least forty per cent. within the past two weeks. A barrel of good winter apples could be purchased for two dollars and a half on Saturday; in a little while we may expect to purchase bushlowers at even a less rate than that. White potatoes are cheap; the stock immense. Very good quality and size were sold at the rate of sixty-five cents per bushel at the wagons on Saturday. The rate will probably raise in a short time. Taking all things into consideration, the people of Philadelphia have much reason to be thankful. As a general thing, everybody has employment, at one thing or other, by which he or she can maintain an honest livelihood.

CORNER-LOUNGING.—If there is any detestable habit that ought to be abandoned, it is that of half-grown boys lounging about the street corners day and night. In years gone by, reckless youngsters used to spend much of their time about the houses of fire companies, but this has long since been prohibited. These corner-loungers, we fear, in many instances, are beyond parental control, simply because, in their younger days, their moral education was shamefully neglected through the ignorance of parents. It is very seldom that children of the respectable class of society, those who do honor to the human race, are seen loitering about street corners, during evenings of the week or on Sabbath days, smoking cigars, spitting tobacco juice on the sidewalks, or perhaps using profane language, as people of refined feelings of morality or Christianity pass by. Many of the boys who loaf about the street corners have doubtful parentage. In such cases as these the judges of our courts should assume the virtues of so many fathers, and make these youngsters feel a few stings, at least, from the lashes of the law. The judges owe this much to society, and we have no doubt they will exercise this authority as the intelligent, law-abiding citizens have invested in them by an elevation to positions of power. Many are to-day, now in prison and out of prison, took his first lesson or step toward crime by corner-lounging; and when it is ascertained that any of the loungers are cursed with ignorant parents, who may be considered like so much miserable spawn of chaotic humanity, then is the time for the humane principles of the law to be applied, and no persons can do so more effectively for the benefit of the youngsters in particular, and society in general, then the judges of our courts. Let corner-lounging be abolished.

RESIGNATIONS.—Lieutenant Colonel A. H. Reynolds and Captain Thomas Funston, of the Scott Legion Regiment, have returned to Philadelphia, having resigned their respective positions in the volunteer forces of the United States. Both these gentlemen were in the Mexican war, and they served also in the Scott Legion during the three months' campaign. They were wounded in the battle of Gettysburg by rebel rocket balls and by the explosion of rebel shells. The Lieutenant Colonel was severely wounded in his right arm, and has lost the use of that limb. The Captain, besides receiving a shell wound, had his jaw frightfully fractured by a musket ball.

FALSE ALARM.—some individual broke open the signal-box at Broad and Girard avenue, about half past eleven o'clock on Saturday night, and communicated an alarm of fire to the Central Station. The fire department was thus thrown into commotion by the mean act of some unknown villain.

YACHT CLUB ASSOCIATION.—For some time past a number of gentlemen who delight in yachting have had under consideration the organization of a society, in which the owners of yachts and others interested in the pleasures of aquatic sports and pastimes, might join in harmony, and thus, by a combined effort, give an impetus to the whole affair hitherto unknown in the latitude and longitude of Philadelphia. In New York and parts of Europe, much attention has been given to scenes on the bosom of the waters, and we are glad to know that some effort has been made to inaugurate a system here in which ladies may conveniently participate, and thus enjoy healthful recreation, hitherto almost unknown to them. The following-named vessels have entered the association:

Sent	76 feet.	Quickstiver	83 feet.
Vivid	42 "	Nellie	34 "
Lotus	40 "	Martha	32 "
Barrett	39 "	Julia	31 "
Lufbarry	36 "

These are first-class yachts, and we may expect some rare sport to grow out of the organization. There will be a movement upon the waters of the Delaware some fine day that will be lively and interesting.

GRAPHIC BATTLE SCENES.—Since the commencement of the present rebellion the artists of the country have been actively and constantly employed in sketching its prominent battles and incidents, and the scenes of its important and memorable events. Nearly all of these, however, have been prepared for pic orial papers and serials, and while they convey to the eye lively pictures of stirring actions, do not rise to the dignity of historical painting. We are glad to perceive that one of our most gifted artists, Mr. William E. Winner, has already made some progress, and is preparing for other efforts, to give the public a number of battle scenes in the present war of a high order of merit. He followed the Army of the Potomac before and after the battle of Antietam with this view, and made a number of interesting sketches of the country. He has finished one excellent illustration of that great battle, and another of the crossing of the Potomac, below Shepherdstown, by the 118th Regiment (Corn Exchange) Pennsylvania Volunteers, which embody all the pictorial effects of the scenes, while they give a just conception of the events.

SHOT AT AND CUT.—Mr. Lewis Alberson, a well-known citizen, was shot at and then cut with a knife across the face, on Friday night, at a restaurant on Seventh street. The precise nature of the difficulty has not publicly transpired. It seems that he and another man met in the restaurant, some words ensued relative to business matters in both are interested, which terminated in Mr. Alberson narrowly escaping with his life. It is said the ball from the pistol struck a pretty-well-filled book in his left breast pocket, and glanced off. The knife, having the desired effect, his assailant then pulled out a knife, cut him across the face, and severed his left ear almost off. Friends interfered, put a stop to further proceedings of a tragical nature.

DEPARTURE OF CONSCRIPTS.—The steamer Ashland, Captain Ealing, left this port, between three and four o'clock yesterday afternoon, with about four hundred conscripts from the barracks at Camp Cadwalader, West of Gorgas, at which place they have been quartered for some time past. They leave for parts unknown to reinforce veteran regiments in the field. Quite a large number of persons assembled at the first wharf above Catharine street to witness her departure, many of whom were relatives and friends of the conscripts, who left never perhaps to see their loved ones again.

GRAND REJOICING AT CHESTER.—To night, should the news prove genuine, there will be a grand Union torchlight procession, fireworks, and speeches, at Chester, Delaware county, in honor of the recent victories all over the North. Invitations will be given Philadelphia by rail and steamboat to participate in the jollification. An opportunity to return to Philadelphia by half past 10 o'clock.

CIRCUS PROCESSION.—On Wednesday, the National Circus Company, under Mrs. Charles Warner, formerly Miss Dan Rice, will make a somewhat extensive parade in Philadelphia, preparatory to opening at the National Hall on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Warner assures the community that she will exhibit a troupe of horses, ponies, &c., at the National Hall a popular resort during the season. Mattineps for the little folks will be given on every Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

THE Subscription Agent reports the sale of $1 913 000 on Saturday, and for the week, $4 606 000. Subscriptions are still taken, with the best interest payable in gold, or its equivalent, thus giving the subscribers the full coupons on the 1st of May next. The amount of bonds remaining unsold does not exceed $135,000,000.

THE POLICE.

[Before Mr. Alderman Dougherty.]

Attempted Assassination.

On Saturday a young man giving the name of Robert O'Donnell, was arraigned before the police magistrate, charged with the crime of attempting to assassinate Oliver Fefel, the driver of one of the Second-street passenger railroad cars. It appears that on Saturday morning, about three or four o'clock on Saturday morning three or four men who had been spending the evening at a drinking saloon on Fourth street, drove down the thoroughfare in a light wagon until they came to Second street. There the vehicle was stopped directly across the track, thus preventing the passage of a car which came along at that time. Mr. Fefel, the driver of the car, requested the party to get out of the road, and they made an insulting reply, words ensued, and one of the men left the carriage drew a revolver and fired three shots at the car. One ball passed through the handle of a whip which the driver had in his hand, and also carried away a portion of his knuckles. The second ball passed the ear of one of the horses, and the third shot did not take effect. Mr. John M. Hazlet, who is connected with the road, and happened to be in the car, got out upon hearing the firing, and pursued the assailants, who left their wagon and ran away. O'Donnell was captured and dealt with as above stated.

[Before Mr. Alderman Beitler.]

In the Potato Business.

On Saturday afternoon, a Mr. Spittal and son were arraigned at the Central Station on the complaint of a Mr. Shalcross charging them with larceny. It seems, from the nature of the evidence, that the complainant had consigned several hundred bushels of white potatoes to defendants at Washington, D. C., where they were sold at the rate of eighty cents per bushel, and the proceeds were not handed over to the consignee. The defence set up that the older defendant was a partner in the business, and a portion of the proceeds were held by a legal attachment at Washington. The complainant further alleged that the defendant was a partner but not the principal. The whole affair was full of intricacies. The alderman held Mr. Spittal to bail in the sum of $700, awaits a further hearing. The son was discharged on his own recognizance.

Further Hearing.

The alleged hotel thief, who wore the fictitious name of Joseph Wood, was arraigned for a further hearing at the Central Station on Saturday afternoon. There was a conflict of evidence developed that the prisoner left lodgings at the Bald Eagle Hotel, where he registered his name as James Webb, of Reading. A pocket-book, stolen from the sheriff of Lehigh county, was found in the room said to have been occupied by the prisoner. Committed for another hearing.
