It is said this fel-low had deserted quite a number of times, then re-enlisted under fictitious names, and received the bounty money in every case. Although a very strict watch is kept upon individuals such as these, yet every now and then some one of them effects an escape.

Our benevolent and liberal dis-posed citizens will there find an attractive display of beautiful objects in virtue and art, which will cer-tainly repay a visit. Charges Against General Humphreys. A pamphlet containing charges and specifications preferred sgainst Brig. Gen. A. A. Humphreys, formerly commanding 3d Division, 5th Corps, Army of the Potomac, and now oklef of staff to Gen. Meade, by Jacob G. Frick, colonel of the 129th Pennsylvania Volunteers, has been distributed among the members of the Senate. The charges were made April 14, 1863, and are, "uttering disloyal and treasonable sentiments," "violation of fifth article of war," "conduct subversive of good order ard military discipline, and tending to muting and sedition," "tyrannical conduct, and conduct unbe-oming an officer and a gentleman," and "drunken-ness." It is alleged that these charges were at the time suppressed, and that copies were subsequently forwarded to the President, Gen. Halleck, and Col. Holt, Judge Advocate General. The object now is to provoke inquity. As a specimen of the charges, we give the specifi-cation of the first charge: In this, that he, Brigadier General A. A. Hum-phreys, commanding, etc., did say, "By G-d! I wish some one would ask the army to follow him (meaning Major General McClellan) to Washington, and huri the whole d-d pack into the Potomao, and place General McClellan at the head of affairs. I believe the army would willingly go." This at camp near Warrenton, on or about the 10th day of November, A. D. 1862. A NEW COMMANDER. Charges Against General Humphreys. PRILADELPHIA, Dec. 9, 1863 Matters were much excited over the expected message of the President to-day. Something very favorable and very weighty, having reference to the closing of the war, was expected, but at the moment of writing the effect of the message has not been experienced.
