It has been ascertained that the rebel Government has sent commissions to guerilla eaders, and given them special authority to raise ands for marauding purposes. The returned soldiers and deserters from the rebel army are organizing into pillaging bands with great alacrity, in order to escape all possibility of conscription into the rebel service. The guerilla warfare is more pleasant than that in the regular rank and file of the lonfederate army, besides being far more profitabl

It is not surprising that men should prefer it to the more irksome duty in the field. The rebel Governrist has continually asserted that it did not ap-prove of guerilla warfare, but the issuing of commissions to guerilla captains would seem to prove the truth of the reverse of their assertions. It is not at all likely that the robels will succeed in stopping navigation. All the firing they have done has caused but little damage either to life or property, and there can be only a slight fear of their causing much injury in the time to come. They may render it necessary for the better security of passen-gers that the steamers shall be convoyed by gun-boats. This will make the journey in either direction a little longer, but will not add much to the inconvenience of the trip, as convoy was established gemi-weekly from Vicksburg to New Orleans as soon as the former city fell. It was permitted to go out of use, as but few of the boats showed any desire to be protected. All that is now necessary is to repoints are touched. establish this convoy and everything will be on its former fooling. It is in contemplation to furnish each passenger steamer with a howitzer and a suita-ble number of muskets, and to detail a non-commissioned officer to drill the crew and take com mand in case of trouble. This will be an excellent movement, as it will render each boat capable of doing something in its defence. A howitzer on the hurricane roof of a steamboat will have a comnanding position over the banks on either side. It will be necessary, possibly, to renew the practice of burning the houses and other buildings in the vicinity of the scene of any firing upon steamboats. This plan was adopted between Memphis and Cairo, last year, and was found to be effectual. WhensAdmiral Farragut first ascended the river, he announced beforehand that he should burn any town from which he was fired upon. All the towns, through their principal men, promised to conduct ness of affection and the sustaining hopes of Faith. themselves properly, and save a confiagration. Grand Gulf, Rodney, and Bayou Sara vio-lated their promise, but found that the Admiral Seldom has a moral lesson been more delicately and unobtrusively worked out. It has fine reliefs,such, for instance, the lines about babydom, comheld to his. Those towns were given to the flames, and the rest of the people along the river took warning. At Natchez the same promise had been made, and the people were about to break it by the erection which at least one-third of the young mothers of America have got by heart. As for the engravings, it would take a large space to describe even the best of them. We never saw any wood-cuts so closely sent time, there has not been a single shot from rivalling the sharp execution of the graver upon Natchez upon any of our boats. No guns have been planted there, and the inhabitants are now resteel. The Capture (on p. 43) is an example of this, and the group of wood-cutters (on p. 54) is equal to one of Birket Foster's rural gems, though graven joising to think they did not set the foolish part that brought so many others to ruin. The place is fast upon wood. Another volume, with new and improved appearance, is a handsome octave entitled "The Camp Fires of the Revolution," by In Central Mississippi the rebels are assembling a large force, under Major General Polk, for some offensive operations against our lines. Was on board the liFlate Acount as prior in the first attack upon Sumpter by Dupont, and has since, in the same capacity, penetrated nearly every inlet and creek along the entire coast, and been under fire for days, and sometimes weeks at a time. After seeving on many vessels he again found himself in the same steamer, he brought out of Charleston a pleasant and popular mode of showing affecti there is a large and flourishing crop of new and beautiful editions, with a fair sprinkling of novelty. We purpose, this day, and until our table is cleared, to tell our readers what books particularly adapted the same steamer he brought out of Charleston harbor. A recent letter says: A few days since, Lieutenant Colonel Elwell, chief quartermaster of this department, required the services of this vessel, where she would be liable to come under the fire of rebel guns. The captain, a brawny white shior, refused to go with the vessel. The moment the fact became known at bescimarters. Lieutenant Colonel Elwell, with for presents have lately been issued. Passing by, for the present, the tasteful publications of E. H. Butler, the Appletons, the Harpers, and others-for we cannot notice verybody in a single article we com-mence with a New York house, which has a high reputation for publishing good books, handsomely got the vessel. The moment the sat became known at headquarters, Lieutenant Colonel Elwell, with out consultation with any higher authority, issue the following order, which, for simple justice to brave and loyal negro, officially acknowledged, ha seldom been equalled in this or any other depart ment. It is unnecessary to say that Robert Smal took command of the vessel, and faithfully dis charged the duty required of him: Charles Scribner's most recent issues consist of new works by "Ik Marvel" and "Timothy Titcomb" (D. G. Mitchell and Dr. J. G. Holland), and new and improved editions of some standard books hy each. Then, there are superb editions of "The "Office of Chief Quartermaster, "Port Royal (S. S.), Nov. 26, 1863. Reveries of a Bachelor" and "Dream Life," books which have been reprinted and translated in foreign lands, besides having an immense sale here, and a new Country Book, called "My Farm of Edgewood," in which Mr. Mitchell sets down a great deal of his experience as a cultivator of the soil, a farming landowner, in New England. This is a charming blending of fact and fancy, and though only a few weeks out, has already won general ac-ceptance. As to Dr. Holland-essayist, poet, nove list, and critic-all we need say of his new book, "Letters to the Joneses," is that it exhibits shrewd-"Chief Quartermaster's Department South." ness, humor, wit, observation, facility, and genial satire, delicately conveyed -- the blade is so keen, and It may interest some to know that the above or-der was immediately approved by General Gilmore. the aim so sure, that the blow, though deadly, is without noise. What is the little one thinking about ? Very wonderful things, no doubt, Our Brissners at Richmond. The Star contains the following: "Last evening, the Chief of the Bureau of Ex-change of Prisoners, Major General Hitch, received from Brig. Gen. Meredith a copy of a letter addressed to him on the 18th inst., by Robert Ould, the rebel Commissioner of Exchange, &c., announcing the de-termination of the rebel War Department hereafter to receive no more provisions from the North for our prisoners in their hands. We hear, from For-trers Moorce, that be alleges a persistent 'villifi-cation and abuse' with reference to the manner in which the rebel authorities have carried out their pledges upon the subject, as the reason why they break up the arrangement. He promises, however, to deliver faithully all the supplies that had been received up to the time the letter was written; and adds that, hereafter, our prisoners in their hands will be rations & precisely as they ration their soldiers in the field. Without coubt, the allegation of 'villid-cation and misrepresentation' put forward as the reason for hereafter declining to receive such sup-plies is a mere subterfuge—the real reason being the isolatory of the people of Richmond of the fast, that through the care and liberality of our Government, and their friends at home, the Union prisoners in their hands were said to be living better than any family could live in the rebel capital." ting the weak places in society's armor, would have rejoiced in the artistical manner in which the salient . Some of Dr. Holland's books have reached the fortieth edition. A volume of postry, entitled "Bitter-Sweet," first published in 1858, has run through twenty editions, and now reappears, in small 4to, with eighty engravings, exquisitely executed from original drawings. Of these superb illustrations, thirty are additional, in this volume, which thus becomes one of the most beautiful gift books ever issued in this country. The charm of the work is that the poet and the artist mutually illustrate each other in its pages. The poem is a novel of New England life, in which manners are well described and character delicately developed. Had Dr. Holland written the tale in prose it would still have interested his readers ; but he saw that it was worthy of being poetically treated, and he succeeded in the venture. The incidents are dramatic, and the denouement, though tragic, is soltened by the tender-

Important Expedition by Colored Troops. spondence of the N. Y. Times. ].

Importants Expression of the N. T. Times.) IN CAMP, NEAR PORTSMOUTH, Va., Friday, Dec. 11, 1863.—Brig. Gen. Wild, commanding the colored troops in this department, has undertaken a most im-portant expedition. His brigadeleit this vicinity on Saturday last, in two columns, one taking the route through Princess Anne county, vis Kempville and Great Bridge, the other following the tow-path of the Dismal Swamp Ganal—now for some months outside our lines. The columns united at Hintons-beth City, which was occupied yesterday without opposition. The rebei fundatiants were taken com-pletely by surprise at the sudden advent of Gen. Wild's dusky braves in their streets. Elizabeth Gity Wild's dusky braves in their streets. Elizabeth Gity Wild's closed regiment has justreturned, bringing in twenty wagon loads of contrabands that had sought the potection of Gen. Wild on the road. Artillery and cavalry from Gen. Getty's divisions, as well'as a considerable naval force, have left to co-operate with Gen. Wild. I shall write again goon.

THE LESISLATURE OF WEST VIRGINIA.-The Legislature of West Virinia adjourned on Friday

PERSONAL. - Mrs. Lincoln is thus admiringly sketched by

"Perley," of the Boston Journal: "The President's wife (in the opinion of Mrs. Journal Reader) cught not to be left unmentioned, although there is little of interest to chronicle in the daily round of serving, reading, and visiting hospitals, which occupies the time of Mrs. Lincoln. She may have made mistakes- who does not !--- in her invitations, and there-by have provoked envious criticisms. Neither do those of the Democratic era admit that there can be any courtesy displayed here now-a days. But I am sure that since the time that Mrs. Madison presided at the White House, it has not been graced by a lady so well fitted by nature and by education to dispense its hospitalities as is Mrs. Lincoln. Her hospitality is only equalled by her charity, and her graceful de-
