Hows (the distinguished artist to the illustrated "Forest Hymn") are of a very original and notable character, evincing a rich exuberance of fancy and a profound acquaintance with the symbols and traditions of mediaval art. They are large and singularly effective, both for their novelty and beauty, A rich cluster of holly leaves, exquisitely printed in colors, forms the engraved title page. The printing, paper, and blading are each the best of its kind. Thirty-six pages, small quarto.

In extra clush, faveled hosefa, with sides and edges octavo, and is printed on very thick and fine white pa-per, and is profusely illustrated with all the original H-lustrations by Cruikshank, Alfred Crowquill, Phiz, &c. The Author lifts the curtain from New York Life in all its phases, and introduces the reader behind the scenes. The charecters are drawn from life, and the plot, incidents, and denouement have all had their parallels in this country, and within a very recent period. The tale is intenesly exciting and interesting, and has all the vivid ness of reality. A large and seasonable illustration will adorn the NEW YBAR'S NUMBER. AN ELEGANT ASSORT-THOMAS C. SUNSET STORIES. No. 1s.

HELEN ROTHSAY.

Price 76 cents.

Six little pet children nested around Grandmama, and hegged her to "tell each of us a story of good old times, when you were a little girl; tell us about true things that you did." Thus originated these charming Stories, now told to a much wider tircle. Toys, books, and sames were not so planty then, and these bewitching make-believe play, by which "Helen" and her companions found delight way up in the minize, district of Pennsylvanis, will be reproduced in thousands of other families, whose childran will read this charming book. del6-wsm-31* No. 326 CHESTNUT Street, Phila. READING, Pa. Dec. II. 1863

MR. EDITOR: It affords me great pleasure to call the attention of the public to the manner in which the Manhattan Life Insurance Company of New York transact their bushess. To give you an instance: Some two years since Frederick 8. Hunter, Esq., of this city, effected an insurance on his life, for the benefit of his wife, with said Company, for the sum of $10,000. Mr. Hunter, after his return from the ranks of the millita force which marched for the defence of the State last summer, was taken sick. From this attack he never recovered.

The Manhattan Life Insurance Company have, in the most liberal and prompt manner, paid the whole sum of $10,000 to the widow of Mr. Hunter, without even claiming the delay which they might have claimed under the policy.
