AMERICAN MINERAL LANDS.

Wealth of the National Territories.

RECENT GOLD DISCOVERIES, &c.

As the resources of the country are now being so actively called into the service of the war, consideration for the future has been of late directed to the mineral wealth and growing importance of the vast Territories owned by the Government. Some account of the mineral fertility of these lands will prove valuable and interesting.

According to the admirable report of Hon. J. S. Ruggles to the Statistical Congress, the great gold-bearing region in the West embraces portions of Dakotah, Nebraska, Colorado, all of New Mexico, with Arizona, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon, and Washington Territories, comprising 17 degrees of latitude, or a breadth of 1,100 miles by nearly an equal length, and making an area of more than a million square miles. This vast region is traversed by numerous mountains, which divide it into five great basins, each of which is surrounded by mountains, and watered by their streams and snows, "thereby interspersing this immense territory with agricultural lands equal to the support not only of the miners, but of a dense population." All these mountains are "literally stocked with minerals, gold and silver being interspersed in profusion over this immense surface, and daily brought to light by new discoveries." Nor do they abound only in gold and silver, but "various sections of the whole region are rich in precious stones, marble, gypsum, salt, tin, quicksilver, asphaltum, coal, iron, copper, and lead; together with mineral and medicinal, thermal and cold springs and streams." The yield of this region in the precious metals alone, for the year just ended, will not fall below $100,000,000, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office, in his last report, expresses the conviction that "it will augment with the increase of population for years to come." He further adds, that "with an amount of labor relatively equal to that expended in California, applied to the gold-fields already known to exist outside of that State, the production of this year, including that of California, would exceed $400 000,000." "In a word," he says, "the value of these mines is absolutely incalculable."

THE GREAT GOLD REGIONS OF IDAHO.

The gold regions of Idaho owe their first discovery to the rebound of the wave of emigration that first rolled from the Atlantic coast toward the Pacific coast, sheer across the continent. This vast adventurous army of restless and tireless gold-seekers first diffused themselves over the whole tract of California and the Pacific coast, and has been working its way back thence toward the heart of the wilderness, until what was once laid down in the maps as an unknown waste, save where sparsely investigated by various explorers, is becoming dotted with infant settlements by the magic wand of the enchanter gold.

The Territory of Idaho is yet unsurveyed, and only imperfectly subjected to scientific exploration. Gold was first discovered in the neighborhood of what is now called Bannock City, the grand resort of present emigration. Numerous gulches of large wealth were rapidly brought to note, and there appear to be no bounds to
