New Publications.

The fact cannot be disputed that the Boston pub-lishers bring out their books in a very superior manthe rule for good paper, well cut and unworn type, in New York this combination is more frequent. Little, Brown, & Co. may be said to range from the Alpha to the Omega of publication; from fact to fancy, for they issue a great many standard law books, and also that beautiful edition of the British Poets-far more comprehensive than the famed Aldine-which Professor Francis J. Child, of Har-Aroune-which reacted with much taste, vard College, has experistended with much taste, learning, and judgment. They have now brought out, in fancy cleth binding, with gold edges, and out, in largy title on the finest of paper, new editions of the most popular of Moore's, Scott's, and Byrot's poems-handsome 16mo. volumes, equally sdspted for the packet, the parlor, the idoir, and the library. The series opens with Itiah Melodies, and also his National Aire, Sacred Songs, Set of Glees, Ballads, and Misreflation. To these, on which most persons thick Moore's ultimate reputation will mainly rest, are effect the poet's autobiographical preface to the final and self cdition collection of his postical writings, and his Essay on Irish Music, originally the preface to the third number of the Irish Melo-dics. A very complete collection of lyrics this volume contains. Companion to it we have "Lalla Rookh." and "The Loves of the Angels," also in a OFFICIAL .- The official figures in regard single volume, esci: poem prefaced by Moore's own history of its composition, and account of the cirhistory of its composition, and account of the cir-cumstances attending or following its appearance. Sir Walter Scott is represented in this new and uniform issue by the reproduction (with the re-spective Introgractions which were nearly the last of his labore, which so charmingly told the story of the rise and growth of his poetical fame) of "The Lay of the Last Minstrel," " Marmion," and "The Lady of the Lake." These are his best poems, and "Childe Harold," the grandest and most thoughtful of all his writings (not excepting that wondrous and wicked "Don Juan," which condenses ao much knowledge of the world), is here put forth as the n this si gle volume of nearly four huadred pages (yet not too bulky for use as a pocket companion), here is the poem which made Byron famous in a single day. All the historical notes to the Fourth Canto are given here, without mutilation, and the text has been corrected by the results of a comparison with the manuscript, made in 1855. Than this, then, there cannot be a more correct edition of a poem which will engage the attention and win the admiration of all future readers of English poesy. Smaller in size—that is, between the blue andand the 16mo, edition -is a volume containing gold and the 16mo. edition. - is a volume containing the poetical productions of John Keats, viz: the romance of "Endymion," the magnificent fragment of "Hypericn," (so much admited by Byron,) "The Eve of Et. Agnes," &c., with his lyrics and missellanics. Very carefully has this volume been printed, the suthor's punctuation and spelling being exactly preserved. For example, the opening ing example, incomparing the opening the opening line of "Endymion," misprinted even in E. H. Butler's superb edition, is here given as Kests wrote it-"A thing of beluty is a joy for ever"--the American eactom being to join the two closing words into one, whereby it is liable to be read fore ever, instead of for ever. There is a Life of Keats prefixed to the Poems. We behave that it was writ-ten by Professor J. R. Lowell. Barring that it is predessing neutlent and even an anulath in its credineedlessly petulant, and even snappish, in its critiit gives an inferenting account of Keats. In page 15, we find this high-counding sentence, "A man ean-not have a senergous nature and be pachydermatous at the same time." Perhaps Professor Lowell admires the word pachydermalous as much as the old vil-lage dame admired "that grand word Mesopotamia" in the Minister's sermon, but we cannot see why, writing for the million, he did not rather use the intelligible synonyme hick-skinned. The criticism upon the poetry and the character of Kests, (pp. 25-29, which closes this biography, atones for this lit-tle pedantry. Bir. Lowell, himself a poet, is just, as well as elequent, in his estimate of Keats. A por. trait of the peet adds value to the book. A triffe smaller in size is a new edition of Burns, in two voluates. A very complete edition it is, giving not only all his acknowledged poems, but a few attributed to him. Here is given a copy of Nacamith's well-known portrait of Burns, his biography, an index of titles, an index of first lines, and a glossary of words of the Scottish dia-lect-that Doric patols which he so effectively em-

There is no such thing as linck, but to every effect there eeed in anything he undertakes, you may make up your mind that there is a good cause for his being what is called unlueky. If men do not know the worth of money, then it is a great evil. Aften should be systematic in their business. There is a great deal in this, but to be sure there are excep-tions to it. Persons may be too systematical. They may put a thing away carefully and not be able to indit again. [Laughter.] Men should not engage is business which they do not understand. You will find that the majority of persons who become bankroup the the way invest in what are called outside transactions, and, not understanding them, lose all. A person should never endorse a note for another. Even your filends may be too systemation in their way, they invest in what are called outside transactions, and, not understanding them, lose all. RECRUITING. - Captain Mahlon Wanner LECRUITING. — Capitain attained wallder, the United States recruiting agent of the Fourth district, recruited, last week no less than one hun-dred and twenty two good solid men for the na-tional service. Ite will have recruited by Wedges-day evening another full company. Thus the strong arm of the nation is being strengthened. The re-cruiting is going on lively.

SUDDEN DEATH.-Lydia Cole, aged forty vears, who lived as a domestic in the family of Mr. Newlio, was selzed with hemorrhage on Saturday night, about nine O'clock, on Arch street, her Ninth, and diel upon the doorsteps of Mr. Vinton's drug store. Coroner Taylor held an inquest, and a verdict of death from natural causes was rendered.

BOUNTY MONEY PAID.—The sum of sbout $225,000 was paid by the Oity Treasurer during last week as bounty to recruits. This money was raised through the personal exertions of Mr. Bumm, the treasurer, on the contemplated or authorized tops of $2,000,000.

FATAL ACCIDENT. On Saturday after-noon, a man named James Spiers, while driving a pair of horses attached to a wagon, near Twenty-second and Market streets, fell, was run over, aud diad in a short time. Mr. Spiers was employed on the farm of Joseph Allen, near Darby.

arm of Joseph Allen, new Dawy. FROM FOREIGN PORTS.—The bark Andes, from Tribidad de Cuba, and the schooner Tantauzzi from Cienfurgos, strived at this port on Saturday, bringing the following catgoes: 365 hogsheads and 45 tierces of augar, 247 hogsheads and 22 tierces of molacers. FROM NEW ORLEANS .- The brig Julia, Captain Smith, arrived at this port on Saturday with the following eargo: 137 hus of sugar, 236 barrels and 20 haif-barrels of molasses.

OFFICIAL.—I'the official ingures in regard to rectuiting are exactly what the people want. Here they are, as obtained from Mr. Waterman, the chief clerk in the military department, where all the recruits are registered. During the week ending on Saturday, 13th Inst., 753 mea were mustered in. This rumber, however, is exclusive of the reports of the provest marshals. These reports will probably be made this week. It is estimated they will foot up to five on six hundred.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE BIRTH OF WASH-instron.-This day week hence will be the anniver-sary of the birth of Washington, whose name, if lossible, is more fordly cheristed now among the interds of the Union than ever. There is patiotic music in the name of Washington. It steals upon our senses like a sweet dream, and inspires the pa-triot to take courage now in the hour of the national touble. Praiseworthy efforts are being made to celebrate the day in a whole-couled, patriotic style, auch as the ringing of bells, the firing of canon, the eisplay of the National and State fags, grand ova-tion of the veteran and other regiments now in the eity; grand cirls turn out; the reading of the Fare-well Address of the Father of our Country; bonfires and illuminations at night; the suspension of busi-fess generally, and a winding up of a brilling the riay of price ires by the National Union League, National Club, or any other body of patriotic men. In the military hospitals the day will not be for-gotten. Every our should be open for one hour in the morning, and the ministers, every one of them, should read the Farewell Address. It should also be read in every public school, in fact, hundreds of thousands of copies of that great dooument ought to be priced and distributed to the people gratitious-ly. In a cirle parade, that might be speedily inau-furget the parade, that might be speedily inau-purated, the press could illuminate the people with the bright elequence of Washington. Little, Brown. & Co.'s recent publications, several Little, Brown. A Co.s feeth fullications, Beyerai prose works. Here, in two volumes, entitled "Scenes and Thoughts in Europe," by that highly accomplished scholar, Mr. G. H. Calvert, of Boston, author of "The Gentleman," published last year, Mr. Calvert gives his impressions of Europe, during two prolorged tours; a volume to cach visit. The first opens in July, 1840, with his visit to Wordsworth, at Ambleside, and closes with his departure from Rome, in April, 1843 — in the inter-val he had largely visited notable places, and seen noticeable persons in England, France, Belgium, Germany, Swi'zerland, and Italy. The second covers the tour, from July, 1850, on the Raine, from July, 1651, in the Louvre. The tour extended con-siderably throughout Germany, into Switzerland, and ended in Paris. All through these volumes a cultivated mind and refined taste can be trassed. Mr. Calvert's criticisms upon works of art and relics of antiquity are fresh and natural. In the second volume, a chapter of over one hundred pages contains much common sense about French polities and other volumes are "Selections from the Works of

Other volumes are "Selections from the Works of Jeremy Taylor," with some account of his life and writings. These specimens will show how differ-ent in language, so well as in thought, was Bisbor Taylor-aman of genius, if ever the Anglican Church produced one.—"The United States Commission ; a Sketch of ifs Purposes and its Work," was compiled from documents and private papers, and was written in sid of the Biston Fair for the United States Sanitary Commission. It really is a history of the greatest because most prastical ait that Christian benevolence ever gave to alleviate tha-horrors of war, and a contributed chapter to tha-nanals of humanity. Tis author claims the merit of accuracy, having served on the Commission from the first.—Like. A. C. Hopkinson's "Hints for the Numery; or, The Young Mother's Guide," is a ra-tional treatize on the physical and moral training of children.—There is also a new clition of the well-known "Setmers of Oansolation," by F. W. P. Greenwood, D. D., late Minister of King's Chapel, Boston. They are arranged, not according to the date at whick esch was preached, but according to Jeremy Taylor," with some account of his life and writings. These specimens will show how differ-ent in language, as well as in thought, was Bistop children. There is also a new edition of the well-known "Sermers of Consolstion," by F. W. P. Greenwood, D. D., late Minister of King's Chapel, Boston. They are stranged, not according to the date at which each was preached, but according to subject, so as to give an unity to the whole subject, so as to give an unity to the whole. Lastly, there is a new and improved, as well as enlarged and remodelled, edition, (being the fourth.) of "Familiar Quotations." Here is what the com-piler modestly calls an attempt to trace to their sources passages and phrases in common use, chiefly from English authors. A copious verbal index is given, and an index of two hundred and fifty authors, given, and an index of two hundred and fifty authors, besides the Bible, who have been laid under con-tribution. The purely English authors quoted from commence with Shakepeare, and include living men-Tennyson and Bryant, Halleck and Barry Cornwell, Sprague and Emerson, Lowell and Bulwer. The verbal index fills seventy pages of small type, in double column, and truly may be described as exhaustive. Even well-read persons, going through this volume, will be surprised at finding with what authors quotations most familiar really originated. Whether un-consciously or not, the most productive and popular subsciously of not, the most product of and populations appear to have plagiarized not only ideas and images, but actual expression, from preceding writers. It would not be uninstructive to show inmay attempt it come open day, when the eternal and verbose war intelligence allows the required ----
