SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1864. THE WAR. Winter Life in the Army of the Potomac, (Correspondence of the Tribure.)

HEADQUARTERS, Tuesday, Feb. 16,
A grand review of the cavalry divisions of Gens.
Merritt and Klipatrick took place yesterday afternoon, near Sievensburg. The divisions, which were reviewed by Gen. Pleasonton, were drawn up in the form of a right angle, with their ambulance trains and artillery on each flank, and presented an imposing military appearance. The intensity of the cold in the morning prevented many of the ladies now visiting the samy from witnessing the review. Gen Kilpatrick's division is temporarily commanded by Ool. Bryant, of the 18th Pennsylvania Cavalry, the general having recently been called to Washington on special business by the President. Portions of the 3d and 6th Army Corps were also reviewed yesterday. ndence of the Tribus e.] ton on special business by the President. Portions of the 3d and 6th Army Corps were also reviewed yesterday.

Gen. Micade returned to headquarters by special train yesterday. On his return he was greeted with the exultant atrains of "Hait to the Chief," executed by the band of Colits' Zouaves, which was stationed near his tent awaiting his coming. The General looks remarkably well, and seems to have been materially improved by his sejourn in Philadelphia. During his absence several needful improvements have been neatly policed, and hedges and suches of evergiene erceted, which add much to the natural beauty of the location, and exhibit true soldiely order and tastefulness.

While the samy is lying in its winter chrysalis, the troops are not unmindful of the necessity for healtful recreation and mental improvement. Ballplaying is a very sommon amusement, and groups of coloiers may be seen, whenever the weather will permit, indulging in that exhibitarating pastime. In Culpeper the members of the 14th New York Regiment have established a school for instruction in the common and higher English branches, which is well attended, and competent gentlemen of the 1st Almy Corps are employed as instructors. A concert-room has also been fitted up in Culpeper, and entertainments given by members of the 14th, which are largely attended. The proceeds of the concerts are to be devoted to the arection of a monument to the late General Reynolds. At Stevensburg the members of Gen. Kupatrick's ataff have established a theatre and hyceum, which promise to afford much amusement and instruction during the continuance of winter. Several prominent lecturers have been invited, and have consecuted to detiver addresses on topics calculated to interest the members of the association.

GEN. BUTLER'S COLORED TROOPS. A correspondent writes from Norfolk: One of the nost significant, as well as remarkable features of A correspondent writes from Norfolk: One of the most significant, as well as remarkable features of Gen. Butler's administration here, is the success attending the enlistment and organization of negro regiments. Berives the three infantry regiments, he has now two of colored cavalry, forth well filled, and one of them the first organized anywhere in the country. And if these men can march on foot, what can't they perform in the way of riding? We had a case in illustration only a few days since. Their horses were all young and fresh, grain-fed, and mettlesome; among others a colt, so wild and restive that it seemed impossible that he ever could be subdued. The quict eye of a colored boy fairly beamed with delight as he craved the chance of riding the colt. No sooner was he mounted than the circus was, put far in the shade. Such lofty rearing, kicking, and shaking, would have appalled even a Rarey. Failing to unseat its rider, the vicious beast lay down and rolled over, but when he rose again the boy was still clumping to his back? "You can squeeze dis chile much's you like, but yes can't get dis darkee off nohow," and it couldn't.

In music, too, they are natural experts. I was shown a boy, certainly not over seventeen, and probably not more than fifteen, who ten days previous had never seen a bugle, while on the occasion of the review his efforts in that line fairly eclipsed the rotund reuton' who used to strain his cheeks so fear fully on Barnum's balcony.

REGISTRY OF VOTERS.

[From the New Orleans Era, February 10.]

It will be noticed that we have secured already in the Parishes of Orleans and Jefferson enough votes to amount to about one-tenth of the aggregate vote in the State at the last Presidential election. But this should be no reason for the relaxation of our efforts. We can and should poll, in the loyal portions of this State, on the 22d inst., 10,000 votes.

A SPEECH BY ME. HAHN.

Hon. Michael Hahn made a speech at a ratification meeting a few evenings since, and said:

FLLOW OITIZENS: I congratulate you on the evident change in the public mind with regard to the Union within the last two years. The cause of our country and of freedom is making rapid and gigantic strides.—The spirit of rebellion is fast giving way to love for our Union, and before many months clapse we will again be a united, happy, and powerful people. God, in his infinite mercy, will not allow this country and this people to become permanently divided. The cause of justice is the cause of the Union.

"Thrice is he armed, who hath his quarrel just." REGISTRY OF VOTERS.

"Thrice is he armed, who hath his quarrel just."

When the spirit of secession first raised its head in this city, in 1869. I was the first man to offer a resolution of devotion to the Union, at a public meeting on this very square. I have continued to love the Union ever since, all through the darkest hours of this rebellion. It does not become me to speak of myself, but, in conclusion, I must say that if I am elected your Governor I will enter on the discharge of my duties perfectly free and untrammeled, without any pledges, except those of the principles with which you are all familiar, and with a determination to do justice to all men. Let each and every one of us go to the polls on the 22d, and vote for the men of our choice. Let us cast a large vote, whether for or against me, so that our friends in the North may see that Louisians is in truth fully returning to the Union.

AMUSEMENTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

Geo. Banks is showing greattact in the manner in which he is endeavoring to win over the people by timely and considerate attention to their peculiar customs and fancies, wherever they can be indulged without militating against healthy authority. If wrote you recently respecting a grand promenade concert, which took place at the new French Opera House. Another one takes place tonight, even more brilliant than the last, and to terminate with dancing. How far the people will respond to these efforts to gratify them, in the present bitter and troubled concition of the public mind with regard to political matters, remains to be seen; but these attempts are none the less praiseworthy, and cannot but prove highly beneficial.

Beside this promenade concert, another singular and to us Northerners, novel feature, marks the advent of this day of festivity—Mardi Gras. The maskers who last year were prohibited from carrying on their mummeries in the streets, and many of whom were—through some innocent misunderstanding—caught and locked up in the calaboose all night for infinging the laws, are to-day allowed full license in all their strange vagaries. As I write, males and females, in the strangestattire and every conceivable form of masks, are to be seen dashing through the streets in carriages, or strolling along in squads of half a dozen, followed by a crowd of laughing and screaming children—of all ages. sexes, and colors. The new comer, who never asw anything of the kind before, stops to gape and wonder what all such nonsense means; but the old stagers, who can remember when the wealthy citizens of New Orleans joined in such sports, and thought nothing of squandering each from one to ten or twenty thousand dollars upon every Mardi Gras, shake their desponding heads, button-hole you to talk of the glories of the past, and wind up with the invariable, "Ah! we shall never see those times again!" AMUSEMENTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

we shall never see those times again!"

MERTING OF THE COLORED PROPLE.

A meeting of the colored people of this city was held last evening, in the Lyceum Hall, to meet Colored McKsy, one of the commissioners appointed by the President to investigate the condition of the negroes emancipated by act of Congress and the President's proclamation of January 1, 1863. Long before the hour of commencement every seat in the vast hall was filled, and soon the asiles and all available standing places were density packed above and below. It is no exaggeration to say that a more raspectable audience, so far as external appearances were concerned, was never assembled in New Orleans. spectable audience, so far as external appearances were concerned, was never assembled in New Orleans.

Upon the close of the remarks of Colonel McKay, a committee was appointed to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting, and while they were absent, Mr. J. B. Noble was called upon to address the assembly. He stated that there were two classes introduced here, one of slaves from the wilds of Africa—an ignorant, degraded people—and the other an intelligent, educated, enlightened, and wealthy class from Jamalea and Cuba; that they had contributed by their labors to the wealth and prosperity of Louisians; that they had always obeyed the laws and paid their taxes promptly, school tax and all, though they had never resped any advantage from it until within the last year. They wanted public schools; they wanted to be recognized as men; they wanted the odious Black Code done away with.

After Mr. Noble had concluded his remarks, in the course of which he related an instance of the workings of the Black Code, which affected many of the audience to tears, the following resolutions were reported by the committee, and after being read in French and English, were adopted:

Whereas, His Excellency, the President of these United States, (elt it his duty to inquire into the condition of the colored people of Louisiana, for the realization of their new position in social life, to sustain themselves and implant a spirit of independent and free manhood into the minds of their de-

Resolved, That a committee of saven gentlemen be appointed by the chair to extend an invitation to Mr. Frederick Douglass, inviting him to visit our city at such time as may best suit his earliest convenience.

THE ESCAPE FROM RICHMOND. Full Particulars by one of the Escaped Coloneis.

cunt of the escape of the Union prisoners now in Washington:

"Over two months ago, the officers confined in Libby Prison conceived the idea of effecting their own exchange, and after the matter had been seriously discussed by seven or eight of them, they undertook to dig for a distance toward a sewer running into the basin. This they proposed doing by commencing at a point in the cellar, near a chimney. This cellar was immediately under the hospital, and was the receptable for refuse straw thrown from the beds when they were changed, and for other refuse matter. COMING INTO THE LIGHT.

COMING INTO THE LIGHT.

"Colonel W. P. Kendrick, of West Tennessee; Captain D. J. Jones, of the 1st Kentucky Cavality; and Licutenant R. Y. Bradford, of the 2d West Tennessee, were detailed as a rear guard, or rather to go out last, and from a window Colonel Kendrick and his companions could see the fugitives waik out of a gate at the other end of the enclosure of the carriage house, and fearlessly move off. The aperture was so narrow that but one man could get through at a time, and each squad carried with them provisions in a haverseck. At midnight, a false claim was created, and the prisoners made considerable noise in getting to their respective quarters. Providentially, however, the guard suspected nothing wrong, and in a few moments the exodus was again commenced. ining wrong, and in a lew moments the exolus was again commenced.

"HALF PAST TWO AND ALL'S WELL."

"Between 1 and 2 o'clock, the lamps were extinguished in the streets, and then the exit was more safely accomplished. There will many officers who desired to leave, who were extensed the streets, and feeble that they were dragged through the tunnel by main force, and carried to places of safety, until auch time as they would be able to move on their journey. At 2½ o'clock, Captain Jones, Colonel Kendrick, and Lieutenant Biadford passed out in the order in which they are ramed, and as Colonel Kendrick emerged from the hole, he heard the guard, within a few feet of him, sing out, "Post No. 7, bai-past two in the morning, and all's well." Colonel K. says he could hardly resist the temptation of saying, 'not so well as you think, except for the Yalks."

EXPERIENCE OF A PARTY OF THREE. "A description of the route pursued by this party and of the tribulations through which they passed, will give some idea of the rough time they all had of it. Colonel Kendrick had, before leaving the prison, mapped out his course, and concluded that and of the tribulations through which they passed, will give some idea of the rough time they all had of it. Colonel Kendrick had, before leaving the prison, mapped out his course, and concluded that the best rouse to take was the one towards Norfolk or Fortress Monroe, as there were fewer rebel pickets in that direction. They therefore kept the Yolk River Railroad to the left and moved towards the Chick shominy river. They passed through Boar Swamp, and crossed the road leading to Bittom Bridge. Sometimes they wased through mud and water simost up to their necks, and kept the Hottom Bridge road to their left, although at times they could see and hear the Gars travelling ofer the York river road.

"While passing through the swamp near the Chickshominy, Celonel Kendrick sprained his ankle and fell. Fortunate, too, was that fall for rim and his party, for while he was lying there one of them chanced to look up, and saw in a direct line with them a swamp bridge, and in the dim outline they could perceive that parties with muskes were passing over the bridge. They, therefore, moved some distance to the south, and after passing through more of the swamp, reached the Unickshominy about four miles below Bottom Bridge. Here now was a difficulty. The river was only twenty feet wide, but it was very deep, and the refugees were worn out and fatigued. Ohanoing, however, to look up, Lieutenant Bradford six what two trees had fallen on either side of the river and that their branches were interlocked. By arawling up one tree and down the other, the fugitive reached the traver that a fatigue on the morning of the 11th, when they continued on their way, keeping eastwardly as near as they could. Up to this time they had had nothing to est, and we almost familshed. About noon of the lith they met several negroes, who gave them information as to the whereabouts of the rebel pickets, and furnished PRIENDLINESS OF THE NEGROES.

"Acting under the advice of these friendly negroes, they remained quietly in the woods until darkness had zet in, when they were furnished with a comfortable supper by the negroes, and after dark proceeded on their way, the negroes (who everywhere showed their friendship to the fugitives) having first directed them how to avoid the rebell pickets. That night they passed a camp of rebels, and could plainly see the smoke and camp fire. But their weary feet gave out, and they were compuled to stop and rest, having only marched five miles that day.

"They started again at daylight on the 13th, and after moving awhile through the woods, they saw a negro woman working in a field, and called her to them, and from her received directions, and were told that the rebel pickets had been about there look-for the fugitives from Libby. Here they laid low again, and resumed their journey when darkness set in, and marched five miles, but halted until the morning of the 14th, when the journey was resumed.

"At one point they met a negro in the field, and "At one point they met a negro in the field, and she told them that her mistress was a Secesh woman, and that she had a son in the rebel army. The party, however, were exceedingly hungry, and they determined to secure some food. This they did by boldly approaching the house, and informing the mistress that they were fugitives from Norfolk, who had been driven out by Builer; and the Secesh sympathies of the woman were at once aroused, and she gave them of her substance, and started them on their way with directions how to avoid the Yankee soldiers, who occasionally soouted in that visinity. This information was exceedingly valuable to the refugees, for by it they discovered the whereabouts of the Federal forces.

THE OLD FLAG IN SIGHT.

"When about afteen miles from Williamsburg the party came upon the main road, and found the tracks of a large body of cavalry. A piece of paper found by Captain Jones satisfied him that they were Union gavalry, but his companions were suspicious, and avoided the road, and moved forward, and at the Burnt Ordinary' (about ten miles from Williamsburg) awaited the return of the cavalry that had moved up the road, and from behind a fence corner where they were secreted the fugitives asw the flag of the Union supported by a squadron of cavairy, which proved to be a detachment of Colonel Spear's 11th Pennsylvania Regiment, sent out for the purpose of picking up escaped prisoners. Col. Kendick says his feelings at seeing the old flag were indescribable.

"From these officers we learn that there is a widespread Union feeling in Richmond. Jeff Davis is held in detestation, but all who do not heartly endorse the rebel-Government are spotted and watched.
There are at this time eighteen persons confined in Casile Thunder on charges of attempts to assassinate the rebel President. These prisoners also confirm the report that an attempt was made to burn Jeff's mansion, and that one morning his servants found a coffin upon his porch. THE PRISONERS ON BELLE ISLE.

"The officers also report the fact that some time ago, through the aid of citizens, they obtained communication with the soldiers on Beile Isie, and there were to be concerted movements to escape. The soldiers had been inraished with arms, which they had secreted. The officers at Libby were to secure the guards there, and act in concert with the Belle Isie men; but, just as the affair was ready to be carried into execution, the project was exposed. Suspicion at once rested upon a certain Union lieutenant colonel, who was in favor with the rebel authorities, had the freedom of the city, and moyed about at will in the hospitals and elsewhere. He had been suspected for some time, and one day was accused of exposing the affair. for some time, and one day was accused of exposing the affair.

"The indignation of the officers, whose plans had thus been thwarted through the perfidy of (as they believed) one of their number, cannot be described. Some cried out, 'Hasg him! hang him!' One rau to his blanket, and, tearing it in strips, said he had a rope ready; and others were in favor of pitching the fellow out of the window, and letting his brains bespatter the pavement below. Wiser counsels, however, prevailed, and it was concluded that it was better to let the traitor live and report him to his Government, if opportunity ever offered. The lieutenant colonel, we understand, will be reported to the War Office. His excuse is that he informed a Federal officer in hospital of the attempted escape, and that a tebel surgeon overheard the conversation."

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs, the Hon. W.

just appreciation of the character and condition of the loyal Indians. On page 18th of his report for country, than have the loyal Indians." * * * *

The Cherokee Agent to the Superintendent of Indian Affairs, speaking of the issue of provisions to the destitute, says: "There are many who do not apply for provisions at all. And still a great many more, who live near the lines of Missouri and Arksman, who have been robbed of every animal upon which to travel, and of their dothing, so that they have neither horses to ride, nor clothing to wear, while coming here to get provisions."

Of the rebel raids he says: "They kill all the men and large boys they can catch. They hardly ever kill a woman, but they rob them of their horses and provisions whenever they can."

"Parties of robbers and murders come across the Arkansas, rob and murder, and carry off their plunder, within fifteen miles of this place." (Fort Gibeon.) Gibeon.)

DRAR SIR: We are in the midst of the severest weather I have ever experienced in this country; 1863 closed with one of the coldest and most furious storms of snow, siest, and wind that I have ever seen, and tableted in 1884 with the thermometer several degreef below zero. Since then until yeaterday there has not been the slightest thaw even before the nocoday sun, the mercury ranging from 4 to 14 degrees above zero. The Grand and Arkansas rivers are frozen hard, and horsemen and teams cross to and fro on the ice. A view from the river bank, with the Indians walking on the ice and carrying heavy logs of wood, reminded me of regions far north of this. The suitering has been great. A few persons, two Oreeks and a Shawnee, are reported frozen to death. The women, and children, and soldiers have had a fearful time of regions far north of this. The suitering has been great. actual destitution, but positive suffering. While Watie was about Park Hill his party killed While Watle was about Park Hill his party killed nine or ten men on that raid, including two pickets near here—Wm. O. Ross, at Park Hil; old Charles Naming, and others. In the fight at Shelton's place he was whipped by our men, and had some of his party killed.

Among the victims of violence I regret to add the name of David Vann. He was at home; a party of six men rode up to his house, just at dark, called him out on the porch, and shot him through the head, just above the left eye. Hadded instantly. His wife and daughter were present. The latter wa'ked alone that night to Mrs. Williams', from ten to fifteen miles, to obtain help to bury him. The deed is charged upon six white men, supposed to be Texans or Mussourians.

Colonel Phillips has been addressed by some of the leading men in regard to future farming operations. Nothing definite has been fixed upon that I am advised.
