Letter from General Fremont.

Major General Fremont has written the subjoined letter to the Chairman of the Committee on Mili-tary Affairs in the House, explanatory of his pre-sent position in the army, and his removal from ac-tive service for so long a time:

The pointer in the army, and his removal from ac-tive service for so long a time: NEW YORK, Jan., 1984. GENERAL: The condensed newspaper reports of the House proceedings in relation to unemployed officers places me in a position which I am not will-ing to cocupy withous explanation. I need hardly say to you that it is not by my own wish that I have been unemployed for the past six-teen months. I requested to be releved from my command in the Army of Virginia because I regard-ed the order which reduced me to serve under Gen. Pope as a most unmerited input. I the disorction of the President to refuse or grant my request. The granting of the request simply implied a transfer to other duty, and was not to be taken with the penalty attached. That neither the President nor the Scuetary of War so regarded my conduct, it would be sufficient to mention the repeated assurances I have received from both that they were endesvoring to give me a command so the the close of the last session of Congress a highly important command was expressly arranged for me by the Sceretary of War. The command for the President ; but it was finally given to another officer.

bation of the President; but it was finally given to another officer. Under the condition, therefore, of waiting orders, I have reasonably been dealrous to retain, against the contingency of entering immediately upon ser-vice, a small number of useful offisers upon whose tried ability I could rely for any emergency. Of this number, several have the experience of many years in their profession. From the beginning of the war they have been in our service, and left comfortable homes and successful business to congate in it. The same pathotic motives which led them to enter the service naturally impelled them to wish to continue in the profession.

service naturally impelled them to wish to continue in it. It has not been pleasant for them to eat the bread of didners, and they have occasionally felt it almost a duty to resign; but they have respected my request to remain, in the hope of finally going into active acrice. As respects their pay, reduced as it is by absence from cuty, it is barely sufficient for the support of themselves and families. I have not thought this a severe tax upon the State, bearing in mind the fast that they have shed their blood or rendered it distinguished and valuable service, and have been always ready to do it again. As regards my pay, I think it right to say, since that question has been raised, that since the close of the last session of Congress 1 have considered it a coordingly. I have regularly drawn it, breasus I con-sider it something belonging with my commission, and I do not wish to seem by any neglect to acqui-ense in my position of force i reliment from army duties. But it has merely passed through my hands back by the people from whom I received it, and
