Testimonial to Edwin Forrest.

[From the Washington Chrontole.]

A distinguished company assembled on Wednesday evening, at the residence of Mr. J. W. Forney, in honor of the great American tragedian. Amongst them were Vice Pres'dent Hamilu, Secretary Usher, Senators Foot, Lane, Morgan, Chandler, Wilkinson; Representatives Kelley and Moorheat; Dan. Dougherty, Eq., of Philadelphia, Mr. McCullough, Dr. Elder, Gen. Sickles, Col. Green, Mayor Wallach, and a number of other prominent gentlemen. After partaking of a bountiful repast, the company were called to order, and Mr. Forney announced that they had assembled in honor of one who had achieved the prondest triumphs in the most difficult of professions. The name of Edwin Forrest was identified with the history of the American stage. He has won his way through many opposing obstacles, by dint of energy and genius, to the head of his profession. It was meet, in this great struggle, which has developed so much of ability and worth in every department of effort, but especially in the tented field—(he saw before him now one whose mutilated body bore avidence of his gancrous devotion to his country)—that they should pay tribute to one who had adonned the stage by his noble impersonations of the creation of the world's master spirits.

Mr. Forrest was loudly called upon. He came Testimonial to Edwin Forrest.

Mr. Forrest was loudly called upon. He came there with no thought of speech-making. He had no intention or any such expectation until a moment ago. He was rot gifted with "action, nor utterance, nor the power of speech," or he would appropriately acknowledge the high compliment paid him. As it was, he could only return his thanks. His friend had alluded to the difficult character of his profession. Great actors were rare. It required a peculiar combination of qualities seldom uniting in one person, to secure the highest success in the profession. In his long and varied career he had known of but two really great actors—one was Edmund Kean, and the other was Le Matra. The first he had personally known, and the other he had never met. Mr. Forest then gave a very interesting reminiscence of his first association with Kean, He was but a lad when called on to play lago to the greatest Olicello that ever tood the boards. The great actor did not attend the rehearsal, and he went through his part with perturbation, for it was the play of "Hamlet," with Hamlet omitted. He called on him after rehearsal, and stated the object of his visit. Kean reassured him. saving. "My boy, I do play of "Hamiet," with Hamiet omitted. He called on him after rehearsal, and stated the object of his visit. Kean reassured him, saying, "My boy, I do not care where you appear or how you make your exit, so that you keep in sight, and always in the same line with me." There was a piano in the room, covered with empty glasses, evidences of de-bauch, the rings made by them covering its glossy surface. Kean asked if he had ever heard him sing, and, on a negative response, opened the plane and sang, in a style he, Mr. F., had never heard sur-passed, that beautiful melody of Moore, ending

Kean, that child of genius, was himself the vase around which still clung the scent of the roses. Mr. Forrest's speech was warmly applauded, and at the close he cashed on his friend Dan. Dougherty, Esq., who told one of his happiest and most amusing atories, which was followed by a highly effective recitation of "Shamus O'Brien," from Mr. McGullough; and so, with story, laugh, and jest, the winged hours sped rapidly onward, bringing to an undesired close an entertainment whose charms will long linger in the memories of the happy participants. —At Dubuque, on St. Patrick's Day, Mr. Jones, late minister to Bogota, responded to the toast of the United States as follows:

"Gentlemen, I beg you to believe me when I as sure you candidly that I had no idea when I came here to night that it should become my duty to respond to any of the sentiments which might be propounded here on this occasion, and, least of all, do I feel able to express myself fitly and freely in answer to the toast you have just read. To speak in response to a toast regarding the United States of Speaker 1st. sponse to a toast regarding the United States of America is to me embarrassing in the highest degree. Where are the United States of America? Echo answers—'Where?' There are no United States of America to night. I fear there never will be any more any United States of America. If the toast appointed for me to respond to had been the dis United States of America, I could have responded with far greater case. * * * * I is possible that the South may be conquered; it is possible that the South may be conquered; it is possible that the South may be conquered; it is possible they have been, and as I fear they will hereafter be, by the British Lion. * * * * But if England had not interfered the history might have been different. When the war commenced Victoria promised to be neutral, the other Governments of Europe promised to be neutral; but England basely violated her plighted honor; the European Governments have not been neutral; if they kad, the Southern States would have been free long ago."

This was the only speech we heard on which we

PERSONAL. - Rev. Byron Sunderland, for eleven years pasto of the Four and a half street Presbyterian Church, in Washington, has received an invitation from the Ame-rican and Foreign Christian Union, to fill the present vacancy in the American Chapel at Paris, with the understanding that the appointment is for four years, t nless earlier terminated by unforseen providential direumstances. The matter was presented at a full meeting of the congregation on Monday, and a resolution was adopted granting him leave of absence for the period designated. In the trying times of 861, when many of his members went off with the secession tide, he stood firm upon the side of the Union, Constitution, and the Right, and he distinct ly stated in his letter accepting the call, with reference to the rumor of the recognition of the South ern Confederacy by France, that he would not stay in Paris a single day after such a recognition took

- Notwithstanding the assurances which we have Mexico, recognize the Southern Confederacy, we learn by a correspondent that John Slidell, the representative of the Confederates in France, asked an audience of the Archduke Maximilian, in Paris, recently, to which a ready assent was given, with the proviso that it met the approval of the Emperor of the French. That approval was immediately and distinctly refused. The French organs say that Government is so full of complications with Poland, Italy, and other Powers that it cannot afford to get into trouble with the United States. - A few weeks ago the English Minister in Dres den gave a ball in Meinholdt's Hotel, to which he invited the King and Queen, Princes, and the Court, and all the English. Being unaccustomed to give auch entertainments, and his wife young and inex perienced, he ordered supper for only two hundred, and invited four hundred. The confusion that ensued may be easily imagined, when the guests attempted to sit down to supper and found so little provision had been made for their appetites. Finding there was nothing to be had they walked off very much disgusted, making many animadversions on the "English style of giving balls."

— A lady, who having recently visited the Army of the Potomac, thus briefly describes the general she saw there: "I saw General Meade, who is tal and slender, has a full iron-grey beard, wears eye glasses, and did not strike me as more formidable or ferocious than other men. I saw General Kilpa trick who, instead of being the tall, dashing, flashing eyed hero of our imagination, is small and slight, with lightish hair, and laughs unceasingly. I saw General Sedgwick, who is merry looking, and no at all the austere patriot he has been represented. - The rebel General Pemberton says. in his off cial report, that he selected the 4th of July for the surrencer of Yicksburg, because he knew that the "Yankees" would attach great importance to the entrance on that day. He says he was willing to gratify the vanity of the enemy in order to obtain better terms for his army than could be extorted at - In the Wilkes court martial Saturday, the dence asked permission to summon Lord Lyons, the British minister, and Secretary Welles, as witness er. The court decided that it had no authority to compel the attendance of the British minister, but that Secretary Welles might be summoned. - Liebig, the illustrious chemist, says, on the subject of the cidium in vines and the potato disease:

that the cause is not in the atmosphere, as many people supposed, but in a want of vigor and an exhaustion of the soil, which defect may be remedied by the use of bone powder and ashes. - The Washington correspondent of the Norris town Free Press, states that the full-length portrait of ex. President Franklin Pierce has been removed the rotunds of the Capitol, and cast among the

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.—A frightful occurrence, resulting in the loss of three valuable lives, took place on Wednesday at the soal works of A. D. Smith & Bro., Makeesport. As one of the cars, laden with cosl, had commenced descending the inclined plane leading from the mouth of the pit to the river, the fastening gave way, and rushed down the track with feasiful velocity. At the foot of the plane a number of men were engaged in loading a the track with feastful velocity. At the foot of the plane a number of men were engaged in loading a coal barge lying in the river directly under the "tipple," while on the "tipple," itself was a car which was being unloaded. The men tried to get out of the way, but the velocity with which the descending car approached left them but little opportunity, to escape the danger. The car struck that on the track with fearful force, forcing it over the "tipple," into the barge, and scattering the coal and timbers in every direction. Mr. W. Nichols, foreman of the works and one of the owners, was standing in the barge at the time, and was knocked overboard. His body was recovered soon after, but life was extinct. John Kane and Joseph Wells, who were engaged in unloading the car on the "tipple," were knocked from the platform into the barge and instantly killed, their bodies being badly mutilated. Another of the hands, James Forden, had one of his legs fractured and was otherwise dangerously injured. He is not expected to recover. William Oopeland, also employed at the works, was injured considerably, but his life is not in danger. Kane was a married man and leaves a family. The others were unmarried.—Pillsburg Chronicte.

A "McLelen" Meeting,—The following handbill for a Copperhead meeting, at Phonixville, was conspicuously posted up in that neighborhood a week or so ago. The spelling is so admirable that we give it verbatim:

Malignant Fryer.—The Village Record gives an account of the family of a Mr. Hill, who recently moved into West Chester, and occupied a dwelling which had been shut up for nearly two years. On Monday night of last week all went to bed apparently in the usual health. On Tuesday, four young daughters, aged eight, ten, twelve, and fourteen years, were taken sick; one died on Wednesday, snother on Thursday; on Thursday they were buried in the same grave. By this time the mother and another boy were sick—the mother unconscious. On Sunday morning another of the children died. We understand the other members of the family were moved on Sunday to another house. The disease is considered by physicians malignant typhoid fever, although it is reported by some spotted fever.

THE 102D REGIMENT.—The old 13th Regiment, Colonel Patterson in command, arrived in Pittaburg on Saturday, and met with a most enthusiastic reception. They were met at the depot by a large crowd, including the Mayor and several prominent citizens, and escorted to the City Hall, where the Subsistence Committee served them up an excellent meel.

SUICIDE.—On the night of the 21st inst., Josiah Davidheiser, a young man of about 25 years of age, of New Hanover township, Montgomery county, committed suicide by drowning himself in a mill-dam, about half a mile from home. It is supposed that the act was committed during a temporary depression of spirits. An inquest was held, and a verdict rendered in accordance with the facts.

NAVAL CAPPERINE.—A vecapely having occurred idet rendered in accordance with the facts.

NAVAL CADETSHIP.—A vacancy having occurred in the Naval Cademy cadetship, for the Ninth Congressional district—Lancaster county—Hon. Thaddeus Stevens, M. O. for that district gives notice through the county papers that it will be given to the best boy in attendance at the public schools in the county, who passes the best examination before a board composed of leading citizens.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—On Thursday night, as the Western train was leaving the Lehigh Valley Dopot, a map, who had intended going with it, actentally stepped off the frestle works and fell some fitteen or eighteen feet, breaking an arm and a leg. His fall was not noticed at the time, and the poor fellow lay in terrible agony until the next morning, when he was removed to a house in the neighborhood and surgical attendance procured.—Easton Express.

During her absence the house took fire in some way, and burned down. The children perished in the fiames. The oldest was but four years of age. We cannot conceive of anything more horrible than an occurrence of this kind. It shows how careful mothers should be in leaving their little ones alone with fire near them.

New ROLLING MILL.—The building of the new NEW ROLLING MILL.—The building of the new rolling mill of Messrs. Minizer & Wooten, at Pottstown, is completed, and the proprietors are now engaged in putting in the boilers, steam hammer, furnaces, &c. The other machinery will soon be renaces, &c. The other machinery will soon be received, and the mill will be put in operation at an early date.

The proprietors of the Brady's Bend Iron Works, in Armstrong county, subscribed seven thousand dollars to the bounty fund of Brady's Bend township, in which their works are located, the net quots of which, under the former call for 500,000 men, is fifty-five, being more than half of all that was required.

Wood for Paper.—There has been quite an active trade going on in the northern part of Chester county in; poplar wood. At it is demand for making paper. The mills at Springville, Chester county, are very extensive, and are worked by New York capitalists. The price of wood delivered on the line of the Chester Valley Railroad is four and five dollars per cord.

Rafting.—The Surquehanna river has been in excellent rafting order for a week past, and a large quantity of timber and lumber has passed down for the lower markets. These arrivals only constitute the advance fleet of immense quantities yet to some.

THE MONEY MARKET. There was very little excitement on Third street to-lay. Gold was dull at 184@165. Government securities are without change. Money is moderately active at 6 P. The stock market opened weak, notwithstanding favorable advices from New York, and before the close prices generally suffered a decline. The multiplicity of new companies is creating distrust and a desire to realize in the oil and mining companies. There is certainly no occasion for alarm, when it is considered that there is room enough on Oil creek and the surrounding neighborhood for one hundred productive companies, and space enough in Pennsylvania for a hundred first-class coal and from companies, and there is no reason why capital should not seek investment in this channel as well as in rathroad or copper enterprises.
