PHILADELPHIA, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6, 1864. The American Conflict. Under the above title, Horace Greely has announced a work to be completed in two octavo volumes, with portraits, maps, and diagrams, one of which volumes will be published immediately in New York and Chicago, and the other as soon as practicable after the close of the War. The contents of the volume, Mr. Greely says, he has endeavored to make as complete and accurate as possible, and he trusts that the public will find it to be a valuable addition to their libraries. It is published by L. E. Walraven, 719 Chestnut Street.

Gen. Meade and the Battle of Gettysburg. Major-General Meade's military career is the subject of a detailed account in the Philadelphia Press. The article describes his early career, his appointment as commander of the Army of the Potomac, and his decisive victory at Gettysburg on July 1, 1863. It also discusses the political and military challenges he faced during his command.

THE WAR PRESS. (PUBLISHED WEEKLY.) THE NEW YORK PRESS notices the arrival of the 'Gleaner' from Philadelphia, and expresses its appreciation for the paper's contributions to the war effort. It also mentions the arrival of a new issue of the 'Gleaner' and its hope that it will continue to provide readers with timely and accurate news.
