CHARLESTON AS IT IS. HALF THE CITY DESERTED:

[The following letter from a respectable citizen of Charleston. S. C., a Union man, to a gentleman of Philadelphia, gives a faithful account of the city, as it was February 22d, 1864. The statements can be depended upon as accurate and impartial. We publish it literally as written, omitting only names and private matiers .- ED. THE PRESS. ? A great change has come over the city since you left. The population is almost entirely above Wentworth atreet—hardly a soul below Market atreet. The post office is at the corner of King and street; the military headquarters in John street, and above that point. The lower part of the town is given over to Gilmore's shells. [Below Wentworth street are fourteen parallel streets, including the most valuable of the public buildings, stores, and private houses. Cannon street is almost suburban. The deserted portion of the city, from which the bombardment has driven the few inhabitants who remain, occupies about three square miles,— ED. THE PRESS | Probably over five hundred houses have been struck in that part of the town. Your old room in the upper story had a shell ex-plode in it. The prices of living are, in our cur-rency, enormous. Hotels charge from $12 to $20 a. day, and the chappest boarding house is $65 day. day, and the cheapest boarding-house is 46 a day At present rates, it costs me about $600 a month Beef is selling at $3 a pound; sugar (poor brown) at $4.50 a pound; corn whisky $60 to $75 a gallon; oak wood at $56 a cord. You can therefore imagine the pleasures of housekeeping at these rates. A barrel of salmon from Wilmington cost me $405, and I bought a box of herring, which used to cost seventy five cents, to-day, for twenty-five dollars. — has lain in a hiding place for some months to avoid conscription. He does not dere to do even as the owls—go out of nights. Once he was the victim of misplaced confidence; he went to Wilmington to try and get a chance out; he was nabbed, enrolled, and only escaped by jumping from the cars and taking to the woods. Finally, after enduring incredible hardships, and walking seventy-five miles in thirty-three hours, he got back to a place of hiding in Wilmington, whence he returned here, and is now perdu, where only intimate friends can find him. Deserters throng the woods and swamps all over the country; the rebels hunt them as they do negroes, with dogs. — says he saw twenty-two brought in the other day, tied two and two, who had been caught by hounds. Two others were shot in attempting to escape. potism is as bad as it can be, though curses loud and deep are uttered against the Government by many men who were Secessioniats. There is a very large sprinkling of Union men here. It is quite doubtful if there is not a majority in Charleston who are for the Union. The town is very much changed. Scarcely anybody believes that slavery can live much longer. The thing is about up. If the Federalists make the spring campaign what it ought to be, the people will cry "enough." Congress has just passed a law compelling the nding of Contederates notes in four per cent. bonds, before April 1, on penalty of paying a tax of 33% per cent. on the notes after that date, and if they are not funded by January 1, 1865, they are to be taxed 100 per cent. This is repudiation with a ven-geance. Then a tax of 5 per cent. on every thing adds to the delights of our situation. THE WAR IN FLORIDA. [Special Correspondence of The Press.]

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF FLORIDA, JACKBONVILLE, March 30, 1864. The enemy gives us occasional intimations of his

ST. AUGUSTINE THREATENED. During the late attack upon Pilatks, the 10th Regiment Connecticut Volunteers was sent from St. ugustine to the assistance of Colonel Barton. This was soon known to the rebels in the surroundz country, and a force of considerable strength was brought together, which made an advance upon the place. They were kept at bay until the 10th Connecticut had time to be ordered back on the double quick to its defence. It is nearly thirty miles from St. Augustine across the country to Pilatks. On their approach the enemy disappeared. This fact reveals the latent hostility to Federal au-

Yellow Bluff is the highest point of fand in Eastern Florida, and butts up square against the St. John's river, under which the channel runs. In 1862 Rear Admiral Dupont found a formidable bat-tery there, well manned and ready to dispute his tery there, well manned and ready to dispute his passage. A combined land and naval attack was made, and all the guns and a part of the enemy were captured. That navigation might not be interrupted again, two companies of the 55th Regiment Massachusetts (colored) have held the place for some weeks past. On the 23d inst. a report was received and credited that the enemy was in that vicinity threatening the place. The 144th Regiment New York, Col. G. Lewis, was sent into that reenemy had made good his escape. It is very diffiing it at once. I regret to state that during the reconnoissance, Lieut. Joseph Jones was accidentally killed by a pistol shot. He and his captain were in a skiff together; the alarm was given that the enemy was near, the pistol was drawn, and a sudden lurch of the boat caused its discharge. The ball took effect in the heart of the deceased, and he died in a few moments. Lieutenant Jones had seen considerable service : he was a fine officer, and his death is a severe loss to his regiment. On the 27th inst., the news spread from one regiment to another that a change in comral Hatch, the successor of General Seymour in this neral was a stranger, yet there was a general willingness to run all risks, and give him a fair trial. It is generally understood that General Seymour has o bear far more of the responsibility for the Olustee lisaster, than properly belongs to him. This fact has created considerable sympathy in his favor, and he will leave here with the respect and good wishes of the army. The reports current in regard to the ommand of the Department of the South, I do not deem perfectly reliable. It is not doubted that there will be a change made. BRIGADIER GENERAL HATCH was born in Oswego, N. Y., ——, 1820. His father, Col. Hatch, a soldier of the war of 1812, has long been engaged in the mercantile business in that place. His taste for military life decided to some extent the fortunes of his son. In accordance with their mutual wishes, he entered West Point Military Academy in 1886, graduated with honor in 1840, was sent to the frontier with the rank of second ant, where he was on duty at the time the Mexican war broke out. He served under Gen. Taylor till after the storming of Monterey. At Palo Alto he was distinguished for gallantry, for which he was promoted to a first lieutenaucy. He was with the detachment of Taylor's army that was sent to Gen. Scott, and was in all the general engagements that were fought in Mexico. At Ohe-pultepec he was distinguished for bravery, for which he was promoted to a captaincy. He has seen service in California and Oregon. His services in the Army of the Potomac, as commander of cavairy, are well known. In 1862 he was appointed brigadier to-day, amidst the booming of cannon, and congratu lations of his friends, stepped aboard the fine steamer Ben Deford, and started North. The gene-ral impression here is that he will not be laid aside on account of the Olustee affair, but take an important command in the Army of the Potomac. He entered upon the Florida campaign reluctantly, ha-Stock Brokers' Purchase and Sale Books.

If anything is to be done in this department, more than to hold our present position, some radical changes must be effected in influential quarters. The clamor for the appointment of Fremont to this denartment is quite general. Burnside's and Butler's names are also frequently mentioned in this connection.

GENERALS GILMORE AND HATCH left this place on the evening of the 28th inst., for Pilatkar. The object of the visit was to acquaint the new commander of this district with the general situation as soon as possible. Whilst there the enamy, about 400 strong, made an attack upon the place. Our pickets were driven in, but a fierce shelling from the gunboat Ottawa drove the rebels back.
There were no casualties on our side. Pilatkar is a place easily defended. On one side is the St. Johns. and a little back from the town is a series of cypress swamps. Only two roads lead through these awamps to the town. Our artillery is so posted that a free use of grape and canister would pile the rebels up in heaps, should they try to make the narrow passage.
THE STORY OF DESERTERS is so uniform in regard to the great effort the rebels are making to drive all the cattle out of the State that no room is left to doubt it. Including the citizens thus employed, a force not less than ten thousand strong is thus engaged. This stock will be kept in the northern part of the State until it is needed to supply the rebel army. They expect to finish up this business and evacuate the State by the time the spring campaign opens in earnest. A deserter came in last night, giving us late and full details of this business.

The corception of the Florida campaigu was splendid on our part, but its execution has been a IN ST. JOHN'S COUNTY

A genuine sentiment of loyalty no doubt exists.

Before the war the people of that section enjoyed but little peace, Bands of self-styled regulators held Diff little peace. Beaus of self-styled regulators need away, and a reign of terror prevailed. bit little peace. Beaus of terror prevailed. Courts, justices, legislators, and editors were generally under their control. Most of these bandits are now in the rebei army, greatly to the relief of the people generally. Captain Owen Quigley, an old inhabitant of the county, from whom I have learned the above facts; has arribately from Major General Gilmore to raise an independent company of loyal State Guards, House of Representatives.

raintan independent company of loyal State Guards, to be regularly mustered into the relvice, to keep those and other manuaders out of that part of the State. With very little effort he has obtained sixty colunicats, and has no doubt his company will be full as soon as arms and eq uipments can be obtained. He anticipates that his company will be the nucleus of a regiment of loyal Floridians, soon to be reised. THE REBEL TROOPS are far more destructive to all the material and social elements of the State than the loyal army.

We may be merciful, deny ourselves, and spere much that would be for our comfort; our officers may exercise the most right authority over their men; and prevent anything like plundering and wanten destruction, but at the first opportunity the rebesoldier will apply the torsh to his own property, or lay waste the heritage of his neighbor. Soon after our arrival here, our troops visited Magnolia, arter our arrival here, our troops visited Magnolia, a small town twenty-five miles up the river, but finding no enemy returned. A few days afterwards a squad of rebels came in, set fire to the place, and burned every building to the grand. If they can not rule the sunny South, they will, if possible, make it a desert. APRIL ist.—At four o'clock, this morning, many in Jacksonville were startled by a loud and distant report, as of a cannon or thunder; no one could tell what. About eight o'clock; Captain Dale, of the steam transport Maple Leaf, and most of his boats' crew, came up to the pier in launches. He reports that twelve miles up the river the Maple Leaf, one of the finest transports in this department, was blown up, and in five minutes sunk to the bottom of the St. Johns, in deep water. The following firemen, all colored, were lost: Simon Fields, Charles men, all colored, were lost: Stand rieds, Charles Summer, Benjamin Wiggins, Eli Foster, and John Babary. On the preceding night, the 24th United States Colored, a part of Colonel Montgomery's brigade, was taken to Pilatka, and the boat was on the way down after the balance of his command when the disaster occurred. This is the third monster torpedo we have found in this river. The others were removed by the engineers without having done any damage. We are fast learning that this is an enemy's country. Had this torpedo been atruck on the upward trip a regiment must have been suddenly lost, as the river at that place is very

General Dix has written a letter to the chairman of the New York Senate Judiciary Committee, in which he makes a full exposure of the enormous frauds and outrages practiced on recruits by bounty brokers in New York. The most odious wretch of the class is one Hawley D. Clapp. General Dix had no hope of redressing the wrongs complained of, except by taking this culprit into custody, and making him discorge, recovering to soldiers, by this means, some $20,000. The recovery of this, by civil means, would have been next to impossible, the recruits being the only witnesses, and the exigencles of the country beeping them in the field. The whole amount of which Clapp is the chief robber cannot be less than $400,000. This criminal petitions the Legislature, declaring that "he has not held office under the Government, or had any con-tracts with the Government;" but General Dix shows that Lafarette Hall was ecoupied for military purposes, guarded by sentinels, and the robberies were performed within the lines. It was for all purposes a camp, Clapp likewise holding his office under appointment of General Spinols. General under appointment of General Spinola. General Dix wishes to try him by court martial. He says:

"Almost every imaginable form of outrage and deception has been developed in the cases in which Mr. Clapp was agent for the payment of bounties. Men, both white and colored, were offered employment as teamsters, wagon-masters, and officers' servants, receiving from $20 to $50 as 'pay in advance,' and finding themselves enlisted as private soldiers, while Mr. Clapp received from $300 to $315 in each case. With what confederates the money was divided he and they only can tell. I have considered it enough that it was received by him, and not paid to the recruits who were entitled him, and not paid to the recruits who were entitled to it. In some cases, boys have been seduced from their hours to secure their enlistment; in others, men have been drugged and endsted while unconscious; in others, they have been promised furloughs, and where the full bounty was not paid, they have been told that they would receive the balance as soon as they should arrive at Riker's Island. In short, there is no artifuse or fraud which has not been resorted to in carrying out this system of pillage. In one case reported to these head quarters by Mr. Supervisors Blunt, Mr. Clapp was compelled to make restitution, and his conduct was such that he was not allowed to transact business with the Supervisors in his own name, but continued it in the name of other parties."

Onercernit was so badly drugged by Clapp's agents Onercornit was so badly drugged by Clapp's agents that he died. Clapp, since his confinement in Fort Lafavette, has been treated with undeserved leniency, having the same food as the soldiers whom he bed, and being much more comfortably housed. General Dix intends to make the restitution of his class of men would be likely to take part in these outrages upon our gallant soldiers, or sympathize with the perpetrators, unless they cherished a secret with the perpetrators, unless they discussed a secret sympathy with those who are endeavoring by force of arms to overthrow and destroy the Government of their country." General Dix also states "that in some instances the authorities of towns have, of the $300 raised for bounties, voted $100 to the recruit and $200 to the broker or runner—a temptation to cupidity which has led to every species of deception and fraud. Gen. Dix's report to the Secretary of War gives a will more execrable picture of the bounty villainles, of which General Spinola appears to have been an indirect agent, he having on all occasions represented that matters were fairly and honorably carried on:

"Old men and boys, and persons laboring under incurable diseases, were, in numerous intances, thrust into the service under this system of public plunder, alike fraudulent to the recruits and the Government."

"I sent for General Spinols several times, and always received from him the assurance that all was fairly conducted by the officers at Lafayette Hall,"
"The evidence to the contrary became so conclusive that I directed Lieut. Cole and the Contrast Surgeon, Dr. Kerrigan, to be arrested. They have since been tried; the former dismissed the service, and the latter, who holds no military commission, disqualified for future employment."

"In my interview with General Spinols I objected to the whole system of brokerage, as calculated to prevent rather than to promote enlistments."

"Gen. S. defended the system of brokerage, and ments."

"Gen. S. defended the system of brokerage, and said that without it 'the Government could get no recruits." The result has been precisely the rerecruits. The result has been precisely the reverse."

"The bounty in the payment of which these frauds have been committed is that paid by the city of New York, amounting to $300 per man, with a fee of $15 per man to the person presenting the recruit."

"About 2,000 men were recruited by Gen. Spinols. The average amount of bounty paid to them, as he stated in an explanation volunteered to Major Halpine, was about $100 per man. The other $200 per man has been plundered by the brokers and their co-adjutors. Thus $200,000 have been paid to the recruit, and the jenormous sum of $400,000 has been plundered by the brokers. It is one of the most suppendous frauds ever committed in this country; it has gone for the most part into the hands of public plunderers, some of whom are of notoriously infamous character, and one of whom is known to be a convict who has been an immate of the State prison."

son."
"Among the men engaged in these frauds was Theodore Allen, of whom the Superintendent of Police says that his reputation with the force is that of a thief. He swears that he was well known to Mr. Brennan, the Controller, and the Supervisors, and that, through the friendship of the former and the approval of the Supervisors, enlistment blanks, countersigned by one of the Supervisors (Committee, were given by the Supervisor in person to him. This man may be regarded in his leading characteristics, portrayed by the Superintendent of Police, as a type of the group of depredators engaged in plundering recruits.

Indecent or profans words were causes of censure and expulsion; and so, though Mr. Long's words were not treasonable they were sufficiently disgraceful in purpose to merit expulsion. The concluding passage which characterized the Constitution as the framework within which our institutions worked, while the nation was the great body of the people, homogeneous and indivisible, which the Lougs and Ban Woods would divide under preteries of saving the framework, was superb. The speech was listened to with the ulmost attention, and the speaker was would overgratulated.

woods would divide under pretenee of saying the framework, was superb. The speech was listened to with the ulmost attention, and the speaker was warmly congratulated.

The reputed orator of the Democratic side responded—the Hon. Mr. Voorhees. We never heard him before, and were disappointed. He has a fine presence and rather striking gesticulation. But he was intensely excited and spoke too hurriedly. His plea, however, for freedom of opinion was eloquently made. But the insituation that the expulsion of a member for unpatriotic utterances was the last scene preliminary to the insituation of despotism, was alike unworthy of his good sense and patrioticum. The passage resenting the supposed order of General Schenck to keep silent, (words which Gen. S. had not used, but were confounded with a playful "not yet,") was creditable to his pluck and his oratory. Had Mr. Voorhees stopped with the first half of his speech, we would have said that he had made a most admirable and foreible effort from his standpoint; but he repeated himself, and not favorably, and wasted his force in a fruitless effort to bring home inconsistency to Gen. Schenck for offering resolutions in the flexican war which proposed to withdraw our troops and substitute an efficient blockade till such time as Mexico was brought to terms. Men of Mr. Voorhees' stamp, however, cannot talk sensibly about the present state of affairs in this ecuntry. Their allusions to Robespierre, Mura', to a violated Constitution, a tyrannical ruler, &: &c., are too essentially clap trap to deseive any but the most stupid and ignorant.

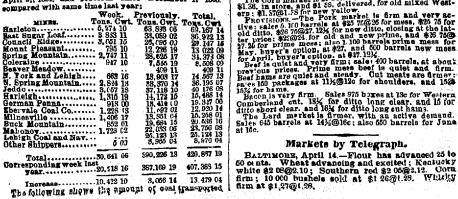

Judge Orth, of Indiana, got the floor. He is a pleasant faced, middle aged gontleman, an agreeable speaker, with an acute logical intellect. He gave way to General Schenck who made a decisive inquiry of Mr. Voorhees about his statements in regard to the Vienna fight, and of the latter disclaiming any knowledge of it, save what he had got from the papers. General Schenck gave a brief sketch of that repulse.

THE MONEY MARKET. This has been the most exciting day in gold which we have had since the war commenced. The telegraph we have had since the war commenced. The telegraph brought the first price over, noting sales at 139, and ten minutes after 187½(2188 was being paid foght. This advance looked decidedly alarming, and was said to have been caused by the movements of a "clique" in this city. Whether or not this is so we are not prepared to say, but it is certain that nothing but the wildest spirit of speculation could run up the price of gold eight per cent in ten minutes. Pausing for a short time at this figure, gold fell to 183, rose to 35 in a minute, fell to 50, railled to 84, then gradually declined to 174, or 5½ per cent below the price of last evening; railying to 176½, and closing rather steady. The money market was easy, and the demand for Government securities undiminished. Mr. McIntyre, Assistant U. S. Treasurer, has received. Mr. McIntyre. Assistant U. S.
