NUBANCE.—The City Councils recently appropri-ated $200 to Professor Joseph Leidy for the purpose of experimenting and determining a method of get-ting fid of what is called the worm musance. This gentleman made a report to Select Council, yeater-day, to that effect. He states that there are a half dozen insects which injuriously infest shade trees, but only one proves to De of a very scrious charac-ter-manely, the "apan worm," or Endalimia Sub-signatia. It is the same species as the noted canker worm of New England. The span worm appears in the early part of May. The leaves, when first attacked, appear pieced with inslit holes, and they segmetrally esten until noting remains but the midribs. These worms reach maturity from about the 10.h to the middle of June, and are then ready to undergo transformation into pups. The apparent suddenness of the transform-tion of the myriads of worms infesting our shade trees, accruing within a week, gives rise to the common opinion that they have been destroyed. The femile of the stan-worm lays about one hun-dred eggs. These iggs remain munatched until the following spring, when hew worms come forth to common of the myriads of worms infesting our shade trees, activing within a were strong our shade the femile of the stan-worm lays about one fun-dred eggs.
