DESPATCH FROM GENERAL GRANT. [Special telegram to the Times,] WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 5 .- A despatch from Lieut. Gen. Grant to one of the generals here says that forty-eight hours would determine whether be was to have battle on the Rapidan, or whether under the works around Richmond, Grant's de-spatch was written yesterday. THE ADVANCE OVER THE RAPIDAN. WAEHINGTON, May 5.—The Army of the Potomac began its forward march on Monday. The crossing of the Rapidan was effected without opposition on Tuesday and Wednesday at Culpeper, Jacobs', Germania, and Ely's Fords. No rebels were seen, except a few pickets, who retired as we advanced. mond, is is possible he may be met near the old battle-ground of Chancellorsville ; but it is the general impression that he has fallen back from his position on the Rapidan to Richmond, in order to protect that city from the formidable force now marching upon it from the rear, and which is as likely to strike on one side of the James River as the other. Culpeper is being strongly fortified, and will be used as a depot for stores. A letter from the army headquarters, dated May 4, says: "All day yesterday there was nothing but bustle and excitement in and around our busy camps after the flat went forth to strike our tents, pack our knapsacks, load our wagons, and prepare to start on our march 'onward to Richmond.' "We have been looking for the order to march for many days and wondering why it did not come; but we did not know the many mountains of obstacles piled in front of a forward movement; but it came nt last, and right heartily did our troops respond. Never was an army in finer condition for marching r fighting. "I am of the opinion that we shall not encounte any large force of the rebels this side of the North Anna river—certainly not in the immediate vicinity of the Rapidan—or all appearances are deceptive. The most reasonable conclusion I can arrive at is that General Lee will move down to the vicinity of the North Anna in order to draw General Meade from his base as far as possible before fighting, and it is not at all improbable that there will be no fight-A despatch of the same date says : The entire movement of the army resolves itself into the cross-ing of the Rapidan river at two fords, towards the right flank of the enemy, placing itself after cross-ing on a line nearly parallel with the river, between Orange Court House and Chancellorsville. At the present hour the movement is under way, and there is a probability that it will be successfully ap2-tf accomplished without severe opposition by Lee, to whom this bold push must be more or less of a surprise. It is not probable that any serious engage-ment will be fought to-day. Cavalry skirmishing and artillery duelling are likely to make up the day's fighting, unless the enemy contests the advance in force. THE WEST VIRGINIA FORCES UNDER MARCH. It is reported here to-day that a strong column of troops under Gens. Crooks and Sigel are marching from Winchester up the Shenandoah Valley as a co-operating column, destined eventually to cut co-operating column, destined eventually to cut the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad, while But-ler's force, of a part of it, strikes the other rail-road at or near Petersburg, thus severing all rail-road communication between Richmond and the South. It is a significant fact that for some time past the crament authorities have been impressing all the steamboats on the upper Ohio and its tributaries STATIONERS. 432 CHESTNUT STREET, into military service, it was thought, in the Kanawa region. TEE FLANK ADVANCE ON RICHMOND. Gen. Butler has taken the field in person, at the head of the army on the Peninsula, and his host is marshalled by such leaders as W. F. Smith, Gilmore, Terry, and Godfrey Weitzel. The movement assumes an expeditionary cha-racter. An immense fleet of transports, and a strong squadron of monitors and gunboats, will convoy it up one of those broad rivers to the gates or to the back door of Richmond, and, perhaps, the iron-clads may once more try the strength of the rebel batteries that line the James, the Pamunkey, and the Rappahannock. A Baltimore rumor states, with some extrava-gance, that General W. F. (Baldy) Smith, with a very large army, had disembarked on the south side of the James river, not far from Fort Darling, on Drury's Bluff, as the rebels call it. His object was, of course, a matter of mere speculation-it might be a feint to distract the rebels, and prevent the sending of reinforcements to Lee, but, if it was in carn-est, it meant that Fort Darling and Petersburg were to be captured, and Richmond cut off from direct railroad communication with North Carolina and the rest of the South. If this news is correct, and it is generally believed in Baltimore, the occupation of West Point on last Monday was merely to deceive the enemy THE WESTERN ARMIES-A GENERAL AD-VANCE. The present movement is apparently a general one, and on the grandest scale. General Sherman's army, in Northern Alabama and Northern Georgia,

General Burnside's advance was checked at Tho-roughfare Gap, by the rebel forces under Long-trent to Alexandria, was assailed by the Confederates in force, at Cane river, and suffered heavily. Thirteen transports and gunboats are said to have been blown up by his orders, to prevent them from falling into the hands of the enemy. This report is loubtful [On the contrary, it is confidently stated, in more anthentic telegrams, that when near Cane river the rebels pressed us closely, but were handsomely reoulsed by General Franklin, with the 19th Army Corps, who captured 1,000 of them and nine pieces of artillery.] It is presumable that the rumor of Gen. Steele's retreat on Little Rock may be also untrue. Calko, May 6.-Advices from 'Alexandria to the 27th, report that Banks' army was still there, but would probably move towards the Mississippi river. Admiral Porter was up the river, some sixty miles above Alexandria, where the Eastport was on a sand-bar. Her guns had been taken off, and her plating was being removed for the purpose of light-ening her off. If this could not be done, she would be blown up. Admiral Porter was without any infuntry support, and was harrassed by the enemy. Major General Hunter had arrived at Alexandria. GEN, RANSOM EXONERATES GEN. STONE From the Chicago Journal.] The following was sent us by telegraph from Cairo on Monday evening, but at the request of a friend of General Ransom, who desired that it be not published until he should reach Chicago, we deferred its publication. General Ransom having arrived here, assures us that it is "all right," and we there fore publish it: Messre, Editors Chicago Journal: I notice in your paper of the 19th instant a letter from Grand Ecore, La., dated April 10th, from your correspondent, signing himself "Hawk Eye," who, in speaking of the battle of the 8th, says: "Gen. Stone, chief of Gen. Banks' staff, was on the field and twok direction of movements," etc. I would state that I received no orders from Gen. Stone on that day, and, as far as I know and believe, he was not responsible for the advance or disposition of foreces engaged. I make this correction as an act of fustice to the distinguished and meritorious officer who endeared himself to the Army of the Gulf by his galiant conduct in the battles of the 8th and 9th instant. Respectfully yours, fore publish it : Respectfully yours, T. E. G. RANSOM, Brigadier General, U. S. V. LOUISIANA MARKETS. instant. [Correspondence of the Chicago Journal,] NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 1.-This was the day on which the armies at Huntsville and Chattanooga vere expected to move. It is reported this morning however, that the movement has, for some reason, been deferred. There is probably to be a new order in the programme. It has been found out to a cerarmy have gone to Richmond. The discovery of This fact may have something to do with the revoca-tion of the order for a forward movement. A GREAT SCENE IN FORT PICKERING-THE SOL-DIERS ADDRESSED BY THE WIDOW OF MAJOR BOOTH. BOOTH. [From the Memphis Bulletin.] On Tuesday last, April 3, the widow of Major Booth, the late commander at Fort Pillow, arrived at Fort Pickering, below this eity. Colonel Jack-son, of the 6th United States Heavy Artillery, had his regiment formed into line for her reception. In front of its centre stood fourteen men, as fine, brave fellows as tread the earth. They were the remnant of the first battalion of the regiment now drawn up-all who had escaped the fiendish scenes of Fort Pil-low, accent that have stamped yet deeper blackness on the infamous brow of trenson. Mirs. Booth came forward. In her hand she bore a fag, red and clotted with human blood. She took a position in ford of the fourteen heroes, so lately under her decensed lutsband's command. The ranks before her observed a silence that was full of solennity. Many a hardy face showed by twitching lids and humid eyes how the sight of the bareaved lady touched bosons that could meet steel, and drew on the fountain of tears that had remained dry even amid the pitcous sights witnessed on the battle-field after a fierce action. Turning to the me before her, she said : Boys, I have just come from a visit to the hospital at Mound City. There I saw your cominades; wound-ed at the bloody struggio in Fort Pillow. There I found this fag-you recognize it. One of your com-rades savel if from the insulting touch of traditors at Fort Pillow ! I have given to my country all I had to give-my husband-such a gift ! Yet I have freely given him for freedom and my country. From the Mcmphis Bulletin.] husband—such a gift ! Yet I have freely given him for freedom and my country. Next my husbaud's cold remains, the next dearest object left me in this world, is this flag—the flag that waved in proud defiance over the works of Fort Pil-low!

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. THE MONEY MARKET. PHILADELPHIA, May 6, 1864. Money continues to accumulate and rates are softenrities are not so closely scanned while capialists are disposed to look more kindly on applicants, Everything points to a still more satisfactory state of affairs. Gold was much excited over the news from Virginia, and the contradictory rumors had their effect in raising or depressing the price, which opened at 177 and finetuated down to 173%. The success of General Grant is looked upon as preity certain. Government securities were about steady, some little line adjust a discuss of them by partice who Government securities were about steady, some fittle disposition prevailing to dispose of them by parties who expect to take them in at lower figures. They are the few who look for roverses, etc. The stock market gradually softened during the day, and at the close the sellers far outnumbered the buyers, producing a decided decline in prices. Pennsylvania Railycad fell off to 75; Reading to 62%; Philadelphia and Duries to 90% (North Reams) way in the way hid Erie to 80%; North Pennsylvania to 80%; 40% was bid for Gatawissa preferred; Schuylkill Navigationdeclined 1; the preferred 1%; Susquenanna was stiff at 22% during the forenoon, and at the close 21% was the best hid : Delaware Division sold at 44; Minchill Railroad a 62%; Elmira preferred at 53%; Lehigh Valley at 91%; Fulton Coal sold at 9%, closing 9 bid; Mineral Oil at 2%; Irving at 61/2.  object for normal definance over the works of Fort Pil-low 1 Soldiers, this flag I give to you, knowing that you will ever remember the last works of roy noble hus-band: "Never surrender the flag to traifors !" Col. Jackson then received from her hand, on be-half of his command, the blood-stained flag. He called upon the regiment to receive it as such a gift ought to be received. At that call he and every man of the regiment fell upon their knees, and, so-lemnly appealing to the God of battles, each one, swore to avenge their brave and fallen comrades, and never-never surrender the flag to traitors! The scene was one never surpassed in emotional fincident. Beside the swift-rolling waters of the Mississippi-within the enclosure that bristled with the death-dealing cannon-knet these rough sol-diers, whose bosons were heaving with emotion, and on never one one of the at the state of the rest. Lieutenant Mirdock got up and gave his own seat to the rebel, but before he had commenced to eat the Platte Valley was ready to leave and the rebel went ashore, and Lieu-tenant Murdock resumed his seat at the table. The state in the st. Data papers that the entry-ment of five thousand four hundred and ninety-one negroes in Missouri saves that State from the draft. Not only this, but there is a surplue of several hun-dred men to be carried to the account of the next call for troops. The effect of this movement is curious. Even the Copperhead journals of the State, and such luke-warm loyalists as the conductors of the St. Louis Republican, overjoyed at the unexpected success of the negro conlistment, begin to change their tone towards the black man. He is no longor the wretch-ed cattiff, the degraded slave, but a man-and, per-haps, if this sort of thing goes much further, a brother.
