officers distinguished in either army. Today we regret to add to the melancholy list of our slain generals the name of Major General JOHN SEDGWICK, commander of the 6th Army Corps, who was instantly killed in a skirmish near Spottsylvania. General SEDGWICK throughout the war has been prominently known as an able and energetic officer. He was twice offered the command of the Army of the Potomac, it is said, but was contented with a subordinate position. He was a native of Connecticut, and entered the West Point Academy from that State in 1833. He was a member of the same class with HENRY W. BENHAM, EDW. D. TOWNSEND, JOSEPH HOOKER, BRANTON BRAGG, WILLIAM W. anarter. MACKALL, JOHN C. PEMBERTON, and others now serving in the Federal and Confederate armies. Graduating in 1837, he was assigned to the 2d Artillery, ranking as second licutenant by brevet. He was promoted first lieutenant April 19, 1839. at Hatteras. He received his full commission as captain in January, 1849, and as major in the 1st Cavalry in March, 1855. On the of Mr. WELLES' letter to Major General Foster 25th of April, 1861, he was promoted to be with directions to take such action as may, in his colonel of the 4th Cavalry, and on the 31st of August following was appointed brigadier general of volunteers. He was appointed major general July 4, 1862, and wounded in one of the battles on the Potomac of the same year. In his death the country has lost one of its best soldiers, and the army a veteran leader.

General Wadsworth.

General JAMES S. WADSWORTH Was one of those soldiers who was influenced by no personal ambition in taking active part in the war. He entered the service as an aid on the staff of General McDowell; was appointed a brigadier general in 1861; served as Military Governor of Washington; fought bravely at Gettysburg; was the candidate of the Union party in New York for the Governorship in 1862, and would have been elected had the soldiers had the opportunity of voting ; was killed in the battle of last Friday, while gallantly riding at the head of his division and urging on his men. This career has no stain. It was inspired wholly by courage and duty.

A writer in the Evening Post has given some anecdotes of General WADSWORTH which deserve to be recorded. Three weeks ago, he saw the General in his camp near Culpeper, preparing his division for the field. He had the reputation of taking good care of his men. At this time the writer heard him relate the following capital story, which shows the spirit of the man better than a volume of biographical comment :

"I remember during the march through Maryland, before the battle of South Mountain, w passed over a tract of country extremely rugged and stony, and I saw not only men but officers walking along with bleeding feet. The mens' shoes gave out entirely. It hurt my feelings more than I can tell you to see the good fellows trudge along so. We ame to a town on the line of march, and I, who was riding at the head of the column, spurred ahead to see if there were not some shoe stores where I could purchase what were needed for the men. All the shors were done to be a store at the store of the ops were closed ; the first men I saw were two sitshops were closed; the first men 1 saw were two su-ting outside of a closed shop. "Are there any shoe stores in this town?" I asked. They replied, in a gruff way, that they could not tell-there might be and there might not. I told them that I wanted to buy shoes for my troops, who were barefooted. They replied they guessed I vould'nt get many.

"At that," said the General, "I got angry. Said

General's Grant and Meade had retired to their thet. Quiet reigned, but, during the reign of quiet, the enemy was forging i thunderbolt. Darkness and smoke were mingling in grim twi-light, and fast deepening into thick gloom, when we were startied out of repose back into force excite-ment. The forged thunderbolt was sped, and by a master. A wild rebel yell away to the right. We waited for the volley with when we knew Sedgwick would meet the onset. We thought it but a night attack, to ascertain if we had changed our position. We were mistaken—it was more. They meant to break through, and they did. SATURDAY'S REPORT.

only Seymour's and part of Shaler's brigade have been broken. SATURDAY'S REPORT. WIDDERNESS, 5 P. M., Saturday, May 7, 1864.— Up to this hour there has been but little fighting to-day. Our position this morning was unchanged from yesterday's, excepting that the right had been bent back. Sedgwick's affair, last night, has in no wise disconcerted the plans of our readers, depress-ed their hope, or impaired the officiency of the army. It was but a disastrous episole. This became clearly apparent when the morning disclosed the fact that nowhere on the line was the enemy pressed up against us; that he had during the night withdrawn from the battle-field, leaving us free to eccupy nearly all the ground where lay the slain. He had retreated, however, only to an-other line, where he evidently challenged an attack. He has played upon us all of to-day with long range guns, and has kept a bold skirmish line in his front. Largo parties have been seen all day at work en-trenching just in Warren's front; 2,000 or 3,000 men inve been digging all day upon a half mile line, from which several solid slot have been thrown nearly to army hendquarters. Lee's success on our right must have been so greatly overbalanced by his repulse on our left an hour before, that he did not dare risk another day on the same ground. He con-cedes by this quasi withdrawni that he eannot longer stand the battle where he felt able to precipi-tate it. Wery great relief is felt this afternoon on account of a report of prisoners that Gen. Wadsporth is in the enemy's hunds, severely wounded. The cheer-ally credited. On the same authority Longstreet is wounded and Jenkinskilled. During the day I have'riden along several miles of front over the ground more stubbornly ontested yesterday—how stubbornly is attested by the trees hewed and trimmed and perforated by bullets, and by the thick-strewn dead. It is like other fields of this war; certainly none have presented a more ter-rific secene. Nearly all the wounded had been re-mored, but none of the dea
