MOLDED COLLARS

Have now been before the public for nearly a year They are universally pronounced the neatest and best ngles noticed in all other collars.

The crayat causes no puckers on the inside of the down collar—they are AS SMOOTH INSIDE AS OUT-SIDE—and therefore perfectly free and easy to the neck. The Garotte Collar has a smooth and evenly-finished edge on BOTH SIDES.

These Collars are not simply flat pieces of paper cut in the form of a collar, but are MOULDED AND SHAPED FO FIT THE NECK. TO FIT THE NECK.

They are made in "Novelty" (or turn-down style,) in every half size from 12 to 17 inches, and in "Enreka" (or Garotte,) from 13 to 17 inches, and packed in "solid sizes," in neat blue cartoons, containg 100 each; also, in smaller ones of 10 each—the latter a very handy package for Travellers, Army and Navy Officers.

The EVERY COLLAR is stamped.

NEW YORK. Correspondence of The Press. ] New York, May 14, 1864. APPREHENSIONS OF EPIDEMICS. The rapid approach of the heated term seems have excited very grave apprehensions as to the sanitary, or rather the in-sanitary condition in which the city will be found upon its absolute arrival. Yearly we have our temporary excitements upon this subject; the press teems with communications from apprehensive citizens, and printed reference to those eternal nuisances, those fat-boiling, and bone-boiling, and glue-boiling establishments, which, founded in the upper portion of the city, drench the atmosphere with vapors composite in their nastiness, and suggestive of endemics and epi

New York is, perhaps, the filthlest of Eastern cities. Its outskirts are so many cauldrons express-ing kerosene and petroloum fumes; itself a retort n which all that is noisome and offensive is sublimated and puffed out into an atmosphere never too pure. Its foreign population, as a general rule, never washes. If there are exceptional cases, the impure water is immediately deposited with care upon some brick sidewalk, where it may steam itself away through long and intolerable hours of fervid heat. Every by-street is a literal Pandora's bex, pouring out fested curses. The respectable man who slinks through them at mid-day puffs bis cigar with the hope of destroying the corpuscular infection, and moves through them with the same alert step as if he were in some plague-smitten Smyrna and fearful of the touch of contagion, instead of being an in-habitant of this dear, unromantic, Democratic city, with its riots, its gold fevers, and its contempts of

It is in vale that we are taxed exorbitantly for street cleaning; in vain that daily protestations are entered, and monitions given by timid and sensitive citizens. It is always the same: a recking summer in filthy thoroughfares, with slime and stagnant cor ruption here, there, and everywhere. At present there is some talk of reform. Warnings are served upon the proprietors of bone and fat-boiling establishments; corporation counsel are consulted; the Board of Health creaks a little in the high wind of public expostulation. In brief, it is the old, in-tolerable, threadbare story undergoing its periodical reiteration. There is some consolation, however, in

"If man returns to dirt, as we all know,
New Yorkers won't have very far to go."
In the meantime we must suffer.
A SPECIMEN OF MUTABLE FORTUNE.

An item, inveighing against the extravagance of one of our citizens, and referring especially to a stable which cost him a small fortune, has been mediately remitted to the Sanitary Commission fund. Of course, the tickets never find their way outside the peculiar circles. The audiences are, herefore, strictly select. The gentleman is noted for his benevolence towards all patriotic objects, and has never been backward in making sacrifices when they seemed equisite for forwarding the good cause. His name, with which the public is thoroughly familiar, cannot be mentioned here with propriety.

A MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR

A most singular and underhanded arrest, so the papers claim, was perpetrated on Wednesday, in Broadway. The victim was Senor Argüelle, lately a colonel in the Spanish service, and a recent arrival from Cuba. Some days ago, the Herald contained a somewhat lengthy card from his pen, in re-lation to the Governor-General of Cuba, and the slave-trade with that island. To this La Cronica, a New York paper printed in Spanish, took exception, and espoused the cause of the Governor Generel. What the dispute is about, perhaps none others comprehend. The former was at one time the Governor of Colon, and, it is rumored, is in possession of important facts regarding slave traffic with Cuba As before stated, however, the arrest appears to have been singular and underhanded; and, at the time of penning this paragraph, nothing but unsubstantial rumor can be appealed to for explanation. It is said that Senor Arguelle was arrested without any authority whatever, by persons claiming to act under commission from United States Marshal Murray. Another report claims that a demand for his arrest and delivery in custody was made on the authorities at Washington, by the Governor General of Cuba; that, thereupon, these functionacounts are similarly conflicting. Eldridge-street jail is by some assigned as the place of his incar-jail is by some assigned as the place or his incarceration; others suggest that he has been placed upon a vessel bound to Cuba.

The resident Spaniards are much excited upon the subject, and are using every endeavor to ferret out the mystery. Application has been made to the grand jury for an investigation of the matter, and the indictment of any who may have been wrongfully engaged in what they consider as an outrage.
The affair promises to result in a sensation, if in nothing else; and the speedy action which the friends of the Señor have initiated seems to indicate that there may be subjects of more than transient interest involved in the developments which they are so anxious to bring about.

The sense of all that has yet been gleaned from them seems to be that the Governor General has compromised himself in some matter, and consequently desires personal supervision of the gentleman who, in his case, knows more than is desirable.

STUYVESANT.

STUYVESANT. THE REBEL PLANS.

Intercepted Letter from a Member of the Rebel Congress. RIGHMOND, Jan. 16, 1864.

Hon. J. B. Hancock:

"Dear Sir: * * * The present hour looks gloomy, to be sure; but, like yourself, I believe in ultimate success. To give us this success, we want to strike an effective blow early in the spring. This will set us on our legs again. Doubtless the Federals will open the campaign by moving a heavy column on Atlanta, Ga., at the same time a heavy one from Knowville, in the direction of Southwestern Virginia and Northern North Carolina.

This latter, if not repelled, will force upon General Lee the necessity of falling back from his present position, it may be from Richmond and almost entirely from Virginia, to prevent himself from boing finited and his army from being entirely disbanded or destroyed. You can see at once, if this movement be allowed to succeed, that these consequences must follow. This portion of Virginia is now pretty well eaten out, and if Lee's army were cut off from the South it could not be provisioned for three months. Pressed in front and harassed in rear, with provisions exhausted, disbandment and destruction must follow.

Then it becomes a matter of the first moment to Pressed in front and harassed in rear, with provisions exhausted, disbandment and destruction must follow.

Then it becomes a matter of the first moment to guard the rear of the Army of the Potomac.

Should the movement upon Allanta succeed, then Georgia will be laid waste, and our chief source (Myresent) of provisions will be cut off. No one can look forward to spring without great apprehensions. Doubless our severest trials will then be upon us. If we sustain ourselves, or, more, if we gain any signal advantage over the enemy soon after the opening of the campaign, we may give the opposition element of the North a chance to combine and beat Lincoln for President. This I should hail as a good omen, and begin to think of peace until the Republican party is beaten and overcome. In the meantime things are assuming a more unfavorable aspect in North Carolina. Her course is deeply humiliating to every patriotic heart.

Congress is laboring diligently to strengthen our army, and improve our currency. I hope we shall succeed materially in accomplishing both these ends. The remedy is a severe one; but the disease is desperate, and no silly nostrum will answer. The cause is the people's, and they must sustain it at all hazards, and the Representative who falters in this hour of trial is not worthy of confidence. I would tell you what measures we are nikely to adopt, but that would be contraband; our proceedings are in secret session.

(Correspondence of the N. Y. Times.)

Headquarters Army of the Potomag, Near Spottsylvania Court House, Thursday, May 12, 6 P. M.

The four hours that have passed since the date of my last despatch have been occupied with vigorous hammer-and-tongs work that does not appear to have greatly advanced the upshot of the contest, save in the destruction of life to the enemy that may have been accomplished. The resistance of the rebels is most stubborn, and it seems from present appearances that we shall be thrown over till tonorrow, when we shall have a continuation of the same, unless, indeed, the enemy be so harassed in his communications as to compel him to retreat.

But whatever may be the determination of the enemy, there will be no change nor let-up in the resolve of this army, of its commanders, and of the head of all the armies of the United States. That resolve is to put the matter through, cost what it may. In doing this we shall add to the already appalling list of losses we have experienced in this unparabled battle of eight days' duration, but we shall end by crushing the enomy to powder.

While writing, firing has ceased along the whole line, and it is probable that the contest is concluded for the day. The rebel Gen. Johnson, captured this morning, gives the following explanation of how the rebel right flank came to be turned this morning. That flank was held by the division of Johnson, who had a very strong position. Yesterday, however, a battery which had been planted on this position was taken away by his superiors in command. Johnson, at 1 o'clock this morning, sent word requesting the return of the battery and any other artillery there might be to spare, and expressing his conviction, that the enemy (we) would make an attempt on the right at daybreak. The battery was returned to him, but loo late, and he was just getting it into position when Hancock made his attack.

Gen. Johnson has played an important part in inte operations. It was he that punished Griffin's end who they are the first of the p

Grant.

It is now certain that the struggle is over for the day. It has been a good day's work. The sun is setting, and we hold two miles more ground than we had when it rose, besides the captures already mentioned. THE BATTLE OF SPOTTSYLVANIA COURT HOUSE.

A SPECIMEN OF METABLE FORTURE.

An item, invelghing against the extravagance of one of our citizens, and referring especially to a stable which cost him a small fortune, has been so extensively copied through the country that a slight mention of the gentleman in question may not be uninteresting. About two years ago this individual appeared in the city in a condition of lamentable impecuniosity. He was the undisputed owner of twenty-five dollars—nothing more. However, to him, as to others, Fortune changed her face. By fortunate strokes and persistent endeavors, reading that prehensile quality of the mind which enables one to selve opportunities at a fitting moment for their subjection, he won his way to affluence. His wealth is now estimated at five millions.

The stable occupies the lower portion of a large building, and is, of course, properly arranged for purposes of equine comfort. Over it is a bijout theatre, fitted up in the most complete manner possible, with all requisite appliances. Here, almost the periodically, are given representations, not only by the amateur stars of exclusive circles, but by genuine professionals, who essay the leading roles, and give coherency where incoherency might otherwise result. The price of tickets is five dollars, and it is said that the average proceeds of the entertainments will not fall far below the very handsome sum of three thousand dollars. This amount is immediately remitted to the Sanitary Commission fund. Of course, the tickets never find their way outside the peculiar circles. The audiences are, therefore, strictly select. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, NEAR SPOTTSYLVANIA COURT HOUSE, Thursday, May 12. stail.

Everybody is in the best of spirits. The enemy had not been expecting an attack on their right, as our reconnoissance of yesterday on the left seemed to indicate that as our point of assault.

Hancock's glorious success, if sustained, will solve a very difficult problem, as the rebels had fortified their powerful position in front of Spottsylvania Court House so strongly that an attempt to carry it in front must have been attended with immense loss of life.

The intelligence from Sheridan's cavalry raid.

in Front must have been attended with immense loss of life.

The intelligence from Sheridan's cavalry raid, brought by a seout last night, shows that he has had the most complete success. He destroyed ten miles of the Orange and Gordonsville Railroad—the line on which Lee has mainly depended for his supplies—and destroyed three trains of cars and a large amount of supplies. He took several pieces of artillery, and recaptured five hundred of our prisoners, smong them two colenels, whom the rebels were lugging off to Richmond.

Six-Thirty A. M.—The magnitude of Hancock's victory rolls up, as its full proportions become known. He has captured Maj. Gen. Johnson's entire division of Ewell's corps, numbering 3,000 men, and he has also taken twenty or thirty cannon up to this hour.

Seven A. M.—A most interesting scene is now before us at headquarters. Major General Ed Johnson, who, with his whole division, was captured this morning, has just been brought up, under charge of an officer, to headquarters in the woods, where Generals Grant and Meade and their staffs are seated around a bivouac fire. General Mande, who had been an old friend of General Johnson, shook hands with him and introduced him to General Grant.

"Formerly of the 6th Infantry?" inquires the Lieutenant General. "Yes," replies the reviel General; "you were of the 4th, and we were both in the Same brigade." Of coure, military etiquette precluded any other inquiries than those of a purely personal character. To the question whether General washworth was dead, he replied that such was his belief, though he was not positive. Our generals, Seymour and Shaler, who were captured in the battle of the Wilderness, he had yesterday seen at Lee's headquarters. Longstreet he reports as severely but not mortally wounded. Almost all the staff appear to have been old friends and acquaintances of Johnson, and numerous mutual inquiries in regard to old army comrades are being made.

General Hunt, Chief of Artillery, when he met him, had a mind to make a set speech, but The intelligence from Sheridan's cavalry raid,

An aid who has just come in from General Han-one's hendquarters says that when the captured General Stuart—G. H.—was brought in, Hancock extended his hand, but the high-born captive drew back, saying that "his feelings would not allow him to shake hands"—an incident which has just created General Stuart—G. H.—was prought in, Hancock extended his hand, but the high-born captive drew back, saying that "his feelings would not allow him to shake hands"—an incident which has just created a merry laugh at headquarters.

Sevex-triinty—Hancock's fight continues, and Warren is going in. A furious rain-storm is falling, and the thunder of the heavens mingles with the roar of artillery and the rattling volleys of small arms in a way impossible to discriminate which is which. The country is somewhat more open here than in the Wilderness, and permits the use of artillery, which has been plentifully placed in commanding positions all along the line.

Warren's corps, forming the centre of our line of battle, is now briskly engaged. No reports as yet of his progress. The rebeis have opened their batteries, and the headquarters of Generals Grant and Meade are being vigorously shelled. In rilling along, we encountered on all hands the proofs of the bloody work that has been going on for the past four hours. From every path through the woods wounded men emerging, some in ambulances, some on stretchers, some supported by their companions, and many poor fellows with every variety of frightful wounds holbling along supported by rude crutches, improvised from branches of trees. On reaching Hancock's headquarters we find his success has been growing steadily and his captures constantly rolling up. He has taken forty-two plecos of artillery, and already seven thousand prisoners reported. A score or more of the captured guns are lying in a field at our new headquarters—a pleasant sight to see. They are 12-pound Napoleons, Rodmans, and 10-pound Parrotts, their rade throats blackened in hieri deadly work.

TENA M.—The whole line is now engaged, including the corps of Warren's 6th, of Wright's 6th, of Hancock's 2a, and of Burnside's 9th. From the present position of headquarters, which is near enough to be under fire, we can distinguish Burnside's and Hancock's line of battle in our front, and Wright and Warren stretched of turning movement.

ONE P. M.—As Warren's attack on the right did not succeed, our right wing is being retired or drawn back, and Meade is massing more on the left, where a vigorous attack is again being made, with very heavy musketry and artillery fire. Hancock has turned a number of the rebel captured guns against the enemy.

Two P. M.—It has been impossible yet to dislodge the rebels, who hald their position most stubbornly. Lee has reformed his left on a strong position, and his line is covered all along by breastworks. A tremendous ennounde is now being made for the purpose on the enemy's position. Though victory now appears highly probable, you must not be surprised if the final result is not achieved to-day. The rebels will fight to the last, and have already, in the wonderful eight days' Battle of the Wilderness—of which this is but a continuation—made good all the boasts ever made of their prowess. They will really die in the last ditch, and only then. They are, however, now out of supplies, their rations having, according to the statements of prisoners, been exhausted fast night, and if Sheridan's destruction of their communications has been as complete as is believed at headquarter, they will be able to get no more. Quite a number of descretes have come in from all the corps, and they say if there is a chance many more may be expected to-night.

Of our losses thus far during this day's severe battle it is impossible to form anything like an accurate estimate; but they must be extremely heavy. The losses of officers are also very groat, but I forbear to mention names until the facts are placed beyond dispute. General Wright, commanding the 6th Corps, was this morning wounded in the soft part of the leg, but still continued to command.

ARRIVAL OF WOUNDED SOLDIERS .- Over

ARRIVAL OF WOUNDED SOLDIERS.—Oyer nine hundred soldiers, wounded in the late battles in Virginia, arrived in this city from Washington at an early hour yesterday morning. They were placed in the Citizens' Volunteer Hospital for a short time, and were then transferred to the different U. S. army hospitals in and around the city. There being no list of the men previously prepared, we were unable to obtain the mames of all the Pennsylvania and New Jersey soldiers. We give the following, from the Harewood Hospital, Washington:

producing, now that Grant's strategy has been unfolded:

"The commonly received opinion that Grant will attack Gra. Lee in front and in his fortifications is erroneous. He will seek to turn the flank of our army, and his position into his organization and equipment be thoroughly accomplished, and then, by suddenly unfolding his strategy, to surprise Gen. Lee. He may march rapidly and without announcement either to some point of crossing the Rapidam or Rappahanneck, or to Port Republic, thence to Stuntton, thence to Lynchberg. Thinks an attempt to flank on the east more probable; his army crossing at some of the lower forts of the Rappahanneck. This, however, is all conjecture; and but the echo of Washington gossip."

This rebel writer had more accurate conceptions than General Lee. It is conjectures were right.—

LATE Southern papers sontain a card from Pierre N. Y. Times.

Late Southern papers contain a card from Pierre Soule, dated Charleston, April 21st, as follows:
"A-paragraph copied from the Northern papers, and now going the rounds of the Confederate press, contains the impertinent and perfidious announcement that I have taken wife, passed the enemy's lines, and left the Confederacy. Will you allow me the use of your paper to state that there is not a word of truth in it." word of truth in it."

JOHN MORRISSEY, the pugillat, has been sued in New York by a Mexican named Pablo de Arista, to recover twenty-tiree thousand dollars, which, it is alleged, were lost at the yaming table. Nine thousand dollars of the amount are claimed to have been lost at Saratoga last summer, and the balance at the defendant's house in New York city during the fall.
