DEATH OF GENERALS MOUTON AND GREEN.

MANSFIELD, April 10, 1864.

SOLDIERS OF THE ARMY OF WESTERN LOUISIANA: At last have your patience and devotion been rewarded. Condemned for many days to retreat, before an overwhelming force, as soon as your reinforcements arrived, you turned upon the foc. No language but that of simple narration should recount your deeds. On the eighth you fought the battle of Mansfield. Never in war was a more complete victory gained. Attacking with the utmost alacrity when the order was given, the result was not for a moment doubtful. The enemy was driven from every position, his artillery captured, his men routed. In vain were fresh troops brought up. Your magnificent line, like a resistless torrent, swept everything before it. Night alone stopped your advance. Twenty pieces of artillery, many stands of arms, many standards of colors, two hundred and fifty wagons, and two thousand five hundred prisoners attest your success over the 13th and 19th Army Corps.

On the 9th, you took up the pursuit and pressed

[Correspondence of the N. Y. Times.]

WASHINGTON, Sunday, May 15—Midnight.—The latest intelligence received here from the front, through unofficial sources, is up to Saturday, at one o'clock. On Saturday ovening, just before dusk, the rebels finade an attack on the position occupied by the 5th Corps, principally with artillery, but were finally driven back with severe loss. The cannon-ading was furious for several hours. We lost a number of valuable officers, and from two to three hundred men killed and wounded. After the repulse of the rebels, one of the divisions of the 5th Corps made a charge upon the enemy's position, and, it is reported, captured a rebel battery and a number of prisoners. On Saturday night Lee's forces were believed to be in line of battle about three miles beyond Spottsylvania Court House, in a southwesterly direction. His sharpshooters were within half a mile south of town, which was neutral ground. Several important changes have been made in the position of our several corps. It would be improper to state what they are; suffice it to say that General Grant will bring to bear, in the next attack on the rebel position, superior forces on all sides. Fresh troops are arriving. A general assault was to have been made on the enemy's right wing on Saturday morning, but owing to the wretched condition of the reads, which had been rendered almost impassable by the storm, a portion of our grmy failed to get into position in time, and the attack had to be abandoned in consequence.

My informant says that the impression prevailed at headquarters that there would be hard fighting yet this side of North Anna river. Lee has his forces massed, and will give us battle again as soon as we advance. His army, according to the statements of prisoners captured yesterday, is on quarter rations, and without hope of receiving any from Erichmond or Lynchburg.

Since the fight on Thursday we have captured about 2000 more prisoners making our total dan-Richmond or Lynchburg.

M .- The surgeon of the 66th Regiment New York State Volunteers. who was captured with six hundred men, in the third day's fight south of the Rapidan river, has He brought with him the body of the brave and lamented James S. Wadsworth. The remains had been partially embalmed by order of General Robert E. Lee, and enclosed in a neat coffin.

This surgeon saw General Longstreet in his tent.

He was wounded in the neck by a Minie ball, and his collar-bone is broken. The wound is not mortal, but quite serious and painful. It will incapacitate the old man for duty for some time, and this seemed General James E. B. Stuart was not down at Richmond, and this surgeon says he is now in Lee's geon says he saw him and conversed with him on Friday, when he gave permission to have General Wadsworth's remains exhumed and taken into our and will yet make a desperate resistance. a letter to the Houston (Texas) Telegraph gives an interesting account of the late battle on Red river. After a great deal of verbiage and bombast, the writer says:

"The division of General Churchill marched forty-five inlies in fifteen hours, to be in time for the fight at Pleasant Hill. Nobiy'did they stand side by side with their comrades through that bloody struggle, and their graves on that battle-field tell plainly how they suffered. As I said before, I cannot get the officers to name any of their men who distinguished themselves more than others; consequently all must receive equal credit. I shall only speak of conspicuous regiments, brigades, and divisions, with their chief commanders.

"I stated in my first letter that General Taylor made the attack without orders from General Smith, and contrary to the advice of many officers. But the General knew the spirit of his troops, and knowing the topography of the country as well, risked a battle, and has thereby saved Texas from the perils of invation. While we extol our own heroes of the battles, Texans must not forget Taylor, Mouton, Polignac, or Churchill. One of the greatest heroes on those fields was Brigadder General Bee, commanding a brigade of cavairy on the extreme left, at Pleasant Hill. He had two horses shot under him, and himself slightly wounded. Major G. W. McNeel, inspector general on his staff, had two horses shot under him, and Orderly L. Schneider had two shot while carrying General Bee's orders on the field. Major W. T. Mechling, A. A. G., and Colonel G. W. Chilton, are reported to have acted nobly in the terrible charge where the gallantry dislayed by Captain McAllahan's battery of light artillery. At Mansfield the battery was in position on the summit of a hill, and poured a deadly volley into the ranks of the enemy. General Taylor presented two rifled captured pieces to the battery on the head, they laying aside their smooth-bore guns. Lieut. Sam. Houston, Jr., commanded one section of the battery, and is reported to have acted the he rejoined his command, having made his escape from PENNSYLVANIANS IN BATTLE. WASHINOTON, May 16.—Colonel George Smith, of the 61st Pennsylvania, who was shot through the leg, arrived here last night, and is at the Ebbitt. House. Colonel Lyle was all right up to Friday morning last. Captain Fritz, of the 99th Pennsylrania, who is reported as captured, has arrived a bayonet charge three hundred strong, and have now but fifty men left. Captain Fritz's company lost all but eleven men, this being the fifteenth bat-tle Fritz has led his company through. THE WOUNDED IN WASHINGTON HOSPI-TALS. wagons, and two thousand five hundred prisoners attest your success over the 13th and 19th Army Corps.

On the 9th, you took up the pursuit and pressed with vigor. For twelve miles, prisoners, seattered arms, and burning wagons proved how well the previous day's work had been done by the soldiers of Texas and Louisiana.

The gallant divisions from Missouri and Arkansas, unfortunately absent on the 8th, marched forty-five miles in two days to share the glories of Pleasant Hill. This was emphatically the soldiers' victory. In spite of the strength of the enemy's position, held by fresh troops of the 16th Army Corps, your valor and devotion triumphed over all.

Night closed on one of the best-contested battles of the war. The morning of the 10th dawned upon a flying foe, with our cavalry in pursuit, capturing prisoners at every step. These glorious victories were most dearly won. A list of the heroic dead would sadden the stoutest heart; a visit to the hospitals would awaken the tenderest sensibilities. The remembrance of our dead will last as long as those of the most brilliani actions which are recorded in history. The conviction of having done their duty will soften the sufferings of our wounded.

Soldiers, a Christian has fallen, a warrior of warriors has gone to his home. On the 12th of April fell Thomas Green. After braving doath a thousand times the destroyer found him where he was ever wont to be, in the front rank of battle! His spirit has gone to the happy home of heroes, where the kindred soul of Alfred Mouton awaits it. Throughout broad Texas and desolated Louisiana, mourning will sadden every hearth. However great this loss may be to their families and friends, it is still greater to the army and myself. During long and painful months both have served with me. In the midst of the roar of battle, by the bivouac fires, and all the military outposts, they have won my friendship. Their families shall be my families, their friends my friends. Having been their cherished friend, their chief they followed wi dence. That is the greatest none to which roote ever aspire on earth.

Soldiers! The death of these heroes will not be in vain. Inspired by such examples, the army will accomplish great deeds. Sprinkled with the blood of Mansfield, of Pleasant Hill, and Blun's Landing, the tree of our National Independence will grow ra-LINCOLN

RICHARD TAYLOR, Major General Command To Clergymen and Bachelors. To Clergymen and Bachelors.

To the Editor of The Press:

Sin: The writer of this begs most respectfully to suggest that, in order to swell the good work of our approaching Philadelphia Sanitary Fair, the reveared elegy, one and all, be most respectfully requested to donate all marriage fees received by them during the continuance of the Philadelphia Sanitary Fair to that noble object. Let each elergyman give public notice from his pulpit that such disposition will be made of all marriage fees. My word for it, a godly and a goodly number will be certainly induced to anticipate the happy wedding-day, and thereby cause a very considerable amount of funds to be secured to the glorious Sanitary cause.

The hewildering, yet perfectly simple, series of operations projected by Liout. General Grant for the May campaign have not all yet come to light. We have news from the Petersburg Register, of Thursday last, that the "Yankees have burned the bridge on New river, on the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad, and destroyed the Unblin depot, with all the supplies, &c.—Averlity work."

This operation has no immediate connection with the one which Major Gen. Sigot has not yet accomplished.; The New river referred to is in Southwestern Virginia, and is, by the railroad route, about a hundred miles west of Lynchburg, while Dublin depot is some ten miles still further weet. The New river passes through Peter's Mountain, beyond which it is called the Great Kanawha. The bridge destroyed is a strong one, about 400 feet long, and there is no danger of the rebels being likely to repair it very speedily.

The rebels say that this was "Averlil's work." For some weeks past a large force has been quietly gathering on the Great Kanawha, at the town of Charleston, for some work of which General Grant did not choose to inform Jelf Davis, and this is the first we have heard from it. We have a letter from the West, under date of the 12th inst., which gives some interesting intelligence concerning this column. The writer says:

"The most quiet and unheralded movement of the campaign is that from the Kanawha. It has been in preparation for several weeks, and my information is that the column is thirty thousand strong, and has moved in the direction of Newbern, [Pulasski.county, Virginia, near the New river.] It must have reached that place or some other point on the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad before this letter rouches you. The robels seem to have no sufficient force in the valley to resist it. Its immediate object is to destroy all the rebel communications through the southwestern valley of Virginia. This done, it may turn toward Lynchburg, or to the West, ultrately uniting with the movement through Georgia. In the meantime, the valle The Army of the Kanawha.

Spiritualism. To the Editor of The Press:
SIR: I see that the wandering troupe of young mon called the Davenport Boys are making a sensation in New York with their tricks and legerdemain. presume I may use this phrase without wounding the feelings of those called Spiritualists. Their manifestations, however, have recalled to mind cortain manifestations that I witnessed in Washington during the last winter. Mr. C. H. Foster, a "medium," who stands high in spiritual circles, gave a number of exhibitions to private parties, among whom were many of our public mon. The tests he answered were truly marvellous. Names appeared on his arm in large red characters, which were certainly the names of departed spirits whom the me-dium never knew, and could have by no possibility the means of knowing. Questions were asked and answered in an extraordinary way, and altogether the manifestations were such as we read of in old books of fable and necromancy. I am not a Spiritualist myself, for I can see so much chicanery and humbug in many of the mediums that I turn away in disgust from a cience or a phenomenon that has so many ludicrou and repulsive features. There was much about Mr. Foster that I had never seen before—a frankness Foster that I had never seen belove—a trankness, truth, and want of bigotry that made a seance with him instructive and impressive. I perceive that he is in Philadelphia, and I have taken the liberty to speak through your columns of what I know and saw, that all who feel an interest in this most singular and perplexing phenomenon may meet in Mr. Foster the most successful and accomplished medium, perhaps, in the country. in the country.

I am, sir, yours truly,
GERMANTOWN, May 16, 1864.

The Academy of Music. To the Editor of The Press:

Sir: If I am not mistaken, Mr. J. R. Fry made a contract with subscribers to give them six nights of opera for eight dollars per seat. I believe only five have been given, and I have seen no announcement of the sixth night. I gave up my right as a stock-holder to free admission, and engaged three seats, at eight dollars per seat, under the impression that we were to have a variety of operas—"Bohemian Girl" and "Maritana" being in the programme. If, however, it should appear that the Sanitary Fair has been materially benefitted by the plan adopted, and not made a pretext for running one opera every night, I shall be satisfied with the contribution which I have made to such a praiseworthy object. Enclosing my eard, I am, sir, your obedient servant, Philadelphia, May 16, 1864. J. C. The Great Fair.

The Great Fair.

To the Editor of The Press:
Sir: I had understood that the Great Fair to be held here in June was to be the spontaneous offering of all our citizens, rich and poor, to those brave men who are now engaged in upholding our Government in the midst of the horrors of battle. With this understanding, I, and thousands more such as I, gave my mite cheerfully—gave as much as I could spare to a cause with which I sympathize so fully. And now I see by your paper of this morning that it will be impossible for me, impossible for men situated as I am, to take part in this national jubilee which we have helped, as far as in us lay, to celebrate. which we have helped, as far as in us lay, to celebrate.

I am unfortunate enough to be a citizen of Philadelphia, and how can I pay fifteen dollars for three season tickets for myself, wife, and boy, especially as I can hardly hope to attend the Fair more than once? It seems to me unjust that this should be only a rich man's offering after all; that those "whose means are little, but whose hearts are great," should be forced to buy season tickets if they want to enjoy the pleasure that they had hoped for when they gave their day's income, and often much more, for the cause. I speak for a large constituency, and in justice to them I ask the managers of the Fair to reconsider their action in this matter—to sell single tickets of admission to men who cannot afford any other.

I am yours truly,

A WORKINGMAN.

Philadelphia, May 16, 1864.

The Sanitary Fair. The Santary Fair.

To the Editor of The Press:
Sir: I notice in this morning's edition of your paper, the "rales and regulations" for the government of the "Santary Fair." of which we have heard so much for the past six weeks. As I wish to be ealightened on some points in these "rules," I have taken the liberty of writing to you to obtain, if possible, the desired information. In rule IX., section 4, it is stated that single admission tickets (price 50 cents), shall not admit to any parts of the Fair for which another entrance fee is charged. I would like to know how much of the Fair this "admission ticket" (so-called), will allow an individual to visit. I am, sir, yours truly,

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. THE MONEY MARKET.

PHILADRIPHIA, May 16, 1864.

There was a brisk demand for gold this morning, which ran the price up before the close to 173%. Doubts as to the Virginia campaign, and the heavy demand for European account, together produced this rise. Government securities were in great request, and all classes advanced—the five-twenties to 107. Money was easy and in somewhat more demand at 6 per cent.

The stock market opened active and somewhat excited, railroad and canal shares generally advancing. ted, railroad and canal shares generally advancing cited, railroad and canal shares generally advancing. Reading opened at 65% and rose to 65%; Catawissa preferred to 42%; Little Schuylkill to 47%; Philadelphia and Erie to 33%; Lehigh Valley at 91%; Susquehanna Canal rose to 24%; Union to 25%; Schuylkill Navigation to 32%; the preferred to 42%; Morris preferred sold at 140; Organic Oil sold down to 1½; Mineral recovered to 2; Oil Creek to 5%; Cherry Run sold at 7%; 3% bid for Pennsylvania Petroleum, which has lately struck a very good pumping well; McClintock sold at 4%.

First class securities were in more demand and are advanced a fraction. The market closed strong.
