THE ENGLISH WALKING HAT, made and sold by

of the stern parlent of the lady. The youth broke silence: "Tell me, dearest, how I can best deserve thy love ?" Angelina gave the swain a look of unutterable tenderness, and sweetly said : "By buying thy garments at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth." Alonzo promised, and the happy day was fixed. Sich is life.

"KEEP UP YOUR SPIRITS."-Gentle reader, are you an invalid? Are you afflicted with corns? Have lain awake, night after night, with a toothache? Have you sighed and striven, under an accumulation of physical disorders, for the irresis-tible patience of Job? for the unsurpassed meekmess of Moses ?-and at last been worried almost into an oath by that most pitiful advice : "keep ap your spirits." If so, we commiserate you; from our soul we do. If, on the other hand, you be free from those lesser ills "to which the flesh is heir," we advise you, considerately, to "keep up your spirits" by wearing the beautiful and cor spring styles of Granville Stokes, the celebrated othier, No. 609 Chestnut street.

The American.

THE ENGLISH WALKING HAT, made and sold by Wood & Cary, 725 Chestnut street, is deservedly popular with all ladies of taste. For grace, comfort, and style it has no equal. Superior ICE CREAM.—Those of our readers who enjoy a dolicious plate of Ice Croan will find it in the most luxuriant style at the celebrated Eastern Market Ice Oream and Cheese stand of W. H. Slo-comb, Fifth street, below Market—a prime Dela-ware county article. Also, fresh tomatoes, peaches, and other fruits, put up in best style. HIGHTALUTIN.—Twas night; the silvery moon floated in a sea of azure, with a train of stary at tendants at her heels, foremost of which rode Hes-perus. The gentle light from the Queen of Night shone upon many a lovely scene—over wood and brake, on cascade and stream—but nowhere did her mild beams shed a more delicious lovelinees than at the spot where the beauteous Angelina and her adored Alonzo sat in a bower of rosses, in the garden of the stern parient of the lady. The youth broke silence. "Teel we dearest how Lowa between the broken the bady. The youth broke silence." The genetic of the lady. The youth broke silence. "Teel we dearest how Lowa between the bady.
