EXEMPT FROM MUNICIPAL OR STATE TAXATION, their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country. At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

n currency, and are of equal convenience as a perma neut or temporary investment, It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies, or sepaate communities, only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin. These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the The Funded Debt of the United States on which interest $768,965,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,126, white the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th 1861, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum. It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the aunual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations to $150,000,000 per annum. Now READY. THE CAPITAL NEW NOVEL WOODBURN,

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

ROSA VERTNER JEFFREY, AUTHOR OF "POEMS BY ROSA," 1 vol. 12mo. Cloth. Price $1,50. The Hartford Courant says of it: "It is refreshing to meet, in these days of sensational Braddon-Wood school of fiction, a story possessing so much real ability as "Woodburn." The scenes are, for the most part, taid at the South; and the many fine pictures of its sunny landscapes, with which the book abounds, relieve the intense interest of the story. Most of the characters are drawn with great cleverness, and a few in such clear outlines that we feel assured we have metthem in real life. The hero and heroine, Mr. Clif-ford and Ethel Linton, are fine characters. Both possess the noblest qualities of mind and heart, and the reader will be in love with them from the first. The vil-lain of the story, who bears the harsh-sounding name of Basil Thorn, is a real villain. For unmitigated scoun drellsm and remorseless hatred it would be hard to match him. His miserable death in the woods is a re-lief to us. Rachel Thorn, a sort of Becky Sharp, but without Becky's triumphs, is a powerfully-drawn character. One of the best personages in the book is the narrator herself, Amy Percy-bright, shrewd, honest-a girl who, disappointed in her first love, doesn't believe in breaking her heart therefor. The plot is ably managed, and the secret that hangs about Doctor Foste and the maniae is so skillfully concealed until the de-nouement, that it is impossible to guess it. There is much acuteness displayed in many of the author's relections and observations. Her style is clear, compact and animated, and with an occasional exuberance re-minding us of Miss Prescott. 'Woodburn' will add largely to Mrs. Jeffrey's fame, and in the difficult field of fiction-writing she will take high rank." The Louisville Journal says: "The authoress of this work is favorably known to the public by her remarkable productions in verse. He poetry is distinguished by its deep feeling, fluency, and touching nathos, as well as its great descriptive power We always coveted for the public the efforts of Rosa's pen in prose, and predict for 'Woodburn,' filled, as it is, with thrilling interest, a popularity equal to that which welcomed her poetic productions. "It exhibits admirably many of the wayward trait of human nature, and noroofs the scenes of daily do-mestic and social life, displaying a thorough knowledge of those ways of the heart which so many desire to conceal, and which master-minds alone have been able to SHELDON & CO., PUBLISHERS, No. 335 BROADWAY, N.
