1864, JUNE 11, 1864.

It is not to be taken for granted that the proposed increase of fare on the passenger roads...

It hardly surprises us to hear that our passenger railway companies are about to raise their fare one cent, and we cannot tell, but may suspect, that what further increase and unjustifiable tax upon the passenger public such an action may lead.

Knowing the nature of corporations, (which are popularly supposed to be without passions, feelings, or interests,) they will, whenever opportunity presents itself, "turn an honest penny," over their ordinary gains. It is not to be expected that they will be so easily deterred by any public opinion.

It would surprise us highly to learn that some of our most prominent citizens would under the circumstances, try to lower their prices one cent. Against the projected tax upon the public, we do, of course, protest. It is absurd, and laughable, and unwarrantable. A decision of that kind on the part of ourselves to give reason for opinion of conduct exposed and unwise as that of the passenger railway companies.

This conduct is plainly an infringement upon the liberty of the citizen, and we are so strongly aroused to making one cent richer, by their loss, corporations which enjoy a perpetuity and monopoly, and are in any case rich and prosperous.

We could not advise the passenger companies to raise their fares, unless they were to raise them, without a benefit without they first acquired the consent of the public. So far from this being the case, the new attempt at exaction is universally unpopular.

On the subject of the proposed increase of fare, we have to say that it is a bad example, which favored corporations should never set, and should be very slow to follow.

The addition of expenses, it is said, is due to the high cost of fuel. It is not in itself an evil. It is not a new thing. It is not a new thing. It is not a new thing.
