They enlisted after their arrival on our shores of their own free accord, within our own limits and jurisdiction, and not in any foreign coun-try. The Executive Government has no know-ledge of the nature of the special inducements which led these volunteers to emigrate from their ma-tive countries, or of the purposes for which they emigrated. It has, however, neither directly nor indirectly invited their immigration by any offers of such persons were found within the United States, exactly the same inducements to military service offered at the same time to citizens of the United States.

were open to them which by authority of law were offered at the same time to citizens of the United States. Having thus answered the inquirles contained in the resolution of the Seates, the Secretary of State might here without impropriety close this report. Nevertheless, the occasion is a proper one for no-ticing complaints on the subject of redruiting in our army and navy which have recently found utterance in the British House of Lords. The Secretary of State has therefore further to report that the Go-wernment of the United States ins practised, the most scrupulous care in preventing and avoiding in any violation of international or municipal laws in recard to the cultist of soldiers and seamen. Moreover, when the British Government, or any alleged violation of the rights of its subjects within the United States, this Government has listened to y, and, where redress was found due and was prac-ticable, has cheerfully accorded it. NAVAL OFFICER HEIR TO A FORTUNE. Major MERRITT, formerly holding the position of ngineer-in-chief in the gunboat service, has fallen heir to an estate valued at $2,500,000. The circum-stances under which the patriotic Major met with stances under which the patriotic Major met with his good fortune are very peculiar. It appears that, having resigned his position, he was tendered another by the English Government, as construct-ing engineer in one of their navy yards, at a salary of £1,500 per annum. His uncle, Hon. W. H. Muss. RITT, member of the Legislative Council of Canada, urged him to accept the position in opposition to the wishes of another uncle, CHARLES MERRITT, of Portland, Maine, who had always taken a deep in-terest in him. The Major, seeing then a prospect Portland, Blaine, who had always taken a deep in-terest in him. The Major, seeing then a prospect of a war with England, promptly decided against accepting the proffered position. This action, while it gave offence to his Canadian uncle, it seems, while it gave oncore to us consuming uncle, it seems, pleased his Portland relative so well that he made him his sole heir to an estate amounting to the indsome sum of two million and a half of dollars.
