larceny of a clock and some paper at the fire on north Flith street early on Saturday morning. Alloway was arrested in the act of secreting the clock between himself and a grave yard wall near Flith and Arch streets. Phifor was assisting him, and both had paper in their possession which they had stolen. Knowles had in his possession a lot of paper, and also a pistol. In regard to the latter, he said it was given to him at the fire of the works of Mr. Simons in the Nincteenth ward. The defendants underwent a strict investigation by the magistrate. They admitted they attended fires. They did not belong to any fire companies, and their thefts may have been improperly attributed to members of the Fire Department. The defendants were committed in default of $600 each to answer. THE CITY. RAILROAD LINES. RAILROAD LINES. PROPOSATA. PROPOSALS. PROPOSALS.

THE 20TH REGIMENT P. V. M.

This regiment of Philadeiphians, which has been raised for one-hundred-days service, broke camp at 1stington lane, about eight o'clock on Saturday morning, and marched down the Ridge avenue to Nineteenth street, down Nineteenth to Green, down Gren to Brond, down Broad to Spring Garden, down Broad to Spring Garden, down Spring Garden to Tweith, down Tweith to Chestmut, down Chestmut to Third, where they were countermarched and formed in double line on the north side of the street, the centre lacing the custom-house. The steps of this well-known building were completely crowded by young and old of both sease. The Indies were well represented. Cheer after cheer went forth as the gallant sons of Mars formed in line before them. The committee having in charge the disbursement of the volunteer bounty fund occupied a space on the custom-house steps. After the line had been formed, Colonel Thomas advanced to the committee and said: "Gentlemen, I have the honor of presenting to you the 20th Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers."

Professor Saunders, chairman of the committee, then addressed the regiment as follows:

"The Commission are delighted to see before them the largest regiment (the lamented Colonel Baker's California Regiment alone excepted) that had left the city since the war commenced—a regiment of fourten companies, which, under the lead of its organized, the first completed, the first ready for the payment of bounties, the first to be summoned away, the first to appear with knapsacks, the first about to stand a wail of stout hearts and strong arms between their fellow-citizens and the most relentiess and most unscrupulous traitors, robbors, and murderers that ever threatened the homes of a peaceful, unmolesting, law-biding people." Official Envelopes, White and Bluff, of the following A SURPRISE FIGHT.

In the last car, on the Fifth and Sixth passenger railway line, on Saturday night, there was considerable contention evinced by a rather rough-looking young man, who appeared to have in company several others who teit inclined to take part in the game of grumbling. The passenger claimed to have given the conductor a fifty-cent note, and therefore demanded change. The conductor was pleasant in his replies, and looking over the receipts he still held in his hand, suggested that the pussenger was mistaken. Passenger replied he was not, and appealed to another, a companion of course, or, in the vocabulary of the police, a "pal," who affirmed all he said. The conductor showed the money he had received. There was not a fity-cent note to be found. Out of the handful of currency he had, the car being very crowded with passengers, there was only one pleee that nugmented to the dignity of a quarter. The passenger still grumbled. He seemed inclined to continue a war of words, much to the disgust of his follow-passengers.

jelf-tf J. VAN RENSSELLER, Superintendent. bers, and murderers that over threatened the homes of a peaceful, unmolesting, law-bidling people." [Cheers.]
Col. Thomas replied as follows:
"I can command no language adequate to express my feelings. I shall attempt no formal remarks, and shall simply say that all that had been done by his regiment deserved no thanks. The officers and men had done nothing more than their duty, and those who do less deserve the consemnation of every citizen. [Cheers.]
"The regiment is about to leave for active duties in the field. I think I can promise that every man will do his duty. For myself, I shall endeavor to do in the inture as I havo attempted to do in the past, my simple duty, and that is all I can promise."

His few spirited remarks were followed by a series of cheers, lasting several minutes. As the Colonel was about forming his men into line again, his horse slipped on the cobble stones, throwing him to the yound, but fortunately doing him little or no injury. He immediately mounted him again, and, at the head of the regiment, marched to the Union Volunteer and Cooper Shop Refreshment Saloons, where they partook of an excellent dinuer, which had been previously prepared for them. This being over, the regiment departed for a more Southern Climate. The following is a list of the staff officers: Colonel, William B. Thomas: Lieutenant Colonel, Benjamin L. Taylor; Major, C. W. McClintock; Asjutant, James B. Roney; Surgeon, Isaac Clark; Assistant Surgeon, Richmond M. Kink; Quartermaster, John J. Franklin; Sergeant Major, Levi H. Patterson.

OFFICERS FOR COLORED TROOPS. In a little while the conductor was about to resume his position on the car, when he was suddenly attacked by the aforesaid grumbling passenger, assisted by one of his companions.

Now, it so happened that the conductor, though mild, and certainly very gentlemanly in his official deportment, is proficient in muscular development, and years since improved himself in the "manly art." Of course he struck an attitude, and at the same time did the same to one of his assailants.

A ponderous blow on the "cannister" made the aspirant for puglistic honors turn a complete summersault, and a full galaxy, doubtless, played before his mental vision. M. THOMAS & SONS, Nos. 139 and 121 South FOURTH Street. All the above articles to be of army standard.

The conductor then let "fly" his "left." It acted The conductor then lot "fly" his "left." It acted on the principle of an "auctioneer," as aspirant number two "went down" in less time than it takes to write about it.

The conductor did not follow up the great advantage he had gained, but simply stood on the ground of self-defence. A second round resulted as the first, and just as the two assailants were about to blindly pummel each other, the police arrived and took them into custody. They were conducted to the First-ward station-house. Both were pretty well phiebotomized, and the eyes of one of them did not look much unlike a couple of half-ripe egg plums. Mr. Henry Simons, whose large wagon works were destroyed by fire on Friday ovening last, has an insurance of about forty thousand dollars on the buildings and machinery, which will probably cover his loss. The fire burned stubbornly throughout Saturday, which produced a large quantity of charcoal. This article of fuel brings a good price at the present time. Mr. Simons has a large force of workmen on land erecting sheds, &c., for the purpose of resuming work, which will, no doubt, take place this week. The above are old and well-established Remedies. The fire at No. 44 North Fifth street, an mentioned in The Press of Saturday, broke out in the fifth story, which was occupied by Fox & Crape, window-shade manufacturers. The contents of this story were entirely consumed, as was also the roof. The flames burned through the floor into the fourth story, but very little damage was done there. The whole building, with the exception of the fifth story, is occupied by Alexander Priestly & Oo., paper manufacturers. This firm had on hand an extensive stock of paper of various descriptions, all of which was, more or less, damaged by water. The loss of Messrs. P. & Oo. is estimated at about $8,000. This is fully covered by insurance in the Delaware Mutual, Eina, and other insurance companies. S. T. BRALLE M. D. DENTIST. THE POLICE. [Before Mr. Alderman Beitler.] ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING OF A CHILD.

Dr. Alfred W. Green, an eminent surgeon, who has seen long service in the Pennsylvania Reserves, was arraigned at the Central Station on the charge of shooting a little child, named Michael Augustus Gayer, aged 4 years and II months. It seems that a notorious deserter and bounty-jumper escaped from the hospital at Fitth and Buttonwood streets early on Thursday afternoon. He was pursued by Dr. Green, who shot at him; the ball struck a house wall; glanced, and entered the body of the child. The following material facts were developed at the hearing: The father of the child testified as to the condition of the patient, the ball still remaining in the wound. Mr. Samuel J. Roney, an elderly gentleman, testified that at about two o'clock on Thursday afternoon he was attracted by considerable noise near Julianna and Willow streets; he observed a man, without a hat, running as fast as he could; he was followed by defendant and several other men; witness was very near the fugitive, and about to arrest him, when defendant cried out, "Take care, I'm going to shoot;" the next moment the pistol was fired, and a child screamed, "My back is shot;" the little boy was standing at the time at the corner of the market-house, forty feet off, and at least this distance from a direct line in which the pistol was fired; witness took the child heme, and upon examination a wound was found in the back; there was but one shot fired; the ball must have glanced after striking the wall, and thus the child was shot; a woman was standing very close to the course the ball took; witness said to her:

"You made a narrow escape."

"You made a narrow escape." To a great extent in every case, and entirely in many, IT WILL PREVENT DEGLY OF TEETH.
