Enoch's surviving comrade dies sun-The New York Times prints an able article on the Georgia campaign, from which we make the stricken. Years pass on, and at last a ship, touch-ing at the island for water, bears Enoch back to bjoined extract. It will give the reader a clear and full idea, better than any he may have gained England, landing him on the harbor whence, years from isolated and often clouded and contradictory statements of correspondents who have chronicled the movements: A sweeping glance at the track of the Western Army will show what it has accomplished. Start-ing from Chattanooga early in May, Sherman first met the enemy, in force, thirty-one miles distant, at Tunnel Hill, under, which hill, through a, tunnel 1,800 feet long, runs the Georgia Railroad. The enemy was brickly driven back from Tunnel Hill to Dalton, a distance of seven miles. He paused, how-ever, at Rocky-faced Ridge, the northern defense of Dalton, a precipitous hill, which is oleft by the mar-row pass called Buzzard's Roosa. Here, on the Sth of May, Sherman attacked Johnston in an impreg-nable position; but the wily enemy was outgene-raled by his adversary. While this feint was con-ducted with such vigor that our loss was fully six hundred men, McPhersen, with his grand division, embracing the 15th and 16th (and Afterwards the 17th) Corps, was already flanking Dalton by a wide detour upon Snake Gap, which leads to Reseace, eighteen milee south of Dalton. 'No sooner was news set him of McPherson's lodgment, than Sherman withdrew from Johnston's front, hastening to Snake Gap with all his army. For his opponent there was nothing but to full back on Reseac, fifty-six miles direct from Chattanooga. Here occurred the heavy two days' battle of the 14th and 15th of May, with a loss ci four or five thousand on either side, and the capture by us of a battery and nearly a thousand prisoners. As its main result, Reseaa was abandoned, and our army pursued the enemy, skirmishing with and harassing his rear. A length we occupied Kingston, twenty-three miles from Re-seac, on the railroad, and a detached column asized the important town of Rome, fourteen miles away to the west of Kingston, with its stores of provisions and seven encellent and valuable fron foundrise. No dangers seem to attend the exploration; for though at one time the light threatened to go out, they soon recovered their light, and it continued to burn clearly. Archbishon of that city, from which we extract the following: It was announced several weeks since that the Most Kev. Martin John Spalding, the newly ap-pointed Archbishop of the Arch-Discess of Batti-more, was expected to arrive in this city previous to the 31st of July, so that his instaliation into the Archiepiscopal See could take place on that day. It begins the Feat of St. Ignatius Loyola. On Saturday afternoon Archishop Spalding ar-rived at the President-street depot, from Philadel-phils, accompanied by his brother, the Rev. B. J. INSENIOUS HOSPITAL BED TEAD.-S. B. The frame is wholly of chestion, and constructed which some of the medical men pronounce a great improvement upon anything of the kind now in use improvement upon anything of the kind now in use improvement upon anything of the kind now in use if the frame is which of springs the legs at either end or both ends can instantly be thrown outwards hori-zonfal with the frame, this making a stretcher, or the legs can be turned under, when the bed rests on four large castors, as also when in the bed rests on four large castors, as also when in the form of a stretcher. Only a light mattress is necessary to make a bed of the most comfortable description. There is also a contrivance attached by means of which the patient's head, and body even, may be readily elevated to any desired angle; also other ar-rangements which are calculated to materially lighten the labors of the attendants and nurses. The whole is compact, and can be used on the field as well as in the hospital. A wounded soldier may have his wounds dreshed on the field, conveyed to an ambulance and then to the hospital without the necessity of being once removed. PARAFFINE FROM LIGNITS.—In the jury reports of the late London Exhibition it is stated that in Prussia a light colored lignite is digitled for paraf-fine and other products on a large scale. MANUFACTURE OF COAL OILS IN GREAT BRT-TAIN.--Notwithstanding the fact that in this coun-try the sinking of the petcoleum wells and intro-duction of the rock oils on such an immense seale into the market has, for the present, completely ruined the prospects of the manufacture of artificial oils by distilling coal and has caused the loss of erormous amounts of capital invested in these manufactures, yet in Great Britain; in consequence of the enhancement of price of the petroleum by its shipment across the Atlantic, coal oil has still been enabled to compete with it, at least as lately as 1863, in which year it is stated that the manufacture of coal oils in the United Kingdem amounted to as-much as 2,300,000 gailons. WOOL-SPINNING MACHINE.- A new self-opera-ting machine for spinning wool has been invented in Worcester, which draws the roring while twisting like a jack, and will make finer and better yarn than can be spun on a jack, with a fave for on-half the cost for labor, enabling the manufacturers to spin yarn fifty per, cent, cheaper than they have herefulfore done. Patents are to be taken out in this country and Europe for the invention, and it is the opinion of experienced manufacturers who have ex-amined the operation of the manufacturers who have ex-amined the operation of the manufacturers who fave ex-amined the operation of the manufacturers who fave ex-amined the best and most economical mathine for spinning wool yet invented.

THE ARCHBISHOP'S ADDRESS. THE ARCHBISHOP'S ADDRESS. The Archbishop then delivered his installation address, including a discourse upon St. Ignatus Loyois, whose festival occourred on that day. He then delivered a beautiful and impressive prayer to the Biessed Virgin, who was the Höly patron of the Cathedral, &c. He offered up a petition to God for the souls of all those present and in the diocese, and called upon his late predecessor (Archbishop Ken-rick), who, he was sure, was with the angels and saints of God, to pray for him and all those present. He was sure that in his case the weak had been selected against the strong, shings that were not to things that were. He called upon all to place their trust in God, as he had, and concluded his address by giving the Pontfacal Blessing. THE CONCLUSION OF THE OBREMONTES. The Rev. THE CONCLUSION OF THE CEREMONTES. The Rev. Thomas Foley read, in Latin, a brief ad-dress to the clergy of the diocess, and the Archbishop then announced the services at an end. As the bishops and priests retired from the sanctu-ary by the aitar doors leading into the episcopal man-sion, the orchestra played the Grand March from Reissiger, during the performance of which the im-mense congregation quietly retired, and the Most Rev. GENEBAL NEWS. DEATH OF FATHER WALDO.—The venerable Father Waldo, of Revolutionary fame, is dead. The Synacuse Courier says: "Ere this item is read this morning, the probabi-lity is that the venerable Father Waldo shall have passed from his earthly sojourn to the promised land of the eminently good and virtuous. He is now in his one hundred and second year, and has been ra-pidly shking for several days past from an affection of the throat. At our latest accounts last orwing, the venerable and respected steward of God's choice was no hope of arousing him. Even while we indite these lew lines his spirit may have passed to its Ore-stor. Father Waldo is one of the twelve survivors of the Revolutionary War, and in his passingerfrom life to eternity, he stands prepared to be garnered, like unto a shead of wheat'ully ripe." SUIGIDE OF AN AGED MAN.—MI.
