Two or three thousand dollars' worth of pyrotechnics blazed and shot, and spit and spirkled from the of the eve to two of the morn. They were brought from New York. The streets were paraded by po-litical clubs from New York and this city. The music came from Boston, at a cost, it is said, of be-tween eight and ten thousand dollars. THE STATE. ExtrEMENT OF THE STATE OAPITOL.—AF from as the board of commissioners can be convented, the contract for extending the Capitol will be let, and worklimmediately commenced. It is almost confi-dently predicted that the plan of Mr. Simon an eminent architect of Harrisburg, will be adopted, and that he will be charged with the erection of the extension. The plan of Mr. Simon proposes to ex-tend the building from the rear, with a front on State' street, which will add to the appearance of the whole building, and afford conventence ample for all the uses needed. It is hoped that work will be commended on this magnificent improvement so as to have it far advanced before the inclemency of the winter season interferes with the progress of the work.—Horrisburg Telegraph. SECAMM IN TROUBLE.—The Huntingdon American gives an Amming account of the troubles of a female Seech, on her way from Bedford Springs, who stopped at one of the Huntingdon hotels to wait for the eastward train. While at the hotel she used very treasonable language, and behaved in a manner that indicated her proclivities. The girls employed shout the house were incensed at her, and retailisted by treating her to a concert of Union songs-inmong others, singing, in full chorus, "We'll have Secosth to rave, whereupon the girls struck up" Rally round the Flag." Secesh was rampent, and declared the size would rather die than wikk under that fing. To test her, the girls procured a large United States flag, focked the door which opened on the sizes flag, focked the door which Sec cels was compelled to make her exit. She soom made her appearance, saw the flag, and paisad out under it, to the infinite merriment of the girls; who waved ft over her head as she departed, accompa-nying the action with the chorus." CARELESSNEESE VITH PORON.—A most distress-ing occurrence took place in Indiana county, on the stop we when her meriment of the girls; who Arbit of and up with the stars " CARELESSMERS WITH 'POISON.--A most distress-Ing occurrence took place in Indiana county, on the 25th ingt., which resulted in the death of a son of Joseph R. Brown, aged four years. It appears that some strychnich had been left in a bureau drawer, withing the child's reach ; having been there for some sime previous it was in a measure forgotten. The childgot it and took the fatal dose, which was almost immediately discovered by the mother, who did all all could to restore the child by giving things to counteract the effects of the poison, but to no avail; if half an hour he was a corpse. This should be another warning to parents to be on their guard about placing such dangerous things within the reach of children. JOHN C. LINDSAX, Esc., prothonotary of Perry JOHN OI CHIIdren. JOHN C. A corres- pondent, writing from Lubec, says that herring are plenty and fatter than for a number of years. It usually takes four hogsheads of fish to make one barrel of oil. This season if requires but a little over one hogshead. The oil which three years ago sold for $9 per barrel, now sells readily for $40, and herring which last year commanded 20 cents per box, now sell for 70 ents.—Portland Advertiser. INDIA RAILBOADS.—Two thousand six hundred and sighty beven miles of railway are already com- pleted in India, and as many more are authorized by Government. Almost all the roads now in course of congituration either are, or before they are com- pleted will be, connected with the cotton fields of that country.  AN ODD DEATH.—A man, named Jacob Decker, and singular diroumstances : He was in the act of skinning a cow which had died of poison, when some of the blood entered a slight wound on his wrist,	formed from the flowers and insects sometimes im- bedded in its mass. Its peculiarly resinous nature seems to point to some Hymenea or to the Binu Dammera as the parent plant, but there is no perfect identity between the produce of these genera and ambera. Nor is it certain that all kinds of amber proceed from the same source, for its aspect often varies considerably according to the bede in which it is found, which circumstance has led many natu- ralists to the belief that there are several amber- producing plants. In a paper addressed to the Academy of Sciences by M. Bandrimont, the com- position of this anomalous subject is examined. Reciue had already shown that white and opaque amber contains more succinic acid than the perfect- ity transparent yellow sort; Drapler had analyzed it, and found it to contain carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, and a small portion of ashes, consisting of lime, alumine, and cilica. M. Baudrimont, however, shows that it contains another element not intherbo mentioned, sulphur. It a fwr fragments of amber be subjected in a test tube to a heat of distillation, and paper impregnated with accts of lead be im- mersed into the white fum certain of the propor- tion of sulphur contained in amber is not, however, what less than 'one half percent. FRIENDLY FICHETSWe have often remarked that when the belligerent iroops are lying near one another for any length of time they become call communicative and friendly. They forget that they are enemies, and a kind of chivaliric honor and courtesy are strictly observed during their self-ap- pointed truce. If they are compelled to fire during the existence of this self constituted armistice they fire the first volley in the air, so as to give the others time to get back. The following incident, which happened a week or two ago in front of the 14th Corps of Shërman's army, fully illustrates how sensitive they are on such occasions of their honor. Our works are pretty close to the enemy's, and the pickets nearly meet in the centre. There was no fring along the lines, and it occurred to the poor fellows on both sides that it would be pleasant to get up out of their rifle pits, stretch their cramped limbs, and have a little friendly intercourse with their neighbors. So a sort of ventiloquism con- versation ensued from the pits, and, all prelimi- ther heighbors in the world. Trade was carried on on a small scale, escapes and adventures recounted, and home friends and scenes warmly discussed. Friezbir FrickersWe have often remarked that when the belligerent troops are lying near one another for any length of time they become quite communicative and friendly. They forget that they are enemies, and a kind of chivalirle honor and couriesy are sticly observed during their selfap- pointed truce. If they are compelled to fire during the existence of this self constituted armistice they fire the first volley in the air, so as to give the others time to get back. The following incident, which happened a week or two ago in front of the 14th Corps of Shérman's army, fully illustrates how sensitive they are on such occasions of their honor: Our works are pretty close to the enemy's, and the pickets nearly meet in the centre: There was no fring slong the lines, and it occurred to the poor fellows on both sides that it would be pleasant to get up out of their rifle-pits, strotch their cramped limbs, and have a little friendly intercourse with their neighbors. So a sort of ventriloquism con- veration ensuel from the pits, and, all prelimi- naries being satisfactorily arranged, a regular truce was agreed upon. They unmed up, shook off the dirt, and met in so friendly a. way that one would have thought they were the best and most loving neighbors in the world. Trade was carried on on a small scale, escapes and adventures recounted, and home friends and scenes warmly discussed. In the midat of the ining, the rebels in the rear called out to their com- rades, "Boys, come back, the Major is coming." Now it happened that the Major was an old, rusty, crusty customer, and had no hand in the truce at all ; so when he came up he was fin a frame, and why the hell	basis for White Men." The Express says that these organizations are to be spread over the country, and that they will soon appear with "their appropriate insignia." Their appropriate insignia seem to be the white feather and the flag of truce.—Boston Advertiser. HERING FISHERIES.—Our Eastern fishermen are reaping a good harvest this season. A corres- pondent, writing from Lubec, says that hering are plenty and fatter than for a number of years. It usually takes four hogsheads of fish to make one barel of oil. This season it requires but a little over one hogshead. The oil which three years ago sold for $0 per barrel, now sells readily for $40, and herring which last year commanded 25 cents per box, now sell for 70 cents.—Perutand Advertiser. "INDIA'RATROADE.—Two thousand six hundred and sighty beven miles of railway are already com- pleted in India, and as many more are authorized by Government. Almost all the roads now in course of congtruction either are, or before they are com- pleted will be, connected with the cotton fields of that country. "AN ODD DEATH.—A man, named Jacob Decker, of Hudeon, died a few days since under the follow- ing singular diroumstances : He was in the act of skinning a cow which had died of poison, when some to the blood entered a slight wound on his wrist, caused by the sing of an insect. ANCOT DEATH.—The captain of a fishing Yessel, who was in town on Friday, reports that on Wednesday of last week his vessel was burnt, off Mount Desert, by a rebel steamer, not the Tailahas- see. He had on board a fan of one hundred barrels of mackerel. He says that at the same time his vessel was destroyed he saw as alth and the diraw the function fin the neighborhood.—Portland Argus. "A CUEROUS WILL.—There lately died in Buenos A yrees an old man of 78 years, whose will onnation a clause leaving ten thousand clgars for those who in might attend his fureral. This eccentric testator is the English sliver coins per latels and bark on fro leave the house of mouring without druking to his memory all th	formed from the flowers and insects sometimes im- bedded in its mass. Its peculiarly resinous nature seems to point to some Hymenea or to the Binu Dammara as the parent plant, but there is no perfect identity between the produce of these geners and ambera. Nor is it certain that all kinds of amber proceed from the same source, for its aspect often viries considerably according to the bedde in which it is found, which circumstance has led many natu- ralists to the belief that there are several amber- producing plants. In a paper addressed to the Academy of Sciences by M. Bandrimont, the com- position of this anomalous, subject is examined. Reciue had already shown that white and opaque amber contains more succinic acid than the perfect- ly transparent yellow sort; Drapher had analyzed it, and found it to contain carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, and a small portion of ashes, consisting of line, alumina, and felica. M. Baudrimont, however, shows that it contains another elements not hitherto mentioned, sulphur. It a few fragments of amber be subjected in a test tube to a heat of distillation, and paper impregnated with acetato of lead be im- merfed into the white fum esevolved, it immediately trans black, thus unmistakably denoting the presence of a sulphureted compound. The propor- tion of sulphur contained in affiber is not, however, what less than one-half percent. But under what form does not tell us, but states that most certainly it is combined with ofganlo matter, because it is soluble bitumen contained in the amber? M. Band soluble bitumen contained in the states of the add tribut does not tell us, but states that most certainly it is combined with ofganlo matter, because it is vorted under the form of hydrosulphuric acid Scientific American .
