We well remember the time when the most RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE. loyal church in the land refused to admit to her ministry men of the brightest intellects and purest plety, because they were uncompromisingly opposed to this "sum of all human villainies;" the virus God in the Nation. A sermon preached in the Spring Garden-street M. E. Church, Philadelphia, Sunday, Sept. 11th, 1864, on the occasion of the recommendation of the President of the United States for the people in all their religious assemblies to give thanks to Almighty God for the victories with which He has crowned our army and navy, in the capture of Fort Morgan and Atlanta-by Rev. JAMES NEILL, pastor. [Reported for The Press.] Reported for The Press. 1

"The Lord reigneth."—Ps. 97th, 1st.

The recommendation of our good President that we should give thanks to Almighty God for the victories obtained by Sherman over Atlanta, and by Farragut and Granger over Fort Morgan, is so characteristic of his whole course of conduct since his elevation to the Chief Magistracy of the nation that it deserves the hearty response of every good citizen, as it is but another instance of that recognition of the Divine Providence in our behalf and of our zen, as it is but another instance of that recognition of the Divine Providence in our behalf, and of our entire dependence on Him, which has so signally distinguished his administration.

When he left his quiet home in the West for the When he left his quiet home in the West for the scenes of turmoil at the Capital, his parting request of the people who knew him so long, and loved him so well, was that they would pray for him, and they did it. When he passed through our city to his inauguration in the most private manner to escape the dangers of the traitors on the route, who were bound by an oath, as were the enemies of Paul, to assassinate him, his entire reliance was on the arm of Providence for protection. When he took the oath of office, and delivered his inaugural address, he conscerated himself to the great work before him oath of office, and delivered his inaugural address, he conscerated himself to the great work before him in the same spirit, and threw himself upon the prayers of the people, and never was man more fervently and constantly prayed for. During the progress of this terrible war with rebellion, when our armies have been remulsed, he has collected as gress of this terrible war with rebellion, when our armies have been repulsed, he has called the people to fasting, humiliation, and prayer; and when victory has crowned them, to thankegiving in all their public religious assemblies, thus perpetually recognizing our dependence on God for success and His interposition in our behalf.

But a few weeks have passed since we assembled in this termle to observe one of those days of humiliants. in this temple to observe one of those days of humili-ation before God on account of our sins. The ap-proach of an invading army alarmed us. The ashes of Chambersburg were the sad index of what we of Chambersburg were the sad index of what we might expect were they not driven back. The repulse at Petersburg, with the killing and wounding of five thousand of our men, was felt like a funeral pall upon the nation, and we met to confess our sine and pray for forgiveness. The great heart of the people throbbed with emotion, and their voices went up in earnest prayer; and God heard us. And as in September, 1861, the first fast-day appointed by Mr. Lincoln, we ventured to predict immediate and clusters referries and they came with such as in September, 1861, the first last may appointed by Mr. Lincoln, we ventured to predict immediate and glorious victories, and they came with such rapidity, from Front Royal to Pittsburg Landing, that the memory could scarcely retain them, so we ventured to trust on in that same Providence, and look for others to follow the last fast-day, and lo! they have come. Sherman, who has overmatched four of their cheer charge generals and conguered much of their their chosen generals, and conquered much of their their chosen general, and conduct much their territory, has captured Atlanta; while the fearless Farragut, with his figg at the mast-head and himself bound in the rigging, passes the obstructions in the channel, achieves one of the most brilliant exploits in naval warfare, and compels the surrender of a fort that was considered almost impregnable— over whose ramparts now float the stars and stripes. Who that reads Divine Providence aright can fail to see His hand in this? He had heard a nation's to see His hand in this. The national description prayers for pardon and success, and now He bestows the answer in glorious victories, and it is right that we should acknowledge it.

The text is the call of David to thanksgiving and acknowledgement of the Divine Sovereignty; after he had so tar overcome his enemies as to establish that there in Terusalem and see in the foture the his throne in Jerusalem, and see in the future the quiet possession of the land which God had promised to Abraham and his seed as a possession. And we come to day not only to thank him for what we have just realized, but that our faith may anticipate just realized, but that our tath may antispate future victories, until every fort and town and city shall be repossessed, and the stars and stripes shall float over every portion of the land, as the last and most glorious guarantee of universal freedom. In the improvement of this occasion, we shall ask-your attention to the simple truth stated in the text.

"The Lord reigneth."

I. To reign is to exercise supreme authority.

When applied to God it means that diffused presence which perates through all things, controlling them in accordance with the harmony of His attributes.

1st. He reigns in the material world, exhibiting His power and wisdom in all its arrangements. What we are apt to call the laws of nature, are but God, ever present and active; those continual changes, and that endless variety seen in the budding spring, the leaded harvest, the fading autumn, and the chill winter are but the perpetual workings of an all-pervading Godhead. We speak of the chemical action of earth, air, and water producing all the beauty and utility that we see around us, but God is the Great Chemist, working unseen in but God is the Great Chemist, working unseen in His world-wide laboratory, reigning everywhere. Even the untutored Indian, with the dim light of natural religion or confused tradition, sees Him in the trembling leaf, and hears Him in the winds, and reads His anger in the storm; and shall the Christian, taught in the highest school of divine wisdom, close his eyes to the teachings of the inspired volume, and by binding himself to a philosophy that shuts God out frem everything by "science, falsely so-called," fall below the wild son of the forest? No: we can go with the philosopher everywhere, in all his researches, and admire as much as he does but his researches, and admire as much as he does, but when his system of cause and effect becomes athesistic, we must proclaim, even in reference to the material world, "the Lord reigneth."

2d. The reign of God is seen in the animal kingdom. What has put the fear of man into their instincts, so that the lion will crouch at the brightness of his intellectual eye, and the giant elephant yield his strength to his will, and all the inferior grades fiee before his presence, but the impression that God has made upon their nature, to give us the dominion over them. senter, so this intellectual eye, and the giant clephant yield his strength to his will, and all the inferior grades fice before his presence, but the impression that God has made upon their nature, to give us the dominion over them.

3d. He reigns in the affairs of men. There is much infidelity in our hears that shuft God out here, and refers everything to second causes, just because we cannot trace he doings, or see the end from the beginning, yet he Bible is fall of the doctrine of the text, as is respects both individuals and nations. Men laughed at was industriously at work to make something that would float when God brought the deluge upon the earth; and as the sun shone out in accoustomed brightness, just before the sky gathered black all things remain as they were from the beginning; but the first and fundamental principle of his religion was the truth in the text; and while he was voyaging in safety on the foam of the shoreless sea, the lone family left of all his generation, how his heart must have thrilled with the feeling that he was in the hands of that God at whose mandate the fountains of the great deep could be either opened or olosed. When I oseph was sold to the Ishmaelites as a slavel some of his brethren rejoiced at the success of their scheme, but when famine raged in Palestine and he fed them from Egyptian storehouses, and then brought them down to the richest portion of the land, they saw the religh of God in the preservation and promotion of that envied boy, and they confessed it.

But it is equally true of nations as of individuals, and we have only to look at the record of history to see it. The Jows were permitted to occupy their land until after the organization of the Christian church; then they were dispersed or slain by the Romans. That mighty empire, stood until Christianity became the adopted religion of the majority of one hundred and twenty millions, but when they rejected that best gift of God to a people, the Mistress of Universal Power was broken to pleces and the sceptre o cess; and in this strength washington, with his raw militia, poorly clad, and but imperfectly disciplined, conquered the greatest military Power then on the earth, and gave us independence. God was in the preparation, and in the mighty struggle, and sanctioned the undertakings of our fathers. He had a mission of light and love for this nation to fulfil to other nations, and tribes, and ruled over its progress. a mission of light and love for this nation to fulfit to other nations, and tribes, and ruled over its progress.

Never was a land blessed with such prosperity. From three millions it increased, in a brief historical period, to thirty-one millions; so that many who saw our infant republic rocked in the storms of the Revolution, have lived to see it a glant among the nations, its commerce extending over every sea, and its flag universally respected. The sparse population scattered along the sea shore, contending with the wild animals of the forest for possession, has swelled its numbers, until from the Atlantic to the Pacific the whole land is dotted over with prosperous towns and cities, filled with the hum of industry, the fields have produced their abundant harvests and the earth yielded its hidden stores of minerals of the greatest utility, while every portion of it is bound to the other with great iron sinews bearing the burden of a nation's products, making the perpetual puff of the locomotive, and the rush of a thousand railroad cars, the inspiring poetry that stirs the heart of every individual to contribute his portion to the grand aggregate of our presperity.

Never was a nation blessed with such religious might at Twentieth and Shippen streets; we went tion of it is bound to the other with great iron sinews bearing the burden of a nation's products, making the perpetual puff of the locomotive, and the rush of a thousand railroad cars, the inspiring poetry that stirs the heart of every individual to contribute his portion to the grand aggregate of our presperity.

Never was a nation blessed with such religious prosperity. The whole period of her history is a record of revivals, a perpetual peticost, and fallmost constant ingathering of souls into the fold of Christic We are not so inmiliar with the statistics of cur sister churches as to furnish a statement of their progress, further than to say that they have always been active competitors in the race to win souls, and have done their work nobly in diffusing and establishing that religion that constitutes the strength and bulwark of our noble Republic; but our own people have built five churches per week, for the last fifty years, and in one single year increased her communion nearly twofhundred thousand souls, and to-day, after all that have been removed from their quiet homes by the pear removed from their quiet homes he the statistics and and Washington avenue and hired a cab; it was proposed to give to the dand two here we took eight or ten drinks; Stewart got into the cab and proposed to go up to Currant alley, where we took eight or ten drinks; Stewart got into the cab and proposed to go up to Currant alley, and the the house in Currant alley and proposed to go up to Currant alley and but the house in Currant alley and the the house in Currant alley and the the house in Curran Republic; but our own people have built five churches per week, for the last fifty years, and in one single year increased her communion nearly twofhundred thousand souls, and to-day, after all that have been removed from their quiet homes, by the Great Bishop of Souls to the upper temple, and all the waste of more than three years' war, which has fallen heavily on her, she still numbers nearly one million of communicants, the great majority of whom are as loyal to the Government as they are to their religious profession. Gasparin, one of the most intelligent and truthful writers on American sifairs, estimates our voluntary contributions, for religious and benevolent purposes, at from fity to say willions yearly, all employed in weaving into the very woof and web of our national existence the years, and he died at hall-past four of the lights standard, making us law-abiding, and willing to sacrifice personal interests for the geneals good. When we consider what God hath vought for us in this respect, we cannot fail to see the scentant and merciful interposition in our behalf. A year were a people so tully open to the influence to infidelity as the generation who laid the foundation of the Government. They had proclaimed in the was a fallen have known him to carry a bilty the ferror.

Anna McBride, residing at 243 Currant alley, the being sworn, testified that about half-past three chase; they knocked at the door and asked for Stewart, who opened the door; they went down the chaise; they knocked at the door and asked for Stewart, who opened the door; they went down the chaise; they knocked at the door and asked for Stewart said commenced talking; some dispute arose between the Donaghy brothers about change; Mr. Stewart said, "I rwin, you got change right;" Donaghy went up stairs, and a scuffie ensued on the street; both brothers had Stewart bent over the barry in the first stairs; Stewart said he did not want to fight; they they down the fell and commenced talking; some dispute or settles they knocked at the loo cab driver; at about two o'clock, in the morning, three men came to him at Broad street and Washington avenue, and hired a cab from him; he drove them around to a number of taverns, and finally to Currant alley; they refused to pay him, but the man who was killed got a five-dollar note changed at Currant alley, and paid him three dollars. The witness then corroborated the testimony of the previous witnesses relative to the fight.

A number of other witnesses were examined, some of whom testified that Stewart kicked the deceased in the head after he was down.

Dr Shapleigh, being sworn, said: I made a post mortem examination of the deceased, and found two contusions—one on the forehead, and the other below the left ear, more severe. The skin was not broken, nor was there any fracture of the skull. Pressing upon the brain, I discovered a clot of blood. Deceased came to his death by hemorrhage of the brain, which was caused by the blow behind the left ear. A strong blow from a billy would most likely have broken some of the bones of the skull. The blow might have been caused by a very severe blow from a very hard fist. There was a large quantity of blood on the brain, which caused death. Stowart went to the Fifth-ward station-house and the is about 33 years of age, and has a wife and two children.

The jury rendered a verdict that the deceased in nof the Government. They had proclaimed liity of conscience, freedom of thought and speech;
ity placed no national guard around Ohritianity, and no human obstacle was placed in the way of it becoming the prey to that system that shuts dodout of the councils of the nation, and at the togo of the last century proclaimed the carnival of lood in France, and left a stain upon her history it at can never be erased. Yet there never has been between the steen of the left of edicated, every returning Sabbath, is that "The Lord reigneth," and his sceptre over us has been 4. But the reign of God is seen in our present difficulties. He permitted slavery to exist among us as an evil, because we loved it, and bowed down to its power and made laws for its protection, and converted every man in the North into a slave flunter, it rylolate the laws of the land. For more than ighty years we have given the lie to the immortal Declaration of Independence, levery time we read it on the Fourth of July, "That all men were created firee and equal, and enjoy the inalignable right of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." He permitted evil councils to prevail in the nation until the whole power of the Government was bound to the charlot-wheels of slavery, and dragged to the verge of ruin. The Church became so corrupted by it that bishops nursed it as a home-born child, and ministers put the thumb-serew of torture to a chundred passages of Scripture to compel them for say that it was an institution of God-4. But the reign of God is seen in our present diffi-to be held at Easton during the last week in this month, are actively engaged in having constructed an immense rustic ornamental scene of rocky grottoes and moss-covered recesses, out of which will spring jets of water, that, descending in misty spray, will give life to the rare aqueous plants growing in the beautiful lake beneath. In addition to this, a collection of several hundred exotic plants, and a splendid variety of unique hanging baskets, &c., from Philadelphia, it is expected, will add to the display, altogether forming such an attractive feature of the exhibition that it will be thronged with visitors daily. spread through every grade and class of the church and State, and corrupted the vast majority; and the Providence of God is seen in the fact, that while the Providence of God is seen in the fact, that while he permitted evil councils to pervade until the interests of liberty, here, and throughout the world, were endangered, the very men pledged for its sustemance were allowed to become the means of its overthrow. The grasping demands of the Southern section of the Charleston Convention disgusted the loyal portion, and created a purely pro-slavery party, whose motto was "rule or ruin," while the other portion, with Douglas at their head, stood fast by the country, and gave their adherence to the present incumbent, and have furnished some of our most distinguished generals and statesmen. The people became atarmed at the power on whose lap, Sampson like, we were well nigh shorn of our strength, and they resolved to electan honest man, who would not be made the tool of the designing, as was his predecessors. They might have bound us still longer, had their leaders remained in their seats in Congress, and cast their votes for the Crittenden Compromise, but like the Amorites, "the cup of their iniquity was full," the madness that precedes suicide had seized them, secession soon became an accomplished fact, them secession soon became an accomplished fact, a Ruffin by name and a ruffian by nature, in opening fire upon Anderson's half-starved handful of men in Fort Sumpter, passed the Rubicon—insulted the American flag—and the intelligence, as it flew with lightning speed, aroused the loyal heart of the nation, and a million men were ready to rush to the support of the Government to crush the rebellion.

5. But this contest was deferred until the nation became strong, and in this we see the reign of God. Had it come in our weakness, the monarchs of the Old World, full of green-eyed jealousy of a re-public, would have intervened and crushed us, public, would have intervened and crushed us, but in our strength they are cautious in their movements—the aristocracy of England may indulge in base misrepresentations, and fit out pirates to destroy our commerce, but the Government has been restrained from any overtact that would lead to a collision, while Providence has raised up a Bright and Cobden, an Arthur, and a Beecher to influence the masses, so that at the great mass meeting at Manchester to deliberate on American affairs, five thousand of the operatives, with Beecher to influence the masses, so that at the great mass meeting at Manchester to deliberate on American affairs, five thousand of the operatives, with their mills reduced to half time, and their families to the strictest economy, said, "rather than interfere against freedom, and in behalf of slavery, let us stop, and let our families become paupers."

France, too, has been restrained by the same invisible power, for although her ports have been open, and her dockyards used to refit these piratical vessels, notwithstanding her possession of Mexico by the strategy of that prince of Josults, Louis Napoleon, yet the has not dared to move for direct intervention. Such has been the complication of European affairs since the Crimean war, that the mutual jealousies existing between them have prevented either from taking the lead, while Russia, the great Power of the North, has openly avowed her friendship for us, in any contest for the permanency of our Government.

6. See how God has given us the means of warfare. All the material is found on our own soil. Our mountains abound in coal, and our valleys with wood and iron, while the American mechanic has no superior. Vessels, guns, and ammunition arecrated as if by magic, of such capacity and in such wood and iron, while the American mechanic has no superior. Vessels, guns, and ammunition are created as if by magic, of such capacity and in such numbers as to astonish the world, while the means of replenishing our army more than keep pace with the waste of war. General Halleck, in his last annual report, estimates that we had two hundred and fifty thousand more men capable of bearing arms on the first of January, 1864, than we had April 1st, 1861, after all the terrible losses we had sustained.

But I wish to direct your attention to a special infernosition of Providence in this connection. In But I wish to direct your attention to a special interposition of Providence in this connection. In 1829, if memory is not at fault, the Liverpool and Manchester railroad was finished. Wm. Stephenson and Mr. Ericsson had each built an engine as competitors. On the trial trip, Ericsson's engine, though superior in speed, broke her cold-water pump. A week was asked for repairs and granted; the second trial brought the same results. A second week was asked and granted for repairs; but before the third contest, the road was opened for public travel and traffic, and Ericsson, chagrined at the unfairness of the treatment, left for our shores, where he found a warm reception, and a wide field for the exercise of his genius. For twenty years he had been planning a floating battery, for shore defence, that would resist the heaviest fire of the most powerful batteries. He obtained the sanction of the Government, and in a hundred days the Monitor was afloat, reaching Hampton Roads just after the sinking of the Congress and Cumberland. She immediately attacked the Merrimac and saved a fleet of transports in the roadstead. Who of us can fail to discover the connection between a broken pump in Ericland in 1839 and the efficiency of the Monitor ports in the roadstead. Who of us can fail to discover the connection between a broken pump in England, in 1829, and the efficiency of the Monitor in 1831, in Hampton Roads?

7. But the hopes of the South have been disappointed. She hoped to see an insurrection in the North, and an army go forth in support of her cause. Colonel Crinshaw, one of the most prominent men in the now rebel capital, said to me the day before Fort Sumpter was attacked, that for every man I could find in the North, who would take up arms to sustain the Lincoln Administration, he would find two who would espouse the cause of the South; but in this they were disappointed. She flattered her soldiers that one of them was equal to five of ours, but in this she has them was equal to five of ours, but in this she has been sadly disappointed. She hoped long, and begged industriously, for foreign intervention, only to be disappointed. Her last hope is in the success of treason in the North, under the false title of peace men, and secret organizations, whose argu for peace are to be the dagger and the ritie, and public Conventions of her iriends have done much, and will do more, to restore her to her former supremacy over the land; but in this too, we venture to predict, she will be disappointed. God has not raised up this nation to have it destroyed. He is only reigning so as to give every traitor both North and South an opportunity of burning the brand into his own forehead, bone deep, which shall be the indelible initial of the disgrace he has brought upon himself, when, for the position he has assumed, he shall be regarded as a Cain-like fugitive, cursed of God and abnorred by man until the day of his death.

The rebellion is nearly crushed; Fort Morgan taken, Mobile certain to surrender, Atlanta in our possession, and Sherman preparing to strike another blow, while Grant is shutting every avenue to Richmond, so that flour is three hundred and second possession, and Sherman preparing to strike another blow, while Grant is shutting every avenue to Richmond, so that flour is three hundred and seventy-five dollars per barrel, and every port but that of Wilmington sealed against blockade-running; her population exhausted by conscription, so that, from sixteen to sixty, nearly all are in the army; while with us more than two millions are left, so that when a draft for 500,000 men is ordered to take place in sixty days, such is the gathering of volunteers that it is questionable whether there will be a necessity for its enforcement. What means all this power? Whence these yast resources? Napoleon said: "Providence was on the side of the heaviest artillery," and so he found it. England had it, for God providende was on the side of the heaviest artillery," and so he found it. England had it, for God providen with it. She was a Christian nation; his an infidel. And so it is with us. God has furnished us with all we need, with his blessing, to crush this rebellion, and then meet any who may adopt her cause. Never since the commencement of the war was there such ground for rejoicing as now. The territory conquered is greater than France, England, and Austria combined, and the war is now confined to two principal points, under the care of Grant and Sherman, and, with God on our side, we have nothing to fear from the battle-fields. Our most dangerous enemies are those janus-faced Judases at home, who are perpetually proclaiming their love of country, and wet have all their sympathies with the enemy, and make their boast, while they enjoy all the immunities of this God-bestowed Government, that they have never given a dollar or a vote for its support in this terrible struggle to maintain its rightful supremacy. But let no man's heart fail him, but let him do his full duty. God is working his own good pleasure, and the day is not far distant when the leaders will abandon their vain attempt, and the men will lay down their arms, as they did at Fort Morgan, and the day is n sweetest of national anthems, the Star-Spangled Banner, shall be sung by both North and South, and the whole nation, with freedom established everywhere and forever, will send up one universal shout, "Hallelujah! the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth!" Yesterday morning, about four o'clock, an unfortunate affair occurred in Curant alley, which resulted in the death of Irwin Donaghy, who is about 35 years of age, and who leaves a wile and child residing in Hazel street, between Front and Second streets. The particulars of the affair were developed yesterday atternoon at the coroner's inquest.

Charles Bagley, being sworn, said: Last evening Irwin Donaghy, and his brother Hood and myself, were out, and about one o'clock it was proposed to get a chaise and go to Stewart's, at Tenth and Federal streets; we stayed at Stewart's tavern till three o'clock, and drank several times; we then went to Currant alley; I went up stairs and lay down on the sofa; Stewart, who had come with us from his tavern, and the two Donaghys, went'down stairs; after they had been dewn stairs for some time they came up, and, as they were coming, a scuffle began among the three; I saw Irwin Donaghy strike Stewart; Hood Donaghy held on to him; Stewart said to give him fair play, or to stand square, or something of that kind; I saw Stewart hit Irwin Donaghy, and I then went to find a policeman; when I came back I saw froth coming out of Irwin's mouth; I stayed with him till he died; there was no quarrelling in Stewart's house; they have always been friends; Mr. Irwin Donaghy told me that atternoon that he had paid Stewart $15, which he owed him; the conversation in the carriage was on general subjects, and there was no bad feeling; we had all been drinking; I saw no kicking after the deceased was down; they were both striking at Mr. Stewart; as far as I could judge, Mr. Stewart did not want to fight.

Hood Donaghy, the brother of deceased, being sworn, said: Bagiey and my brother met me last night at Twentieth and Shippen streets; we went down to Broad and Washington avenue and hired a cab; it was proposed to stop at Stewart's tavern, where we took eight or ten drinks; Stewart got into NER'S INQUEST.

This well and widely-known institute, occupying the whole upper portion of three stories of the large double building at the northeast corner of Chestnut and Seventh streets, has met with unexampled prosperity since its organization in 1844. The principal of the institution is Prof. John Grocsbeck. Under his care and pleasant management it has become quite a favorite resort of young men who are desirous of advancing themselves in life by a thorough and practical course of commercial knowledge, within the past year five hundred students have been in attendance. The college is fitted in the new improvements and appurtenances necessary for a thorough knowledge of-telegraphing and commercial education.

POLITICAL AND PUGILISTIC. POLITICAL AND PUGILISTIC. At the headquarters of the Keystone Ciub there At the headquarters of the Keystone Ciub there is a transparency bearing the name and portrait of George B. McClellan—a gentleman now mentioned in connection with the Presidency. The portrait bears a marked resemblance to Mr. John C. Heenan, the distinguished champion of American rights abroad. This happy conception on the part of the artist inepires new confidence among the Democracy of Philadelphia, as it is believed the compliment thus paid to Mr. Heenan will increase their yote in some of our lower wards. We take their vote in some of our lower wards. We take this occasion further to say that entertainments are still given by Colonel McCandless and his friends at the low concert saloon. A REFINED THEFT. A lady, well known in fashionable circles, yesterday entered the store of Mr. Eugene Jouin, No. 111 South Tenth street, and while the attention of the attendant was for a time diverted, purloined a package of the "Email de Paris." A lady in the store observing the theft, the fair "customer," despite her protestations of innocence, was obliged to return the article. The well-known standing of the lady saved her from the discomfiture of a prosecution. It is strange that any lady would risk her moral reputation, and subject herself to punishmoral reputation, and subject horself to punishment; when for a small sum she might obtain a bottle of the desired article, and thus her conscience, like her slin, would be entirely clear. U. S. SANITARY COMMISSION. The steamer Elizabeth, Captain Fowler, will leave the port of Philadelphia this morning on a trip to City Point. The steamer is fully loaded with the necessaries and luxuries of life for the Union soldiers, by order of the United States Sanitary Commission. The cargo is valued at $45,000, and consists of clothing of various kinds, suitable for soldiers, vegetables, wine and liquor, smoking and chewing tobacco, and a variety of notions of use to the soldier. This steamer has been in the service of the commission for some time, but never was there on board of it a fuller or better assorted cargo. Such a boat, on such a mission, is potent enough to counteract all the evil that the Copperheads can possibly do. .  • = = no other news of importance to report.

Wishart's Dyspepsia Pills, is an unfall-THE GRACEFUL ART OF DANCING. THE GRACEFUL ART OF DANCING.

The good book says there is a time for everything, and in this the art of dancing is included. It is a graceful art, and may be traced back thousands of years. It is a healthful exercise, because it expands and strengthens the muscles, and thus adds twenty, per cent. to the term of life. Dancing is approved of by the clergy and medical fraternity, and solentific gentlemen generally. It is an art that comparatively few have availed themselves of, and in order to facilitate more general opportunities, Madame E. Jules Martin proposes to introduce it into boarding schools as well as families, for the particulars of which we refer the reader to an advertisement in another part of this day's Press.

SEED. WHEAT. ing cure for Dyspepsia. Mn. WISHART: I wish to add my testimouy to the hundreds you receive to the healing properties of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial. For fifteen years a sufferer, ten years of that time I have slept only in my chair, not being able to lie down for fear of suffocation. I have employed seven of the best physicians in Philadelphia, who all proneunced my case incurable. I was taken to the College, where the Faoulty, having done what they could, declared my disease an incurable case of asthma and Chronic Dyspepsia, in its last stage, and that my lungs were partially gone. Finding one of your circulars, my wile procured from your store a bottle of your Cordial. Perseveringly lused seven bottles, and a box and a half of your Dyspepsia Pills, when I felt that my disease had wholly given way, and the Cordial had given me new vigor and strength. I continued to improve, and for the past three months I have been able to sleep in my bed as soundly as I ever did. I am now well, and have gained twenty-five pounds in my weight. I am able to work and provide for my family. I send you this true and faithful statement for the benefit of the suffering. Friends, call and see me, near Oxford Church Post Office, Twenty-third ward. Philadelphia. SEED WHEAT. The degeneracy of the Wheat crop of this country must be obvious to every one, and the necessi-ty of rejuvenating this important product must be apparent to every producer as well as to the conapparent to every producer as well as to the consumer. READING. Pa. April 19, 1864.

Dr. Wishart: Dear Sir: One frear ago the Examining Surgeon of this district told me I had Consumption of the Lungs, and that I could not be cured; and judging from all my symptoms at that time I myself supposed this to be true. I was for more than one year troubled with a backing cough, which gradually grew so bad that I could not have a severe fit of conghing without spitting up blood in large quantities.

For months I could not work at anything, and was obliged to keep my bed most of the time. While in this condition I was in Mr. Rowbotham's store, in this city, and he seeing me very low, I was 'recommended to try your Pine Tree Tar Cordial. He said he had sold a great deal of it, and that, as it had cured so many others, he believed it would do some good. I bought a bottle and commenced using it. In a very short time I saw that I was getting better very fast, and after taking several bottles I was entirely restored to heath, so that I could work every day at my business, which is very heavy work in an iron foundry. When I commenced to use your Pine Tree Tar Cordial my weight was only one hundred and thirty-five pounds; since the use of it I have weighed on an average one hundred and fity-five. I shall be glad to have you publish this, as I believe I should not have been living at this time if I had not used your great medicine, and I wish all who suffer to receive its benefit.

Very truly yours, Captain SAMUEL HARNER, No. 534 S. Eighth street, Reading, Pa. THE DRAFT IN THIS CITY. Mr. Wishart: Sir: I return you my grateful thanks for the discovery you have made in making a medicine that will cure Inflammation of the Lungs and Liver Complaint. When I commenced to use your Pine Tree Cordial I was, to all appearance, near my grave. I had been for a length of time spitting blood, and would at times womit it. My physicians (for I employed two) pronounced me past cure; but my sister had used your Pine Tree Tar Cordial, which did her so much good that she prevailed on me, as a last resort, to try it; and, thank God, I commenced to use it. I have taken twelve bottles, and am perfectly cured, and am ready and willing that any person that is sick should call on me, and I will tell them what your cordial has done for me. All my speedy return to health, for they had seen me vomit blood in a clotted state frequently. Publish my case, for I want every person that is suffering as I was to know of your invaluable medicine.

Respectfully, JOHN VERDIN.
