The Soldiers and McClellan. To the Editor of The Press: Sir: It is a fact, though strange, that many of our soldiers who have suffered hardships, privations, and wounds—soldiers who are now inmates of our city hospitals—are strong advocates of Gren. McClellan. Why, it is not in my power to determine; but suffice to say, it cannot be from policy, therefore I can attribute it to nothing short of the most honest	curred in, as also a bill making an appropriation to pay the expenses of receptions to returning veterans. Nr. King (O.) offered a resolution empowering the West Philadelphia Passenger Railroad and the Pennsylvania Railroad to construct a siding into the new depot in course of construction for the latter company at Thirty-first and Market. for the accommodation of passengers. I can attribute it to nothing short of the most honest kind of ignorance. I cannot see how it is possible that men who have made so many sacrifices in a just and good cause can, when on the eve of realization of the object for which they have suffered so much, support and advocate those who would, if raised to power, erase every object of our pride and glory, and dispel what should be our fondest hope.
