[For the Press.] A Voice from the Army. "JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE, MOTHER." Just before election, brothers, We are thinking most of you, While on picket, or in trenches, " With the enemy in view." Bravely we have fought and suffered, And with wounds and fevers died. That the bright, tri-colored banner. Still may flost in starry pride. CHORT'S-Listen, brothers, you may never Hear from us in life again, But oh! you'll not forget us, brothers, If we're numbered with the slata Every night, in dreams we see you In those pleasant Northern homes, Where the peaceful dawn of morning Brings no stirring roll of drums, And it costs a pany of sorrow That ungrateful men there be Who would sell their country's honor And her soldiers' liberty. CHORUS-Tell them we can face the bullets That their "Southern friends" shall send But, oh! we'll not forget them, brothers, When this "crucl war" shall end. All along the rebel earthworks We have savage shoutings heard, You will scarce believe it, brothers. But " McClellan" was the word. Think of that, ye Northern voters, Will ye make such demons gloat? Ask our fallen comrades' widows. They will tell you how to vote. CHORUS-Sonless mothers, weeping sisters, Raise imploring hands to you, And, oh! you'll not forget them, brothers And destroy their country too. Let the traitors keep their pity, We are soldiers, and can bear All the hardships of the struggle And have courage yet to spare ; And we ask no wiser helmsman At the ship of State than he Who has raid, and clothed, and fed us, As the Army of the Free. CHORUS-Hark! it is the bugle sounding, Grant still finds us work to do, But, oh! we'll not forget those traitors. When this bloody war is thro'. An Answer to Mr. Northrop's Questions To the Editor of The Press : Sin: As Mr. Northrop has closed his debate trust you will allow me to answer, in my own way, the questions he propounded to Judge Kelley: 1. The Constitution of the United States within its limitations is the supreme law of the land, and the only bond of the Union of the States. the only bond of the Union of the States.

This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made or which shall be made, under the auttority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.—Art. 6th, Sec. 2d.

It is the legal expression of Union already existing, not between the States, but between the people of the States, (ordained, not by the States in their sovereign capacity, but emphatically, as the presamble declares, by the people of the United States.—

The only mode by which the Constitution can be altered or amended is presented by the instru-The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or on the application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, Legislatures of two thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments; which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions of three-fourths thereof, as the one or, the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress.—Art. 5th.

3. Whenever any department of Government exercises any power beyond or antagonistic to the Constitution, it is revolution. No; it is either an unconstitutional exercise of power or usurpation. Congress, which is a department of the Government, may pass an act which the Supreme Court will ultimately affirm to be unconstitutional. Till such affirmance, Congress is exercising a power unauthorized by the Constitution, and therefore beyond and antagonistic to it. But this is not revolution. So the President may exercise a power unauthorized by the Constitution verse assertion of some right or privilege belonging or mode of government, effected by forcible resistance on the part of the governed to the existing 4. A successful revolution against the Constitu-tion by those in power subverts the principles of our Government, produces anarchy, and establishes a deposition As there is no such thing as a revolution against cause of anarchy and establishment of a despotism. Ex nihilo nihil fit. 5. The theory of the equality of the negro with the white man is not a justifiable principle of revo-A revolution is an act on the part of the governed arising from dissatisfaction with the existing authobeing inherently wrong, produce more suffering and calamity than the forcible prevention of them will, Revolution implies, therefore, a reasonable expectameasures from future operation. The theory of the equality of the negro with the white man is not a governmental measure, and so cannot be classed The questions proposed were as follows:

1. Are you in favor of the restoration of the Union of these States, with their rights and powers as they were at the breaking out of the rebellion? The provisions of the Constitution respecting slavery were inserted through a compromise. This slavery. Neither did the second compromise o 1819, nor the third compromise of 1850. A compromise implies a prior conflict of preferences, and that ference against, a given measure. As the people of some of the slave States have attempted to resume what they had yielded, and have taken up question in accordance with their original preference, I am in favor not of a fourth useless attempt to compromise, but of settling the question in acof the free States, and thereby removing effectually the cause of diversities and war. I am in favor, State can establish or maintain any form of slavery within its limits, and will then be willing that the revolted slave States should come back, with the 2. Do you regard as constitutional, and do you approve of the exercise of the military and civil power of the Federal Government to create and establish a new State out of part of an old one? approve of the Exercise of the military and civil power of the Federal Government to create and establish a new State out of part of an old one?

So long as the people of a State exercise the functions of State sovereignty under the Constitution, they are entitled to all the privileges secured to them in that capacity by that instrument. Premising this, "no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any State" without the consent of the Legislature thereof concurring with the consent of Congress. But when the people of a State, or a sufficient part of them, are exercising the functions of State sovereignty adversely to the Constitution, they cease to be entitled to any of the privileges secured to them in that capacity by that instrument. They are no longer entitled by their Legislature to demand that their consent shall first be given. It remains, therefore, to Congress to give all the consent necessary. Under these circumstances, I answer the above question in the affirmative.

3. Do you approve of all or any of the twenty-three acts of Congress, each having for its object the declared purpose of giving to the negro all the rights, immunities, and privileges which have hither to been enjoyed by the white men only. I cannot, therefore, and the consent of the provileges which have hither to been enjoyed by the white men only. I cannot, therefore and the provileges which have hither to been enjoyed by the white men only. I cannot, therefore and the provileges which have hither to been enjoyed by the white men only. I cannot, therefore and the provileges which have hither to been enjoyed by the white men only. I cannot, therefore the provileges which have hither to been enjoyed by the white men only. I cannot, therefore the provileges which have hither to been enjoyed by the white men only. I cannot, the to been enjoyed by the white men only. I cannot, therefore, answer the question. 4. Are you prepared to declare yourself in favor of the military power as superior to the civil power, on the plea of military or any other necessity? Yes. In all cases where the Constitution and the laws of Congress, passed by authority of the Constitution, confer on the military power permission 5. Are you prepared to defend, upon the plea of military necessity, the suspension of the civil power, so that the right of personal liberty or security of property is held only by the frail tenure of the President's pleasure? The President and General McClellau-A Document for Intelligent Voters. WITH GENERAL M'CLELLAN. SILVER SPRING, October 5. To the Editors of the National Intelligencer: DEAR SIRS: You give in your paper, from "a New York journal," what purports to be an account of what passed in conversation between General McClellan and myself, when I visited New York, about the 20th of July last. It is egregiously erroneous in many important points. As you evidently attribute some consequence to what is termed my "mission," you will not, I trust, hesitate to publish a simple and truthful statement of its object and execution. i went to New York to heal the divisions in the ness and frankness, and as he did those he entertained—not forgetting old scores of differences—and as I left his office he gave me in pretty emphatic raucous Seotch accent his last words for the President: "Tell him to restore McClellan to the army and he will carry the election by default." I called on Mr. Greeley. My interview with him satisfied me that his best efforts would not be wanting to secure the peace of the country through the re-election of the President. Through Mr. Barlow, the intimate personal and political friend of General McClellan (who was not in the city). Het the General know that I would be gratified by an opportunity of conversing with him. He came to town and visited me in my lodging at the Astor House. I had an hour's conversation with him, which I prefaced by telling him the motives which had brought me to New York, as I have stated them above, and by stating distinctly to him that I did not come from Mr. Lincoin; had no authority or even consent from him to make representations or overtures of any sort to him; that he had not been apprised of my visit or purpose, which was in part to advise with him (the General) as one whom he knew to be his friend with regard to the public interests and his own. I told him that I had little doubt he would be the nominee of the Chicago Convention, and that if he accepted he would be defeated and, if defeated his fate would that he had not been apprised of my visit or purpose, which was in part to advise with him (the General) as one whom he knew to be his friend with regard to the public interests and his own. I told him that I had little doubt he would be the nominee of the Chicago Convention, and that if he accepted he would be defeated, and, if defeated, his fate would be that of all previously defeated candidates who had played for the Presidency—Clay, Calhoun, Webster, and the rest; that atthough aspiration to the chief place in the Republic was an honorable ambition, there was an instinct in the public mind which always excluded from general confidence any who sought it with the less tauspicion of selishness at the expense of great national considerations; and, if the public once pronounced its ban by voting him down as having sought the place, without duly weighing its great exigency, especially in such a revolutionary crisis as the present he could never rise again. I urged that he ought to consider that at this moment a solism of the Union party of the North, on the issue of the Presidency, was looked to everywhere, at home and abroad, as the only way possible through which the rebellion could accomplish its object—the dissolution of the Union; that I believed that he, the General, was the only man who had a position that enabled any party in the North to rally on, to command a force that could make a breach in the patriotic Union party, so as to defeat or in any essential degree enfeeble it, to give success or even the hope to the enemies of our Government, foreign or domestic; and on this ground I appealed to him to withhold his name from the so-called peace men who were soon to assemble at Chicago. I expressed the opinion than the policy, as it regarded his fame and aspirations to public honors, to address a note of many—delaring at the same time that he did not so presidential nomination; that I thought, and hoped he too thought, that no man himself—to a Presidential nomination; that I thought, and hoped he too thoug at their rooms, Sixth and Adelphi streets, President Shippen in the chair.

Patrick Duffy, Esq., was qualified as controller from the Sixth ward.
A communication was received from the Second section, notifying the Board that the Robert Raikes school house, now in use, must be vacated by the 1st of January, 1865.
A resolution from the Sixteenth section, asking an appropriation of $275 for repairs to the Jefferson Grommar School.
One from the Nineteenth section, asking for the formation of a primary school for girls, in the Douglas School building. These were appropriately referred. Mr. Freeborn, of the Committee on Boys' High School, reported that an examination had been held for a professor of chemistry, but that no candidate had passed a successful examination; therefore, no nau passed a successful examination; therefore, no choice had been made.

Mr. Yaughn, from the Committee on Girls' High and Normal School, reported a resolution electing Wm. C. Everst professor of music in that school. The motion was opposed at length by Messrs. Moore and Fletcher.

Dr. Nebinger spoke in favor of the action of the committee. Or. Neoinger spoke in layor of the action of the committee.

Mr. Freeborn moved to recommit the report, and instruct the committee to hold an examination and report the list of candidates. Agreed to.

The Committee on Quarterly Reports submitted a statement relative to the average attendance at many of the sectional schools, which, after debate, A COLORED MASS MEETING.

A preliminary meeting of some of the most prominent colored men of this city, over which Professor Bassitt presided, assembled last evening in the Phliadelphia Institute, to finish all necessary preparations for a grand mass meeting, to be held in Sansom-street Hall, on Thursday evening, the 18th inst. This meeting will probably be one of the largest and most important that have ever been held in this city, called for the purpose of hearing a report from the delegates from this city to the National Convention, recently held by the colored people of the United States, in Syracuse, N. Y. Other matters pertaining to the condition of the people of color will be under consideration, and with a view of giving additional interest to the proceedings, the most eloquent champlons of this race will be present to address the meeting, among whom will be Henry Higland Gornet, of New York; John Mercer Langston, of Obic; A. CRICKET MATCH.

A match at cricket was contested at Camden, yesterday, between the first eleven of the Chippewa Club, and the second eleven (with two players from the first eleven) of the Philadelphia Club. The game resulted in a decisive victory for the Philadelphia Club, in one innings. The play was rather below the usual standard of both clubs, that of the Chippewa, especially, being very inferior. Messrs. Howe and Hunt, however, of the Philadelphia eleven, and Messrs. Jarvis and Wallace, of the Chippewa, made a fine display at the bat, all four earning their scores well. The bowling was better than the batting, Messrs. Hunt and Large being very successful with the ball. We were sorry to see one of the members of the Chippewa Club indulge in the reprehensible practice of bowling ground balls. The same ten pin style of play has been adopted in some recent matches by a member of another prominent club in this city. This practice is, to say the least, not at all chivalrous, and is disorditable alike to these bowlers and their clubs. The following is the score of yesterday's match: CHIPPEWA, b. Hunt. run out....b. Large...hit wicket b. Hunt...b. Large...b. Hunt...b. Large...b. Hunt... ilkinson not out. | State | Stat THE PÓLICE. [Before Mr. Alderman Beitler.] Yesterday afternoon Frederick P. Dodd, a young man halling from Mackerelville, Fourteenth ward, N. York, was arraigned at the Central Station on the charge of picking pockets at Sixth and Chestnut streets on Saturday night. Quite a number of persons were robbed during the pushing of the crowds that thronged the streets as the great Union procession passed by. Two persons testified at the hearing yesterday. Mr. Benj. Franklin, wheelwright, testified that he was standing in the crowd, and suddenly there was great pushing; he made the best of his way out, and in doing so pulled his hands out of his pockets; in a moment he felt somebody else's hands [showed in there; the prisoner is the person nearest him at the time; there were two of them together; he charged the prisoner, at the time, with pleking his pocket, but the allegation was denied. Mr. Franklin lost $36.70, a due bill, and some other papers.

Solomon Olsner, a Jew, was called to the stand. POCKET-PICKING. EAST PENNSYLVANIA BAILROADS. nied. Mr. Franklin lost $36.70, a due bill, and some other papers.
Solomon Olsner, a Jew, was called to the stand.
This witness appeared at the Central Station on Sunday and gave information that he had been robbed. The following scene occurred.
Question. "Were you robbed on Saturday night?"
Answer. "I have holiday to-day, and will not testify." Answer. "I have holiday to day, and will not testify."

"Holiday! What do you mean by that?"

"Well, I have holiday."

"Did you not complain at this office yesterday that you had been robbed on Saturday night?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, why do you refuse to testify now?"

"I have holiday," was the reply. "I can give no evidence." "I have holiday," was the reply. "I can give no evidence."

"Let me understand you," said the alderman,
"Do you refuse to testify in this case?"

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.
"Then," responded the magistrate, "I shall have to lock you up."

At this stage of the proceedings a person stepped to the bench and whispered something in the ear of the alderman, which elicited the following reply:
"I cannot help it if he is a Jew; he certainly came here on the Christian Sabbath and entered his complaint. The law of this country does not acknowledge any Jewish holidays; he must either testify or I will lock him up."

The witness then answered the questions of the Alderman as follows:
"Were you at Sixth and Chestnut on Saturday evening?" the treasures heretoiore hidden in our mountains, and to add to the taxable resources and strength of our Commonwealth.

4. Resolved. That after having passed over these railroads, we were foreibly impressed with the conviction that they are all most important and essential means for the development of the mineral, coal, and other products of our Commonwealth.

5. Resolved. That it was with a peculiar pleasure that we witnessed the care and rkill that had been devoted by the presidents, superintendents, and engineers to place and maintain these roads and their bridges in a high condition of strength and secarity, so that in passing over the roads, and even the high bridges of the Catawissa, the sensations of enjoyment in beholding the wild scenery, and the heights and depths beneath or alongside the track, caused no thrill of apprehension of danger; while all we beheld invite the tourist, seated in an easy car, running upon a smooth rail, to witness some of the grandest mountain scenes of our country.

It is stated that every Sunday morning gangs of boys and young men make incursions into the ward and shoot every bird they come across, the birds being of the insectiverous tribe. The law protects these birds at all seasons of the year. The accused was bound over to answer. Internation of the Union League was wen miculast evening. It is also customary in the evening for parents to bestow a solemn benediction on their children. Whosoever meet on that day, be they previously acquainted or complete strangers, salute each other with brotherly love and sincerity. If any dispute exists between the Jews, it is obligatory on them to become reconciled before either of them presumes to appear in the presence of his God. The law which ordains the observance of the day likewise commands the Jew "to afflict his soul." The affliction of the soul by means of the body, according to Jewish custom, consists in abstaining from five indulgences—eating and drinking, bathing, perfuming, wearing shoes, and sexual enjoyment. The observance of the festival is most strict by every one who claims the name of Jew, and even those who make light of other observances throughout the year, pay due regard to this day. The exercises in the synagogue are of a striking and impressive character, the edifice is thronged with worshippers, the ministers and officials are draped in white shrouds, while prayers of lamentation and penitence are heard on all sides.
