THE CITY. It is really to be hoped that all the return judges will be promptly at their posts this morning. It often happens that in the wards where ignorance prevails judges are elected who know no more about their official duties than Jeff Davis does about patriotism or common honesty. The absence of one judge keeps the entire body from completing their official duties. BETTING ON THE ELECTION. There was not, so far as we could learn, any very heavy betting on the results of the election on Tuesday, either in wards, countles, or the State at large. There are some bets: ranging from $100 to $250, on the official Union majority in Philadelphia of $,000 votes. There were several foolish bets—one of them for $100, made by a prominent Republican of the Twentieth ward, that Albert Schofield would be re-

The Quarter Sessions was not in session.

The Twentieth ward, that Albert Schofield would be rescloted. The stakes were handed over to the winner yesterday morning, Mr. Schofield having been most effectually defeated. We heard of a bet of $1,000 against $400 that the State of New Jersey would go against $400 that the State of New Jersey would go against President Lincoln. Yesterday bets were cifered in the morning that the State of Pennsytvania had gone in opposition to the Union party on the home vote, but found no takers. In the afternoon several individuals expressed a willingness to wager a few hundred dollars on this, but found no takers.

We learn that a gentleman of this city is willing to bet $10,000 that the State of Pennsylvania will cast its vote for Lincoln and Johnson in November. This wager is now in the market for takers. Though there is a wise law, for preventing-betting on elections, yet there are thousands of titoes of almost all classes that contribute to making up the commarked $5,500 the other $6,000. The person being the furthest from the whole vote the parties to this word in figure lost, in this case; and he who marked it pald a favorite hatter $50, and the gentlemen, interested in the matter were tiled in accordance with the latest style of fashion.

A faithousble hatter on one of our principal streets, yesterday informed us that up to noon he had sold geventeen hats; being the result of betting.

In case a vote was challenged in one of these precincts, the inspector would take especial pains to let some of the tickets slip into the box before taking any notice of the citizen who made the challenge. Men not entitled to vote presented themselves at the windows. Some of these fellows could not understand a word of English, yet they were sworn in language they could not understand, and their votes taken. Many of the voters were repulsive-looking—bad whisky and other dissipation having made their blighting marks upon them. Such are some of the men who voted in the Fourth werd. It may be truly said that voting on Tuesday last in the three precincts named was not a mere farce, but a downright wanton outrage upon the rights of the people, the law, and the Constitution. It is not very likely that any arrests of the parties will be made, as their demoralizing efforts were overwhelmingly squelched by the great and heavy moral power of the virtuous, reasonable, and sensible people of the city. But there will be an election held in the same places in the coming November, at which time, if the parties present themselves, they ought to be promptly arrested; and made to atone to the offended laws. At the election in the Second ward on Tuesday, Mr. Charles B. Pottinger was elected an alderman. Mr. B. for a number of years was an attache of the newspaper press of Philadelphia, in the literary department; but, reliaquishing the pen, which he had often well wielded in defence of the Union, he entered the naval service, and was block-ading-mester from Key West to the Rio Grande during the eventful trips of the United States steamer De Soto. Returning, after a year and a half duty on the sea, he engaged in other pursuits. He will make a most excellent alderman. FELL FROM A SCAFFOLD. Yesterday morning, between 9 and 10 o'clock, Henry Devlin, a carpenter, fell from a scaffold on a new building at Second and Queen streets. The gable end of the building fell and struck the scaf-fold, knocking Mr. Devlin off. He fell from the residence, in Carpenter street, below Fifth. HIS NAME.

The name of the police officer who found the pocket-book of a gentleman belonging to the St. Louis press, as mentioned yesterday, is Jos. Riley, No. 18, of the Reserve Corps. This statement is merely made because another officer claims to be the individual alluded to in the item of yesterday. THE COUNCILMEN IN THE FIFTEENTH WARD. for Select Council were wrongly given. The frame of the new monitor Shackamaxon, now building at the navy yard, is nearly all put up. Chattanooga will be launched from the foot of Palmer street this morning at 11 o'clock. She is 235 feet long, 46 feet beam, and measures 3,250 tons.

A man, named Peter Matthews, aged forty-five years, was admitted into the Pennsylvania Hospital yesterday with a pistol-shot wound in the lower part of the abdomen. It is alleged that some one fixed the pistol off, and the ball took effect as stated.

THE CITY BOUNTY. Yesterday morning warrants for the payment of the city bounty were issued to thirty-eight men.

yesterday morning, after carefully examining the returns of the police officers, addressed the lieu-tenants and thanked them in behalf of the community for the admirable manner in which they dis-charged their duties. It is really a wonder, after so many threats of the "free fight Copperheads," that the election polls were sofquiet. In times of far less excitement, riots at the polls were frequent during the administration of Mayor Henry's predeces-sor.

[Before Mr. Alderman Beitler.] ALLEGED PROFESSIONAL PICKPOCKETS. AIALEGED PROFESSIONAL PICKPOCKETS.

Two young men, giving the names of Henry Smith and Theodore Rice, were arraigned at the Central Station yesterday afternoon on the charge of being professional pickpockets. Detective Lamon testified that he observed the prisoners mingling and pushing in the crowd on Tuesday evening, on Chestnut street, particularly when the New York pastengers were passing along. The prisoners acted, according to the judgment of the officer, just like pickpockets, but a big fight happening to occur at the time, the "swell mob" became separated, and had no good opportunity to ply their profession. Smith hailed from White Hall, on Lake Champlain. The prisoners were held to bail in the sum of $400 each to be of future good behavior and to keep the peace. to be of future good behavior and to keep the peace. EXCITING LANGUAGE.

"SHORT, SHARP, DECISIVE." On Tuesday afternoon some soldiers were riding in a furniture car on Richmond street, near Palmer. They cheered for Lincoln, Johnson and the Union. Some one in the doorway of a lager beer salcon, fired five shots from a revolver at the party, and one soldier was shot in the shoulder. The fellow who fired then ran into the salcon. It was alleged that he was proprietor of the establishment. All the men in the house were threshed, and in a few minutes the contents of the salcon were reduced to a wreck. Police officers were speedly at the scene, and order was restored.

stretched out on an iron bedstead with a web sacking, and the other lay on the floor crouched up in one corner of the room. The only articles of furniture besides the bedstead were two chairs. An inquest was held at the Surprise Tavern, Christchurch-terrace, on Saturday, by Mr. Bird, deputy coroner. The man Selby was called, and said that the deceased were his two sisters. The surviving sister, who lived with them, said that she could not get them to take any food. Mr. Thomas Dickenson, the surgeon, who had performed a post mortem examination, said that he found no traces of food in either of the stomachs, and it was his opinion that they died from exhaustion from fever or the want of proper sustenance. The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence.

some 15 minutes we watched this remarkable and to us novel phenomenon. The pilot then pronounced it a waterspout. As we had never seen one we felt no alarm, till warned that if it struck the vessel we must save curselves. While we were yet conjecturing what would be the result of this extraordinary formation, the great line of black clouds solemnly advanced on each wing of the spout. The rain was pouring in wild torrents, and then the spout dropped down its mighty weight of water on the pittless sea, while the winds madly rushed it towards us. We now became alarmed. The roar of the folling waters came to us like the distant sound of Niagara. The sea was lashed into great waves; the waters poured, and bubled, and rose in swaying masses over six feet in height. With deadly aim and certain purpose the awful column advanced. Not one on board the ship but left the danger, and knew that nothing could save us if it struck the ship. Thank God it burst about thirty yards from us, and the last remnant of water ceased within about ten feet of the stern."

feet of the stern." FALSE RESULT OF A SINGULAR PROPENSITY.—
An apprentice to a printer in England, who, by allowing his mind to dwell constantly on the case of Muller, came to speculate on the subject of hanging, while making some experiments, lost his life through a misadventure. It appeared from the evidence of several persons who worked in the office in which the deceased was employed, that they saw him about half-past six on Monday evening, and that he was found dead at a quarter before seven. Ever since the murder of Mr. Briggs his ideas had run in that direction, and often, when talking of the probable fate of Muller, he had said that he himself should like to be hanged. Edward Rida, an apprentice, who discovered the deceased hanging, said the rope which was about his neck was not twisted, and was only tied by a single knot. His impression, confirmed by many others in the same office, was, that the lad was playing at hanging, and that, as he was standing on thick glass, let into the floor for the purpose of giving light to the room below, he might have slipped and become entangled in the rope. He was of a cheerful disposition, and no one ever supposed him to be serious when he talked about his desire to be hanged. The rope was placed in the room for the purpose of pulling up the windows for ventilation. The jury returned a verdict of "Death from misadventure."—London News of the World. The Material of the English Army.—Returns just issued for 1862 show that half the persons who offered themselves at the headquarters of the recruiting districts of the United Kingdom were laborers, husbandmen, and servants. Of this class 594 in 1,000 were rejected on inspection; of mechanics employed in occupations favorable to physical development, such as carpenters, smiths, and masons, 306 in 1,000 were rejected; of manufacturing artisans, as cloth-workers, weavers, lace-makers, 455; of shopmen and clerks, 445. These figures show the relative proportions, but the absolute number of rejections was larger, as more than a fourth of the men had been previously passed by army or civilian surgeons, and were therefore picked men before this inspection. There was also a further examination of the men on joining their corps, but only three percent. Were rejected at that later stage. Considerably more than half the recruits of the year were Englishmen, nearly a third Irish, about a seventh Scotch. The largest proportion of rejected was among the Irish, the least among the Scotch. The argest proportion of rejected was among the Irish, the least among the Scotch. The argest proportion of rejected was among the Irish, the least among the Scotch. The largest proportion of rejected was and upwards—was (in every 10,000) 104 in the English districts, 194 in the Scotch, 91 in the Irish.
