GENBRAL GWYN-MEETING AT THE CORN EXCHANGE.

Yesterday forenoon, after the usual business of the Corn Exchange Association had been transacted. a very considerable number of the members being present, they were called to order by Mr. S. Hart-

Tanft, vice president of the hody. Mr. Henry Budd said that he had to say a few words ranft, vice president of the hody. Mr. Henry Budd said that he had to say a few words upon a subject with which no part of the polloy, nor finances, nor government of the association were connected. He desired to offer resolutions which would express the opinion of the meeting upon this recent promotion of a gallant officer, who had been connected with the Corn Exchange Association since the early days of its military organization. He referred to Colonel Gwyn, of the Corn Exchange Regiment, who, solely in recognition of his gallant conduct in the field, had been promoted to the rank of brigadier general. He would ask permission to read the resolutions, which he proposed for adoption. They are as follows: Whereas, On the recommendation of his division, corps, and uriny commanders, the President has con-ferred upon Col. James Gwyn, 118:h P. V. (Corn Ex-change Regiment) the rank of brevet brigadiar general "for gallant and disinguished services in balle near "For gallant and disinguished services in balle near "Khereas, In the opinion of this association of Philadelphin sincerely congratulates General Guyn These are gentleman: Therefore, beit, Resolved, That the Corn Exchange Association of Philadelphin sincerely congratulates General Guyn the regiment for soldierly condition long since gained by the regiment for soldierly condition long since gained by the regiment for soldierly conduct, we recognize the ln-fitends in the association. The may reasonable in the two shall ever be proud to remember his connection with the regiment and our-selves. Mr. Edward G. James desired to second these re-solutions, and said that it was not necessary to do so at any length, for the soldierly character and con-duct of General Gwyn, which, without any solicita-tion of his own, had obtained for him the promotion on which the meeting desired to congratulate him, were too well known and appreciated to render any eulogium necessary. That promotion was the result of as brave an action as the Army of the Potomac had to record, and the hearty good wishes of the meeting would go with him, now and in the future. Capital Bankson, who had served under General Gwyn, said that not only every officer, but every man ever connected with the listh, whose good opin-ion was worth having, weuld rejoice in the honors conferred upon him. Mr. Joseph W. Miller made a few remarks upon the fortinence of the present action on the part of the Corn Association, which he cordially approved. In the contest referred to, General Gwyn, then colonel, had held temporary command of a brigade. Hitherto he had been connected with this associa-tion, which must now part with him, for a high au-thority had intervened and taken him away. Our opinion could no more affect him now, save as the obuilon of such a body would be of value to any opinion could no more affect him now, save as the opinion of such a body would be of value to any brave man. The resolutions were then unanimonsly adopted, and it was ordered that official copies of them be sent

Knox and David Webster spoke on behalf of the defendant, and Win-B. Reed closed the case for plaintiff. Judge true then charged the jury sub-stantially to the effect that the written paper from Justrict Attorney Coffey, requesting the marshali, to seize and detain the property of the plaintiff, was no warrant in law to justify his acting under and by virtue of its authority, and that in's of acting he was a trespasser, and as such, was liable not only in ecmpensatory but in exemplary damages, it is Judge Grier then charged the jury sub The jury were directed to seal their verdict and bring it in this morning. The court then adjourned.

District Court-Judge Hare. Christiana. Weller, widow of Martin. Weller, de-ceased, vs. The City of Philadelphia. This was an action to recover damages for the death of plain-thir's husband, which was occasioned by the alleged negligence of the city authorities. Deceased was the driver of a lager-beer wagon, and in driving along Ghard avenue, between Front and Second streets, on the 18th of September, 1861, the front wheel of his wagon dropped into a rut in the cart-way, the concussion caused by which threw him from his seat under the wheel, which passed over his body. From the injuries sustained Weller died on the 20th September, at the Pennsylvania Hos-pital. His wife now brings this action for damages. Verdict for plaintiff $500.
