The following deposition, relating to an affair which occurred some time ago on the Pine street cars, comes to us through respectable hands, and is made in justification of former statements regarding the case described. Maria E. Burnell, aged 23 years, being duly sworn according to law, deposes and says: That on Thursday evening, the 29th of Septemoer last, at twenty minutes of ten o'clock, I got into a passenger car in Pine street, near Seventh. I passed from the rear platform through the car, and was standing at the front door of the car when the conductor said to me "you can't ride here;" I said I guess I can ride on the front platform there; he then said to an old man, a passenger, "open that door, pap;' the old man opened the door very wide, when I walked through and stood leaning against the frame of the door. Here I rode peaceably along, until between Eighth and Ninth streets, when two ladies (white) got in, and one of them asked why I did not sit down, pointing to a seat. I said it is against the rules; I am not allowed to sit in there, on account of my color. The conductor, coming in to collect the fare, heard what I said. He said: "You know it is against the rules for niggers to ride on these cars." I told him I did not know it was against the rules to ride on the front platform. He said if I gave much of my impudence he would put me off the car any how. I said, I guess not from here. Says he: "Yes, I will; get off, get off." I told him I had to be at my service-place at ten o'clock. He said he did not care where I lived, or where the h — I was going, I should get off. He asked me again if I was going, I should get off. He asked me again if I was going, I should get off. He asked me again if I was going, in the form had be a seas of the my purse containing nearly two dollars and a half. When I got up, I struck him with a caba I had with me; he then struck me in the face, tore my hair down, and pulled me by it up the street, as he ran to catch the oar, which he ordered to go on. In doing this he pulled me down into the gutter on the lower side of Pine street, near Tenth street, where I lay moaning till a gentleman anem

Alderman and ex-officio Justice of the Peace. THE POLICE. (Before Mr. Alderman Beitler.)

John Morgan and Joseph Martin, alleged hotel thieves, had a final hearing at the Central Station, on the charge of robbing a boarder at the American Hotel. Patrick Vest, a colored watter, testified that on going up stairs, early in the morning, he met one of the defendants coming from the room occupied by the boarder who was robbed. The watter had some newspapers for sale. The man asked him for the Age. The waiter replied that he did not sell that paper. The man then gave him a fifty-cent note to go and purchase one for him. While the waiter was absent the fellow cleared out, and nothing was heard of him until he was arrested. The prisoners were committed to answer. FINAL HEARING. [Before Mr. Alderman Jones.]

Who has the "right of way" in Seventh street, Franklin street, &c., in which the rails are laid, but not yet in general use by the company's cars? It is expected by many that the cars will run down those streets, but in the interim are we to have difficulties, abuses, smashups, and litigation among travellers with vehicles, on those streets, in anticipation of ourrights? A few lines in your paper will most likely settle the question. Residents on the route of this "circumbendibus" road differ as to the probable direction the cars will run, and so give strangers contrary advice. It sometimes happens that travellers meet, each honestly believing he has the right to uninterrupted travel without turning off the track. On one occasion a person in a light vehicle met a heavy wagon, and both halted; the driver in the light wagon appeared to be settling down to read "The Press," while the heavy team turned out, but on being informed that he was in the wrong he immediately hauled off and passed on. While on this subject, I would remark that there is too much indifference shown by travellers on all our streets, (in light vehicles), unduly and unkindly obliging heavily loaded teams to turn off the track, regardless of the difficulty attendant. "The right of way" does not justify such a course.

Another remark: There is entirely too much fast driving in the city, particularly on the rail, endangering life and limb of pedestrians, old and young, who have also a "right of way."

The light vehicles ought in all such cases turn off the track; though there does not appear to be any ordinance of the city in its police regulations referring to the subject specially. An old maxim, "that a merciful man is merciful to his beast," should at least suggest a thought that a little of the virtue might be extended to all horses having heavy loads to draw.

United States Circuit Court - Judges Grier and Cadwalader. THE JEFFERSONIAN NEWSPAPER CASE.

Grier and Cadwalader.

THE JEFFERSONIAN NEWSPAPER CASE.

Wm. H. Hodgson vs. William Millward, United States Marshal, et al. The trals of this case, which, as we have before stated, was an action of trespass to recover damages for the alleged illegal seizare and detention of the material for the printing of the West Chester Jeffersonian, finally terminated yesterday, when the jury, after having been out for about twenty hours, came into court with a verdict in favor of plaintiff for $504 23.

The order upon which Marshal Millward acted was given by the late U. S. District Attorney, Geo. A. Coffey, and in order to a perfect understanding of the Judge's charge, we here reproduce it:

"Eastern District of Pennsylvania," "Office U. S. Attorney.

"According to the provisions of the act of 6th of August, 1861, I hereby request you to seize upon all copies of the Jeffersonian newspaper published in the borough of West Chester, Chester county, Pennsylvania, as well as all property of every kind whatsoever used in and about the publication of said newspaper that may be found in your balliwick, for condemnation and conficcation according to law, I being authorized by the President of the United States. George A. Coffer, U. S. Attorney.

"PHILADELPHIA, 23d August, 1861."

It was upon this paper that the defendant acted and relied mainly as his defence and justification on the trial just concluded.

Defendant's pointe, on which the court was requested to charge; were as follows:

1. That by the third section of the act of Congress of August 5, 1861, the District Attorney of the Eastern District of the United States is authorized to institute proceedings for the confiscation and condemnation of any property within the said district, of the character described in the first section of the act, and that for this purpose the said District Attorney had authority to direct the seizure of such property so found preparatory to filing an information in and issuing an attachment from the proper court, and that his order to the Marshal fication of the Marshal and his deputies legal justification of the Marshai and his deputies for such seizure.

If the court should decline to affirm the foregoing proposition then it is respectfully requested to charge:

I. That if the jury find from the evidence that the order from the District Attorney to the Marshal was issued under the authority of the President of the United States, then the said order is a justification to the Marshal and his deputies for the seizure complained of in this suit.

II. That after the information was filed in the District Court of the United States and the attachment was issued therefrom and the property attached, it was in the custody of the law, and the Marshal was in nowise liable for damages for its detention, and that the plaintiff can only recover for the taking and detention of the property from the 23d of August to the 12th of September, a period of twenty days.

III. That the measure of damages in this case is

III. That the measure of damages in this case is the actual pecuniary loss which the plaintiff sustand by reason of the possession of his printing establishment having been taken by the Marshal and continued for the period of twenty days, and that there is no evidence in the cause which would justify the jury in giving vindicitive damages.

Gentlemen of the facts of this case. It is your province to deal with the facts. You are the significant the facts of this case. It is your province to deal with the facts. You are the significant the court. You must take care not to let party feeling or passion influence you. You must hear the small as well as the great. While you may recollect that this was done in times of great excitement, wet that a traspass and a gross one, has been comor passion influence you. You must hear the small as well as the great. While you may recollect that this was done in times of great excitement, yet that a treepass, and a gross one, has been committed, it is not denied. It is a fact to be sure, for you, but it is not denied. It is a fact to be sure, for you, but it is not denied that property of the plain-out a justification?

The court instruct you, they have not. The marshal cannot plead the order of the Attorney General or his deputy. This is not a justification. If a marshal arrests A when told to arrest B. It is no defence at he had a right to arrest B. It is no defence condemnation the kind of property specified in the act of Congress of the 6th August, 1861, without the order of the District Attorney. But this act had nothing to do with the liberty of the press. It never gave authority for such a seizure as the present of the country banks of Pennsylvania, it is thought, The order of the District Attorney that has been shown here was no more a justification to the mar-shal than if issued by any one now in the court house.

The District Attorney had no right to make such an order. You may arrest a man for murder with-out warrant, but you show the man committed the felony; otherwise it is no defence to an action of treepass. If the property, then, was within the meaning of

If the property, then, was within the meaning of the act of Congress, the reizure was justifiable; if not, the marshal is liable in damages. Certain points, or prayers for instruction on the law, have been submitted to me by the defendants, which I if the first point, to a certain extent, is true. The District Attorney might advise the issuing of an attachment, and seize property that was liable under the act of Congress. But it is not the law that this order of the District Attorney was a justification of the marshal in this case. The marshal could act, if the property was liable to seizure, as well without the order of the District Attorney was unitable unit if the court had decided that the property was not properly seized, then the seizure was unlawful and it was trespass, and the marshal was liable. There is not even a certificate as to probable cause for the seizure. But I say nothing on this head, for it does not appear that it was saked, or that it was a case for it. No attempt, however, was made at the hearing of the information in the Circuit Court to show any cause. It was clear that the act of Congress could have presented and the court of Congress could have presented and the congress coul vented a man giving his opinions candidly against the war. He had a right to write and to print of the order of the District Attorney makes the case no better. He had no right to issue the order. The marshal had no right to obey it. It was no warrant. If the marshal had consuited counsel, counsel who would have told him he was not to obey such an order. I doubt any counsel could have been found who would have advised obedience to such an order.

II. In answer to the second point, I say there is no competent evidence of any authority from the President or any of his Cabinet, and if there had been it would have made the case no better. If there had been a proceeding in court, and a seizure under process, it would have protected the officer. But the Marshal or sheriff cannot justify under an order like this.

III. As to the third point, I instruct, you on the question of damages that the jury should give full order like this.

III. As to the third point, I instruct you on the question of damages that the jury should give full compensatory damages for all the loss that has accrued to the plaintiff. But the damages should not be vindictive or punitive. There is no evidence that the Marshal acted from malice or was influenced by political feeling, or committed any excess. There is some evidence that the District Attorney did this to gratify some people out of doors. He is not, however, here to answer, and this is not imputable to the Marshal. But, for the purpose of vindicating public justice when an officer of the law commits an act almost without a pretence of authority, the damages should be exemplary to vindicate the outraged law, that men in authority may be careful how they trespass on the rights of citizens. There is a difference in this respect between the case of a public officer and a private person, no matter how high the public officer—even the President or one of his Secretaries. The Marshal is here liable for the whole time the property was detained. He is liable for all the damages from the beginning to the end. The decree of this court was conclusive against him. I have thus laid down the principles of law which are to guide you, and it will be for you to apply them to the facts of the cause.

Joseph Conrad vs. The Pennsylvania Raliroad Company. An action to recover damages for injuries sustained by two horses belonging to plaintiff, in consequence of the alleged negligence of defendant's agents. Plaintiff shipped two horses from Pittsburg to be transported to Philadelphia. On the way the car in which the horses were, and in which there was a quantity of hay, took fire from a spark from the locomotive, and before it could be extinguished the horses were considerably burned, and damaged, according to the testimony for plaintiff, one half their value. The defence was that the hay, which was the cause of the fire, had been placed in the car by plaintiff's direction, and that the company should not be held liable. Verdict for plaintiff, $200.

Court of Quarter Sessions—Judge Thomp-Som. Samuel Gilbert, charged with the larceny of a watch chain, valued at a dollar and a half, the property of one Bryson, was convicted. The only testimony against him was that of the prosecutor, who swore pretty positively that the defendant was the man who stole his chain. Four witnesses, however, testified that the defendant was not at the corner of Fourth and Carpenter on the day and at the corner of Fourth and Carpenter on the day and at the hour when the chain was said to have been stolen. The jury, after deliberating, desired to know whether they could acquit the prisoner and put the costs upon him. The court said no, whereupon they rendered a verdict of guilty. John O'Byrne, Esq., for defendant, moved the court for arrest of judgment, and for a new trial.

The recent letter of the rebel Secretary of the Treasury is one of the most remarkable confessions of internal evidence we have yet had from the Confederacy. The stiempt to fund it, by a compulsory process, has proved a total failure, Treasury is one of the most remarkable confessions of internal evidence we have yet had from the Conworth the cost of printing it. The attempt to fund it, by a compulsory process, has proved a total fallure, and the rebel Congress, to meet the straits in which the finances are thus placed, has adopted the expedient of fixing legal prices for the commodities it has to purchase. This is the necessity naturally created by a victous currency system subjected to extreme pressure. The rebel Congress has appointed commissioners to fix upon a scale of prices for four States, at which prices the Government will be competent not merely to buy, for that would be impossible, but to seize the property of citizens, giving in payment treasury notes or certificates of indebtedness, both of which are made fundable into six-per-cent. non-taxable bonds. The average rate of 5% per cent. upon the interest bearing part of the debt is thus explained. That new companies will continue to be formed there is no doubt, for there are yet broad acres of oil land in our own State and Western Virginia that

There was a good attendance on 'Change to day, and the general produce markets were active and buoyant. The Flour market was very firm, but the transactions were light, only about 1,000 barrels having changed hands at $9 for red. Western extra, and $8,5009 for spring extras.

The Wheat market was buoyant and active, prices showing an advance since yesterday noon of $607c 30 bushel. About 120,000 bushele, of all grades, changed hands at $1 75 for No. 1 red: $1.7001. 72 for No. 2 red: $1.5001. 62 for No. 2 red: $1.5001. 62 for No. 2 spring; $1.5201. 63 for No. 2 spring and $1.5001. 53 for rejected red: $1.5001. 63 for No. 2 red: $1.5001. 63 for No. 2 spring; $1.6001. 63 for No. 2 spring and $1.5001. 53 for rejected spring—the market closing very firm at $1.6401. 64% for No. 2 spring: The demand was mainly speculative, but there was also a good inquiry by shippers, and this tended greatly to strengthen prices. Winter Wheat was also in better request than for some time past.

The Corn market was more active, and prices advanced 2002% c $2 bushel, with sales of about 62.002 bushels at $1.25% for No. 1 Corn; $1.2501.26% for No. 2 Coun, and $1.23% 01.25 for rejected Corn—the market and canal Corn, in boat loads, was sold at $1.2501.261.23%, afloat.

Oats were, in active demand at an advance of 1c $2.500. and canal out, in our reason at an advance of 10 $\forall \text{ bushel}, with sales of about 175,000 bushels at 63\sqrt{63\sqrt{60}}\text{cfor No. 1 Oats, and 62c for rejected Oats—the market closing very firm at the outside quotations.
