Oharles Smith was arrested at Sixth and Chestnut streets, at 11 o'clock, by Officer Carnes. The accused said he lived in New Jersey. It was ascertained, however, that he lived on South Front street. He was committed.

James Mahoney was arrested by Officer Carnes near Sixth and Chestnut streets. The accused, with others, was engaged in beating a soldier. The officer was struck in the face with a lamp, and one of his eyes was filled with oil. His eye was slightly out. The prisocer was committed.

Patrick Hickey was also arrested at Sixth and Chestnut streets, and an attempt was made to rescue him. He was committed.

Robert McCollan was arrested at Sixth and Chestnut streets on the charge of rioting. He was committed. nocracy, which was day night week on ac-f the weather, took place weather on that evening of the weather, took place he weather on that evening seared, and everything necessary to lay a grand one was at hand. Every ward we felly represented, and a number of delegations from adjoining counties in the State and from New Jersey were present. The length of the procession is variously estimated at from five to ten miles. A number of houses in different parts of the city and along the line of procession were brilliantly illuminated, amongst others the St. Lawrence Hotel. The throng in the streets was immense, rendering the passage of the passenger cars impossible. Every available spot along the line was taken possession of—door steps, windows, balconies, and roofs of houses.

The advance of the procession was heralded by a blaze of colored fires, by a great surging to and fro of the mass of spectators, by martial music, and by the tramp of the mounted cavalcade which headed the line. Thejchief marshals were, many of them, on horseback, on the vanguard. The Keystone Club followed. The horses were caparisoned in red, white, and blue. The rank and file followed on foot. A brass howitzer was drawn midway-of the crowd, and was fired at intervals as it passed along. A four-horse team, drawing an express wagon, followed them. It blazed with crimson fires, and was filled with citizens bearing banners and transparencies. On the most prominent was inscribed:

"Say as little as possible about politics and the negro."

The Young Men's Keystone Club followed. A John Maguire was arrested at one o'clock yes-terday morning at Twelfth and Chestnut streets. He was committed. LARCENY AND RECOVERY OF GOODS. LARCENY-AND RECOVERY OF GOODS.
Devonshire Williams and Mary Kent were arraigned on the charge of the larceny of a considerable quantity of wearing apparel stolen from different places. Some of the goods were identified as the property of Mr. Oliver E. Teakle, a resident of Thirteenth and Archstreets. A considerable quantity of stolen goods were recovered by Reserve Officer Carnes, and Detective Levy. The articles are at the Central Station, awaiting identification. The prisoners were committed in default of $2,500 bail to await another hearing. hegro."
The Young Men's Keystone Club followed. A ALLEGED POCKET-PICKING. James Mullin was arraigned on the charge of picking the pocket of Joseph Stokes, residing in Negley street, of a book containing a small amount of money. The transaction occurred near Front and Market streets. Then came the wards in numerical order.

The Twentieth ward had a huge vehicle prepared for the purpose, containing thirty-four young ladies attired in white to represent the thirty-four States of the old Union. The vehicle was drawn by twelve splendid horses, the property of gentlemen of the ward.

The Minute Men of '56 made a good display. They first marched to Camden ferry and escorted the Camden Club. They turned out eight hundred strong, and every man carried a torch.

There was a large delegation from Wilmington. There were a large number of transparencies with various inscriptions. One of them was called "The Baltimore Platform," and represented Mr. Lincoln with two colored men clinging to his legs and one hanging to his coat tail. One motto was, "This war is to free the white man, and not the fregro."

The First ward carried a transparency representing General McClellan surrounded by diverging rays of light, and the motto, "The Day is Breaking." On the reverse was a picture representing a platform on which stood Mr. Lincoln. The platform was supported by four colored soldiers.

The German Association of the First ward carried a transparency representing Mr. Lincoln splitting rails, and a colored master, taking his ease in a chair smoking a pipe, locking on.

The Eighthward had a rapresentation of Mr. Lincoln lying in bed, and on his stomach was an immense key-stone. Motto—A big thing on Abraham.

A transparency represented Mr. Lincoln as a dandy with a colored woman fancifully dressed on each arm.

One ward had a monitor with a number of sailors SHOP-LIFTER.

A man who gave his name as John Wall, claiming to be a peddler from Newark, N. J., was arrested by Officer Crout, of the Reserve Corps, for stealing a hat from the store of Messrs. Oakford, on Chestnut street. The prisoner entered the store under pretence of wishing to purchase a hat, but he secreted one in a capacious pocket of his coat as the attendant turned his back temporarily. The article was missed shortly after he left the store. The officer hastened after him and took the fellow into custody. The stolen hat was found upon him. He was committed. SHOP-LIFTER. INSANITY.

A man giving the name of Peter Kelly, who had been a quartermaster's sergeant in the lat New Jersey Cavalry, was arraigned on the charge of disorderly conduct at the Commercial Hotel, on Sixth street. It seems that he took boarding there a few days since. On Saturday he claimed to be the propertor of the house, and proceeded at once to give orders, and otherwise acted so as to rather alarm the proprietres of the establishment. It was ascertained that he was discharged from the army on the ground of insanity. He had a considerable amount of money about him. The unfortunate fellow was ordered to be taken care of until his friends could be heard from.

One ward had a monitor with a number of sailors abeard. A cannon or board was fired at intervals. The meanest looking horse probably ever seen, lame in the left hind foot, and dragged along with a rope, had fastened to his back a banner with the words, "Old Abe's Swapping Horse." At every step the horse took, the banner, owing to his lameness, swayed from side to side. The Eighth, Ninth, and several other wards, had large omnibuses, each containing thirty-four young ladies, dressed in white, with red and blue sakes. Each lady carried a small flag with the name of a State inscribed upon it. They sang a number of patriotic airs as the procession passed along. There were a number of young ladies dressed as Goddesses of Liberty, drawn in charlots. They presented a fine appearance, and were greeted with much favor. The parade had not entirely dismissed till after two o'clock. A number of the ward associations visited the La Pierre House, where Hon. George H. Pendleton was stopping, and he made a brief speech, as follows:

Fellow-Oltizens: I thank you for whatever of personal compliment is involved in this call. It would be mere affectation if I did not say I am gratified by it. It would be still greater affectation if I attributed it chiefly to myselt. You celebrate the victory of the Union and the Constitution. The whole division of police under Lieut. Paulin made many arrests, on Saturday night, of persons alleged to have been engaged in rioting. While passing along Thirteenth street, on the way to the station-house, nearly all the prisoners were rescued by persons who were in the Twenty-sixth ward portion of the procession that had not yet formed in line of march. Some of the police officers were beaten. It being impossible to take the prisoners by means of this route, they were taken by another, and thirty were locked up. Yesterday they had a hearing, and were disposed of according to their respective merits.

FIRST BOARD AFTER BOARD.

The body of the man who was killed on Saturday evening, during the attack on the Soldiers' Campaign Club headquarters, was identified as that of James Campbell, who resided at No. 1151 South Tenth street. He was in the sixty-fifth year of his age. He was on the sidewalk, not far distant from the Commonwealth Buildings, when he received a blow behind the left ear. There was a slight laceration of the skin, as though the missile was either a lamp or brickbat having a sharp edge. The force of the blow must have been heavy, as there was considerable extraversed blood on the baseof the brain. When struck, he staggered and fell in the doorway of a store, where he remained in a partly sitting position for ten minutes. He was taken into Penistan's cellar, and finally to the Central Station. The body was removed to his late residence yesterday afternoon. was removed to his late residence yesterday afternoon.

During the riot, Mr. Samuel B. Day, residing in Fifth street, below Washington avenue, who was standing on the south side of Chestnut street, above Sixth, was struck in the stomach with a brick. He was seriously injured. It was ascertained that three of his ribs were broken.

We might state in this connection that some time since an arrangement was made between the two parties that their headquarters should be closed on the occasion of the parade of ether party; that is, when the Unionists had a parade, then the Keystone Club's quarters should be closed; when the Democrats paraded, the quarters of the Soldiers' Campaign Club should be closed. This arrangement was strictly adhered to on Saturday evening, and the large flag suspended in front of the quarters was taken in at sundown. GERMAN UNION MASS MEETING.

Last Saturday evening a German Union meeting was held at Mechanics' Hall, Third street, below Green, under the auspices of the German Union Olub, of this city. Hon. Fredk, Hassaureck, United States Minister in Ecuador, addressed the assemblage, and made an eloquent appeal in behalf of our great cause. The speaker was frequently interrupted by the most hearty applause, and before the meeting adjourned cheers were given for the Union and our next President, Abraham Lincoln. This was one of the most enthusiastic gatherings of our loyal German fellow-citizens during this campaign.

MASS MEETING Col. R. Stockett Matthews will make a speech this evening at a mass meeting of Unionists at Chestnut Hill. See the advertisement.
