Washington, from whom I had my information, as well as from others; owns the lands around the Burning Spring, which he bought for the sake of it. The accounts of the other springs I received from a gentieman of undoubted veracity, and of great ob-servation, who lately visited them. He commanded the troops who experienced the benefit of the Oil Spring. He mentioned to meanother spring, in the seathwesterly part of Viginia, which he had not seen, but of which he had received a particular ac-oount from gentlemen of character. It is called the Sweet Spring, from the sweetness of the waters, (Nov. 23), says that Thomas D'Arcy McGee is lving dangerously ill in that city. This gentleman has been very prominent, both on this continent and in Ireland, where in 1848 he was one of the leaders of the "Young Ireland" party. Coming to Canada, he almost at once took a distinguished position in the politics of that province, and was but recently speaker of the House of Commons. ANOTHER MYSTERT.—The body of an unknown man was found in a cornstack, on a farm near Free-hold, N. J., a day, or two since, under circumstances, which showed that a shocking murder had been corn-mitted. The skull had been inactured in two places, a gash an inchand a half in length out in the left check, and an instrument had been thrust dorga the throat, nearly severing the torgae. 'A sever-blow had also, suidently been inflicted upon the chin, crushing, it, and causing it to turn black. Fifteen wounds in all had been inflicted upon the body of the man. A coroner's inquest was held, but no additional light was thrown upon the matter. "Important to the Publie." SIR: In a paper called The Age, published in the city of Philadelphia, on the 7th inst. an article is inserted subscribed by George M. Wharton, Abraham Browning, John S. Little, Samuel Jackson, Charles J. Biddle, and Peter McCall, containing a flagitious and libellous attack upon the Rev. Daniel R. Goodwin, provost of the University of Pennsylvania. This article, to adopt its own language, accuses Doctor Goodwin of calumny, defamation, falsehood, malice, and a long list of other opprobrious charges, which constitute the meretricious coinage of the brain of a body of Copperheads, who, having been accustomed to lavish their invectives upon the country and its rulers, can readily direct their slime and their venom against any man who is better than themselves, which would in truth embrace ninety-nine-hundredths of the community. In turning to this matter, what strikes us with the greatest amazement is that such men as these, who have never been true to anything but themselves, and who ought to know in what estimation they are held by those around them, should have the unparalleled audacity to attempt to grapple The article referred to is full of falsehoods, and was well known to be so by its authors, for their stupidity is not equal to their wickedness. It was published the very, day before the election which consigned the whole rebel crew to irremediable dedotes. Business men will find much in it to think puny effort, to impart some aid to their expiring about, and it can be taken up or laid down at any ause; for as to any ald to themselves, that was past ill hope. from the very article now in question, exhibiting, as it purports, their attempted defence. Why did they write to Bishop Hopkins on the 15th of April. 1863, to favor them with his views on the Scriptural aspect of slavery? Will they dare to say that it was not a party political contrivance, designed to affect the political state of the country. If they would, no honest man could be found to believe them. They tell you that the pamphiet, was published at the ex-pense of a lew gentlemen (Copperheads, of course), and not from any party treasury!
