REMINISCENCE OF A FORGER.

On July 6th, 1859, two men, giving the names of issue McGrath and Walter Patterson, were arraigned before Recorder Eneu on the charge of consplicacy to cheat and defraud the Franklin Saving Fund Society, on Walnut street, near Fourth. The svidence adduced at the hearing developed the important facts that defendants had deposited a check purporting to have been drawn by Stewart Robinson. This document was dated July 2, 1859, drawn on the Bank of the Republid, New York, No. 791, made payable to bearer (for draft), the amount being $400. The check was endorsed on the back B. R. Wood; on its face it was marked "good, B. Mauli, teller." On this check, the sum of $34 was drawn. The attempt to draw the remainder was drawn. The attempt to draw the remainder was frustrated by a colored boy. The parties were arrested by Detectives Taggart and Trefts, and were bound over in the sum of $2,500 each to answer at court. ourt.
On the 22d of August fellowing the defendants were convicted and sentenced to a term of eighteen menths imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary. The court subsequently reduced the imprisonment of McGrath to one year. Walter Patterson served his full term. He is said to be the same person recently arrested in New York, on the charge of being implicated in heavy forgeries. RESPECTABLE-LOOKING THIEF.

A neatly-dressed woman, to all appearance a respectable person, stopped at the Girard House yes terday moining and engaged room No. 337. She was so polite and ladylike in her interview with the clerk as to disarm suspicion, and the room, without the usual precaution was placed at her disposal. She took dinner, and though unostentatious, it might be supposed she was a member of one of the "first families." She required rather more waiting on than usual. After dinner she desired to take a leisure stroll, and arranging her toilet for a public promenade, departed from the palatial building, a fine, fat-looking lady of about forty years old. Some time in the afternoon a chambermaid, on going to the room, missed a pair of fine blankets and a pair of sheets. It was evident that the adventuress had enrobed herself beneath her outer garments with the blankets and sheets, and thus succeeded in walking away with them. We are informed that from her actions and general appearance she is likely to deceive hotel-keepers and their clerks generally.

[Before Mr. Alderman Toland.] ALLEGED GAMBLING.

Charles Thomas and Robert Murat were arraigned yesterday on the charge of gambling at the house of James Concloses, Beach near Coates street. Police officers were passing the house, and after looking through the windows observed the defendants gambling, a lot of money and checks being upon the table. The officers watched them, and when the parties came into the street they were arrested. The proprietor of the house was also taken into The proprietor of the house was also taken into custody. The magistrate concluding that probable cause had been developed, ordered the defendants to enter bail to answer at court. [Before Mr. Alderman Welding] THANKSGIVING CELEBRATION SPOILED.

Bridget McLaughlin was arraigned yesterday morning on the charge of stealing chickens, eggs, butter, vegetables, ducks, &c., the property of par-ties unknown. She had a well filled basket on her ties niknown. She had a well filled basket on her arm, and, while passing from stall to stall in one of the market-houses, the was taken into custody. When asked if she had anything to say, she replied with remarkable volubility, but did not throw any light upon the material point as to the possession of the articles. Bridget was committed, and will probably dine to-day on beef soup as it is served in the County Prison. What became of the confiscated chickens, ducks, butter, and eggs, "deponent saith not." CHARGED WITH LARCENY. William Williams, a boarder at the house of Mrs. Martha Donaghy, was arraigned yesterday on the charge of abstracting from a trunk the sum of $150 belonging to Mrs. D. The trunk contained $250, of which sum $100 remained untouched. The defendant was committed to answer. FORGERIES.

FORGERIES.

Periodically, it would seem, individuals who live by their wits hazard their personal liberty by indulging in heavy forgeries. Quite a number of cases of this kind have been checked in this city. On Tuesday, however, a forcery for $3,000 came very near being successful. A check for this amount, on the Bank of Lock Haven. Pa., purporting to have been drawn by Ludwig, Kneedler, & Co., was presented at the counter of a banking firm on Third street. They gave their check, less the discount, on the Commonwealth Bank. This document was presented at the bank counter, but the teller "couldn't see it" without the identification of the presenter. The next act in the adventures of a forger will probably introduce some well-dressed lady, so as to ward off suspicion. Bankers and business men generally cannot be too careful in their dealings, as members of the police force inform us that there seems to be quite an unusual number of the shrewdest kind of swindlers about our city. est kind of swindlers about our city. [Before Mr Recorder Eneu.] LARCENY OF BOUNTY MONEY.

lassic name of Felix Dolan was taken to Camp classic name of Felix Dolan was taken to Camp Cadwalader, he having been enlisted by defendant. Felix had not long been in the country. After he was safely landed in camp, the defendant, it is alleged, retained $375 of the bounty, and promised to pay it over the next day. Instead of doing so, defendant forwarded to the raw recruit a receipt from his (the recruit's) sister, that the money had been paid to her. Now it so happened that Felix never had a sister, and he, believing that something was 'wrong, niade it known to his friends, who had the recruiting agent arrested. Though it is not probable, yet it may be considered possible, that some female may have personated herself as a sister to Felix aforesaid. The final investigation will come up in a few days. It has been delegated to the ingenuity of Mr. J. O'Byrne to solve the mystery. THE COURTS.

United States Circuit Court - Judge Cadwalader.

United States vs. Curtis Hooper. This was an action to recover the pensity of $50 imposed by the act of Congress of March 3, 1863, for having excuted an assignment of a mortgage without having sffixed a revenue stamp. The evidence for the United States showed that the instrument was written, signed, and delivered on the day of the date of the passage of the act, but that it was not formally witnessed and acknowledged until the 10th of March—a week after. Judge Cadwalader, after the case of the United States closed, held as matter of law that the signing and delivery of the mortgage by the defendant on the 3d of March was in fact its executing; that the subsequent formality of the acknowledgment in the presence of witnesses was merely for the purpose of recording, and that the act of Congress of the third of March, which was to take effect "from and after" that date, did not therefore apply. The jury were directed to render a verdict for the defendant. District Attorney Gilpin and Assistant District Attorney Valentine for the United States; F. C. Brewster and J. Smith Futhey for the defendant.

United States vs. John Welde. The defendant in this case is indicted for fraudulently personating one John Otte, a bugler of the 3d U. S. Cavalry, and, upon forced discharge and other papers, drawing from Paymaster Riche, in this city, the sum of $334 80, as arrears of pay, travelling pay, &c. The defendant, at the time of his arrest, in April, was a policeman, and of good standing. Others, who were arrested at about the same time as being implicated in the fraud, but being admitted to bail, they have fied, and do not appear for trial. The false payment was made on the 4th of April, and the clerk to the paymaster testified that he believed the defendant to be the man who personated Otto, and to whom he paid the money as such. A complete cavalry uniform, such as a buglor wears, was found in defendant's house.

The defence is an alibi, and an unexceptionable character was also proven. The uniform found in defendant's house.

Oharles L. Borle et al. vs. The Fairmount (Rase and Vine) Passenger Railway Company. This case was heard yesterday on the petition of Edward T. Shaw, a stockholder in the company, for the appointment of a receiver in the place of Mr. Shaw, who had previously, though his counsel, Mr. Miller, petitioned to be discharged from the office. The affairs of the company have been in his hands as receiver, appointed by the court, for the past three years. It appears now that a large majority of the stockholders desire that the petition of Mr. Sharpless to be discharged shall be granted, and that the affairs of the company shall hereafter be managed by the duly elected president and board of directors. The petitioner, Shaw, opposes this, and asks that, in case the present receiver be discharged, another be appointed in his place. The court, after hearing argument by W. J. McElroy for the petitioner, and St. Geo. T. Oampbell on the other side, discharged Mr. Sharpless and refused the application to appoint another in his stead. for defendant.
