Savannah will furnish an impor- tant opening for the enterprise of the North, and our mercantile houses will profit by advertising themselves early in the Republican . Following the newspaper by a day, the post office opened to an eager host of applicants; and by this time the whole army has received postage stamps and trans- mitted letters. Mail-boats have left every day for Port Royal. A MIRACLE. Wonderful to be said, the citizens of Savannah are greatly disappointed that the national troops	them, and a change of clothing lent till the tattered rags: worn on the journey can be washed and mended. I was glad to see that the needle was being busily piled by the hew comers who were well enough, and those useful and much coveted articles must also have been lent by our island prepie. Sherman has just liberated by his triumphant march through Georgia. Wherever he has borne our flag they have hastened to follow it with simple faith in the truth of the Government and the charity of the nation. They have arrived on the coast, after long marches and severe privations-weary, famished, slok, and almost naked. Seven hundred of these wretched people arrived at Beaufort Christmas night, in a state of misery which would have moved to pity a heart of stone, and these are but the advance of a host no less des- titute. The stores of the Government, already overtaxed to supply a large army, are not available to relieve their watts ; and unless the obartiy of the North come speedily to the rescue, they must die by hun- dreds from exposure and disease.
