LETTER FROM THE PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL IN THE PERSENT AND IN THE FUTURE—BACH EN-BE CONSIDERED AS WELL AS NUMBERS IN EVENT The following appeared in a portion of our edition

THE DRAFT.

or, we reprint the formulation of the provest Marshal General Fry has written a letter of the Governor of Minnesots, in which he explains in detail how the duotas of the several districts hiroughout the country are fixed, and other matters of importance at this time. We give to our readers e following condensation, which includes all the The call of the President for 500,000 men, dated The call of the President for subject on any dates. July 18th, 1864, was intended to bring into the field that number, but on account of naval enlistments, &c., which had not been credited, the draft did not raise the number expected, and rendered necessary raise the number expected, and rendered necessary the call of December 19th, 1894, for 300,000 men. Such splistments as are made prior to the coming draft will be all credited as units to the account of the districts furnishing them, no matter whether they be one, two, or three-years men. But in estimating the assignment of future quotas, should there hereafter be another draft; the fact of oil district having furnished three-years men will be taken into account. It seems, if we understand aright the tenor of the Provest's remarks, that the excesses of three years men in particular districts over the quota under the last are to be accounted in the estimation of the quota under the present one; for he says:

one, for he says:

"As it would be unjust and illegal to require a district which had illed its quota under the last call with three years men to furnish as many men under the present call as an equal district which had filled its quota under the last call with one-year men, the former having furnished, three times the number of years of service which the latter had furnished to be service which the latter had furnished its right strict, and sub district had furnished or years of service which each State, district, and sub district had furnished or present of the first had furnished respectively, so that in accertaining the required number for each district in order to obtain three hundred thousand men, each locality would receive full result for the number of years of service furnished under the last call, or excess carried forward and oredited upon that call, previous calls being filled with three-years men, or enlistments reduced to the three-years basis."

This long and intricate sentence appears to mean that a district furnishing 1,000 men, for three years service is placed on an equality with a district furnishing of a downer for one year's service. This he asserts in an illustration, and shows that his theory is legal by an extract from the law that his theory is legal by an extract from the law regulating quotas, which is to the effect that quotas shall be assigned "among the districts of the seve-ral States, considering and allowing for the numrai States, considering and anowing for the num-bers already furnished as aforesaid, and the time of their service." In assigning a quota under a call to make up deficiencies, the deficiency of year's ser-vice, as well as the deficiencies in number, are to be estimated, and the quotas varied accordingly. This rule is always obeyed by the Government. It akes the responsibility, and even if a soldier does not serve his full term, or as General Fry puts it:
"A soldier who enlists for three years, and dies or is discharged at the end of twelve months, is credited to his sup-district as a three-years man; and a man who enlists for one year, and is discharged in a week after enlistment, is credited as a one-year man. The amount of credit to be given is dependent upon the period for which the soldier enters This letter, in conclusion, says that the rule in applying credits is that, they should be deducted from the quota of the call that produced them. All men raised since the call of July 18, 1864, are credited upon the quota under that call; if the quota is more than filled, it is carried as excess to in the assignment of the quota under the call of De-cember 19, 1864, and provost marshals are instructed that in determining the quotas of sub-districts under the present call they will apply such excess accord-ingly; and all men raised since December 19th are, of course, credited upon the call of that date. In crediting the excess that is carried forward from the call of July 18, 1864, and, applied to the call of De-cember 19, 1864, he considers not only the number of men of which the excess is composed, but also, as hown above, the period of their service; and the notas assigned under the call of December 19th are thus reduced by this excess of service, and hence they should not be further reduced, except by en-listments subsequent to December 19, 1864, the date of the call for three hundred thousand men. THE NEW YORK INCENDIARY PLOT.

BREST- OF SUSPECTED REMET OFFICERS—CAPT.
BELL, THE LAKE PIRATS, AT FORT LAVAUETTE— A COURT MARTIAL ORDERED. The New York papers of yesterday contain accounts of the arrest of four of the gang of incenliaries who endeavored to fire that city. The World says:

Eyer since the memorable attempt to destroy this city by setting fire to the different hotels, and which happily proved so futile, Major General Dix, commanding this department, and Superintendent Kennedy, of the Metropolitan Police, have been diligently and secretly at work endeavoring through their subord inates to ferret out, and bring to justice, the conspirators and actors in the diabolical plot. So secret have been the workings of the military and police authorities that the public began to complain that no efforts were being made by those in authority to discover the criminals. Yet by reason of this strict secrecy, and the judicious blending of the military and police power, the efforts of the detectives sumployed have been crowned with partial success.

this strict secrecy, and she judicious blending of the military and police power, the efforts of the detectives simployed have been crowned with partial success.

We may now state, upon reliable authority, that four yery important arrests have been made so far, and others are expected in a few days. The first, and probably most important, is the notorious Captain Bell, the leader in the raid on Lake Eric. The name by which he was known at the time of his arrest was Baker. He is a man of education; halls from the neighborhood of Richmond, Virginia, and holds a commission as captain in the Confederate service, and is one of the most able of the rebel officers who make their headquarters in Canada. He was arrested near Suspension Bridge, with a companion, who is also said to be in the Confederate service. They had just come from Buffalo, and had with them a carpet-bag with several candles. The arrest of these was made a few days subsequent to the time when information was received at the headquarters of the Department of the East, that an attempt was to be made to destroy the city of Buffalo by fire, by a party of incendiaries from Toronto, O. W. It is said that both these prisoners will be treated as spies. They are at present confined in Fort Lefayette.

The third one arrested is also said to be in the rebel service, and is commonly known as Stanton. His real name is known to the authorities, but they do not deem it prudential at the present time to divulge it. About ten days ago he was taken into custody near Detroit, having just crossed the line from Sarnia. He has been identified as one of those connected with the incendiary plot in this city, and will be tried by court-martial as a spy. The fourth arrest is also of a captain in the Confederate army, who was found lying perdu in a small village on the Hudson. The working up of the plain to secure the arrest of these parties was in charge of Chief John S. Young, of the detective force of this city, who, with several of the police and military detectives, have

It is stated that the court will meet at Fort Lafaytte and hold its sessions there.

The Sherman Testimonial. LETTER FROM GENERAL GRANT—CONTRIBUTION OF THE LIEUTENANT GENERAL AND CHIEF QUAR TERMÁSTER INGALLS. The Cincinnati Commercial says the following letter from Lieutenant General Grant was read at the meeting regarding the "Sherman Testimonial," which was held in Columbus the other day: HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE UNITED STATES OITY POINT, Va., Dec. 22, 1864. H. H. Hunter, D. Talmadge, John T. Brasee: H. H. Hunter, D. Talmiadge, John T. Brasee:

DRAM SIES! I have just this moment received your printed letter in relation to your proposed movement in acknowledgment of one of Ohio's greatest sons. I wrote only sesterday to my father; who resides in Covington, Ky., on the same subject, and asked, him to inaugurate a subscription to present Mrs. Sherman with a house in the city of Clincinnati. Gen. Sherman is eminently entitled to this mark of consideration, and I directed my father to head the subscription with five hundred dollars for me, and half that amount from Gen. Ingalls, chief quartermaster of this army, who is equally alive with myself to the eminent services of Gen. Sherman. with myself to the eminent services of Gen. Sherman.

Whatever direction this enterprise in favor of General Sherman may take, you may set me down for the amount named. I cannot say a word too highly in praise of General Sherman's services from the beginning of the rebellion to the present day, and will, therefore, abstain from flattery of him. Suffice it to say, the world's history gives no record of his superiors, and but few equals.

I am truly glad for the movement you have set on foot, and of the opportunity of adding my mite in testimony of so good and great a man.

Yours truly,

The suggestion of Gen. Grant that Mrs. Sherman should be presented with a house in this city is received with favor by those who have interested themselves in the movement, and it is likely to be carried into effect.

Secretary Seward and Lord Wharncliffe.

would have leaped from its scabbard at the slightest of the provocations, now innumerable, which it has received from the United States. But that day has passed. Its chivalry has fallen into the sere and yellow leaf. Its people are as brave and manly as ever, but the spirit of trade and money getting has deadened the sentiment of honor, and the canker of a long peace has esten out the pith and vitality of military pride. Ever since the downfall of the Tory party, and the predominance in the national councils of the -commercial interest, national chivalry has been dead in England. The Tories, with all their faults and errors, were the true representatives of the British Lion. The king of beasts disappeared with them. It is not possible that he is still in his old cage, when Brother Jonathan can poke the longest kind of pole into it every day without eliciting a single roar.

We agree for once with W. H. Seward, when he says that England is responsible for the present calamities of this continent, and that our once prosperous and happy States are now the scenes of almost unparalleled bloodshed and missery, the responsibility rests upon Great Britain. The satislevery party in the North would have died out long ago but, for the inspirations, it received from a country to which all Americans were in the habit of looking for lessons in civilization and morals.

long ago but for the inspirations it received from a country to which all Americans were in the habit of looking for lessons in civilization and morals.

By looks of travels, by novels, by songs; by sermons, by reviewis by newspaper articles, by Exeter Halls, and solitical emissarles, by contributions of money, by diplomacy, by social and religious intinuences; in fine, by every instrumentality that could be brought to bear upon the human mind. England has been laboring for the last thirty years to propel her whole moral weight upon the Northern mind, so as to instigate and inflame it to sectional hostility against these States of the Union in which Slavery existed. The most distinguished Southern statesman, on a visit to her capitol, was estentatiously slighted by the nobility, and a figulity elgave publicly petted by the same Duchess of Sutherland who dispossessed her white tensative in Scotland to convert their farms into sheepwalks:

The South never had a friend in England till this war began! Was all this philanthropy? Every child knows that England has been the greatest slave-trader in the world, and herself planted the institution here which suddenly became so abhorrent to her moral sense. Even an idiot can understand that she only used anti-slavery as a wedge to accomplish the disruption of a hated and formidable Power, and hence, now that her object is accomplished, she preserves a "rigid neutrality," and takes sides with neither "belligerents."

But the day of retribution will one day come. We are beginning to think that that day is not far distant. Her hold upon the magnificent province of Canada is precarious, and her ancient domination of the way have no doubt she sympathizes with "the rebellion," and wishes that it would last forever; but it is only that her own prosperity may be built upon the common ruln of the United States and the Confederacy.

(From the Loadon Daily News.)

Once in every formight throughout the winter the promoters of the midnight meeting movement hold a meeting, to which failen women of every degree are invited. A large room is hired, now in the vicinity of the Haymarket, now in Broad street. Westiminster, now in the Euston road, or other part of London, where the evil it is sought to grapple with is known to flourish in rank luxuriance; cards and tracts are distributed during the early portion of the same evening, and from eleven o'clock all female applicants are admitted without question at the coor. The meeting of last Thursday was held at the St. James' Hall, and was numerously attended by prositutes of a certain grade. The room began to fill'shortly before midnight, and the clergymen and others who had issued the invitations opened the proceedings with prayer, after which a hymn was sung and earnest exhortations given. Out of the 100 or 150 women who availed themselves of the cards of invitation which had been diligently given to the casino-frequenters and street-walkers of the vicinity, it was confidently expected that some twelve would be ledito seek the aid of the society, and that out of that number nine would be permanently reclaimed. These figures are merely given as the expectations of the promoters—expectations founded not on the observation of the night, but derived from long experience and a careful study of the averages of preceding meetings. It would, indeed, be hazardous in the extreme to venture a positive opinion upon the effect of the ministrations of a particular evening from mere external observation, for it is only in the days following thereupon that the influence exerted can bear palpable fruit—A card printed thus: "Dear friend, if you will can on Mir. Stabb 9, Red Lion square, Holborn, W. C., any day between ten and four, he will advise with you, and if possible assist you for the future," was given to each woman as she left the hall, and it is only after the presentation of these cards that even an epprox The "Social Evil" in London.

resume their immorsi life. It is painful to say aught which may seem to reflect, however remotely, upon efforts which merit the gratitude of the nation, but it would be idle and foolish to conceal that the proceedings of last Thursday did not strike us as satisfactory. The women were not so well behaved as might have been fairly expected. There was less attention, more frequent interruptions, greater levity, and far more palpable indifference than some published accounts had led us to expect. The poor, worn-out, battered creatures, with raddled cheeks: and lackinstre eyes, who sat stolid, silent, and immovable, as if content to enjoy without trouble the physical comforts of warmth and light, who swallowed their not cofies with an eagerness which showed them to be both hungered and athret, were well behaved enough—that is, they made no sign. Moody and torpid, they neither betrayed animation nor displayed disapprobation or assent at any stage of the proceedings, but, if appearances were to be trusted, heard the earnest pleadings of the speakers with as little interest as if they had been couched in an unknown tongue. But many of the younger women treated the whole affair with undisquised contempt. There were laughing, chatting, and elbow nudging during singing and prayer, and the noise rather increased than diminished when the minister of the evening delivered his address. Nothing could be more feeling or more broadly charitable than the tone adopted by this gentleman. There was neither assumption of superiority to his hearers, nor an offeneive estentation of speaking down to their level. Perhaps, however, the view taken of the antecedents of the people before him was of too ideal a character to be thoroughly effective. The broken-hearted father, the vacant seat in the chimney corner, the sad thoughts of the missing one at the family gathering on the coming our study unfamiliar images to the lone prostitute of real life. strangely unfamiliar images to the lone prostitute of real life. These are the associations of sentiment; but if we could really draw aside the veil and see the wretched surroundings and uteriy demonstrated associations of the childhood of a large proportion of such people as were assembled at 18 L. James Hall, we should too often find that the degradation of to day is not an abys into which they have suddenly failen, but rather the natural sequence to a hideously-pervented infancy and a besotted home. There were not a dozen of the ordinary dashing west-End prostitutes among the women we saw through here and therefore the provide of the ordinary dashing west-End prostitutes among the women we had to the same and a sequence to a hideously-pervented infancy and a figured in estina and lace at no very distant day, while its owner was pointed out as one of the fashionably notorious women of her hour. The common, vulgar, brazen creature, whose shame sits lightly on her shoulders, was, however, most numerously represented of all, and throughout the evening she tittered and giggled, regardless of looks of remonstrance, and in defiance of expostulations more openly expressed. Nor did this seem to proceed from the bravado often simulated to hide deep feeling. The proceedings were often held to be jocose, and the tone of they ounger women present was uniformly ribaid. In one instance, and one instance only during our stay, did we note an exhibition of feeling. The pictures of the bereave present of the late of the promoters of the meeting. WHAT "SHE" IS .- Our readers have often hoard of this notorious guerilla leader, who has passed, these two years back, for a woman. This allegaof this notorious guerilla leader, who has passed, these two years back, for a woman. This allegation is denied by the Louisville Journal, which says in the reputed memor is Jerome Clark, a son of Hector M. Clark, of Simpson county, Ky., and cousin to Hon. Beverly L. Clark; also cousin to Tandy Clark, now in the State prison for robbing the mails. He is about twenty two years of age, of medium feminine stature, small feet and hands, face beardless and quite handsome, votee soft and feminine—all together making a counterfeit so perfect that even John Morgan, on a certain occasion, mistook him for a woman. He belonged to Morgan's command, and was with him on his raid through Ohio. His first experiment at deception in woman's attire was played off upon his commanding general. He was neatly dressed in Bloomer costume, wore a fancy military cap, containing a wig of woman's hair, which in long tresses flowed down carelegaly over his shoulders. Thus attired, he was introduced to his chieftain by some of his comrades in arms as Miss Sue Mundy, who, under the irresistible promptings of patrictism, was earnestly solicitous to obtain is position in his command favorable to the development of her highly intensified sympathles and prowess in behalf of the rebellion. Morgan struck with the beauty and heroic bearing of Miss Mundy, at once consented to enroll her and give her a desirable position. But, on inquiring particularly in reference to her name, she replied, "Jerome Clark, sit." When the merriment resulting from his successful experiment had subsided, Morgan remarked, "All right, boys; we will have use for Sue Mundy," It followed that Clark, in the character of Sue Mundy, rendered invaluable service to John Morgan.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. The sapture of Fort Fisher was not without its effect upon the stock market yesterday, causing also considerable fluttering among the gold operators, who were obliged to yield to the pressure of the hour, and content themselves with lower quotations. Gold opened at 207%, and at 4 o'clock it stood at 21%. At the regular stock market an uniqual stir prevailed, though prices were generally lower, in sympathy with gold. Gowere generally lower, in sympathy with gold. Go-vernment loans were in moderate request, the 5-20s selling at 109½, a decline of ½, and the 1881 loan at 111½, a decline of ½. The 10-40s were steady at last prices. There was no demand for State loans. City 6s were unchanged in price. Railway bonds were mode-rately inquired for; the first mortgage Pennsylvania. Railroad bonds advanced ½. There were sales report-ed of Camden and Amboy 6s at 108; Morris Canal 6s at 108.1 This is to 6, 100 the 1100. ed of Camden and Amboy 6s at 108; Morris Canal 6s at 103; Lehigh 6s at 98; Reading 6s, '43-'80 at 100; Sohupikill Navigation 6s, '62, at 83, and Union Canal 6s at 23. The share list was very dull, and the tendency of prices was for a further decline; Reading fell of '%, selling at 66; and Penn'a Railroad ¼, selling at 64¼; Catawissa preferred was strong at 84, and Norristown at 58. The oil stocks were somewhat active; but prices show no material improvement. Maple Shade again declined ¼. There was a moderate inquiry for the canal stocks; Lehigh Mavigation selling at 72; Susquehanna Canal at 14%, and Schuylkill Navigation preferred at 33%. There was a better demand for the coal stocks, with free sale was a better demand for the coal stocks, with free sales of Swatars Falls at 5; Clinton at 1; Shamokin at 15½, and North Carbondale at 2 1 16.
