Telegraphic Mistakes. There was no evidence of arson against the four boys now before court, except that of belonging to the pilfernow before ccurt, except that of belonging to the pilfering gang.

Other witnesses were called, who identified the older Harrington' and Sullivan as having pilfered about the streets. They were ordered to enter bail in $300 to answer the charge of larceny at the present term of the court. The younger Harrington and Anderson were discharged.

During the pending of the cause. Mr. Brooks, who seemed anxious to get up a case, said adde to the court that it would be well to have a special day for House of Refuge cases—or commit Mr. O'Byrne to the Hefuge.

All words should be properly written, but some require special care, and no transposition of the alphabet, or any part of it, can overcome that necessity. The change of a single letter in the Morse alphabet would almost mar the invention. The idea of bringing about such a change is not altogether new. It has been attempted by various parties, but without success. The defendant and his mother live in the second story of the same house. The complainant set forth in her evidence that on Friday afternoon, between five and six o'clock, the defendant was beating his mother in a merciless manner. Philada, Feb. 16, 1865. THE CITY. MILITARY. A BIRNEY BRIGADE.

On Saturday a meeting was held at the Corn Exchange, for the purpose of taking necessary steps towards raising a brigade in this city to be called the Birney Brigade, in honor of the late Gen. D. B. Birney, the brigade to be put in Gen. Hancock's corps. The meeting was called at the request of O. W. Dayis, Esq. Mr. Chas. Knecht, president of the Corn Exchange, introduced Mr. Davis, who explained that he proposed to raise three regiments—one to be recruited under the auspices of the merchants, manufacturers, and bankers of Philadelphis, one by the various corporations, and the third by the Corn Exchange. It was proposed that each of these bodies should contribute money, and lend what aid was in their power. Arrangements would be made by which the recruits would receive their bounty in cash, and not in warrants, and thus Philadelphia will secure credit for the whole three regiments.

On motion of Mr. Jos. S. Perot, the subject was referred to the Regimental Committee, with instructions to report in the early part of the week.

Benjamin Franklin, Eq., Chief of the Detective Police, who had already recruited over fitty veterans for Hancock's corps, was present, and was called upon to make some statement in reference to his plan of recruiting. Mr. Franklin did so, at length, stating that he was only prompted by one feeling, and that was to relieve the city from a draft. He promised to lend his aid and do all he could in the formation of the Birney Brigade.

The Vigilant Fire Company were, on Friday evening, formsly presented with the silver fire horn recently voted to them at St. Augustine's Fair, at the parsonage of that church. Two handsome silver goblets were also presented by the managers of the fair to the company. The presentation address was made by John O'Byrne, Esq., on behalf of the donors. The articles were received by Hon. Richard Vaux, on the part of the company, in a neat address. After the presentation the company sat down to a splendid supper. The Vigilant is one of our most efficient companies, and that their efforts for the public good are appreciated is shown by the liberality with which their friends subscribed to the beautiful horn that was presented.

The following letter, addressed to the chairman of the Clothing Committee of the "Association of Friends of Philadelphia and its Vicinity for the Relief of Colored Freedmen," is in reply to a letter to Gen. Saxton, advising him of the shipment of thirty-four packages, containing 6,484 new garments and 728 pairs of shoes, valued at $16,000, for distribution among the destitute freedmen liberated in General Sherman's march through Georgia:

Sherman's march through Georgia:

Dear Sir. Gen. Saxton has instructed me to say that your letter has been received, and, in behalf of the suffering seople coming in every day, upon whom the light of freedom has just dawned, he returns through you his sincere blanks for the timely offering from your association, new on the way to them. Many of them, doubtless, feel just now that there is but little warmin in the subjekt of Liberty, of which they have heard so much. A contest as to the validity of the will of John Duckett, deceased. Before reported. The jury on Sahnday returned a verdict for defendant. This verdict sustains the will.

Judge Allison announced the conclusion he had arrived at in the Cunningham-Blakoney-McCaulley case, heard before him in the Quarter Sessions, wherein an application was made under a habeas corpus on behalf of Mrs. Cunningham (since deceased) to recover the custody and control of her child, then and now living with Mr, and Mrs. Blakeney, with whom she had placed it when an infant, two weeks old, she professing and desiring that, in case of her death, Mrs. McGaulley, an old friend of hers, should have charge of it. Judge Allison said that he thought the mother's wishes should be permitted to control the entedy of the child, and that he had determined that Mrs. McCaulley should have the custody of it, provided that he same for it and treat it as the Blakeneys had done and are doing. He meant that the child was not to be regarded or treated as a servant. Until that matter was finally settled, the child should remain with the Blakeneys. Derne, Hollidaysburg

Judge Ludlow said the case was patiently ricel, and the law laid before the jury as explicitly as it could possibly be done by the court. This boy certainly acted in a very obstinate manner, and the teacher, in expressing his best minster to one of the court could not too strongly condemn parents entering a sobol house and taking the law into their own hands. On the other hand, the discipline of the school must be exercised with great care and caution. Teachers should remember that they stand in the place of parents, and what would be cruel and unjust punishment with the teacher would be equally so with the parent. It was a difficult matter for the court to stipulate the exact bounds of discipline to be safered by teachers, but cruel and unnecessary punishment must not be sustained.

The court could not but condemn, in unqualified forms, any parent entering a school-house and taking the law in their hands. Were it not for the surroundings of this case, the court would certainly send the defendant to prison; but thinking the purposes of justice would be maintained by a flac, that course would be adopted. Mr Carlin was then sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs.

Mr. O'Byrne read the case of Shay, who was discharged by Judge Allicon because of the illegality of the writ upon which they were committed. Herespectfully demanded the discharge of these boys upon the same ground, and, instead of his olients being vagrants, as the law required they should be before committed to the Refuge, they all at anded school and were on their way from school when arrested. So well educated was sone of the boys that immediately upon his commitment to the Refuge he was made a teacher or monitor of. These boys were entitled to a jury trial as well as the best in the land would he, and he asked the court to his nel 10 amount of bail required.

Judge Ludlow asked to see the commitment on its face charged larcany; there'ere it was legal.

Mr. Backy said the managers of the House of Refuge did not now nor never did desire to hold any one unless ashedioned in doing so by the court.

EDUCATIONAL.

FOUR BUSINESS.—TO Lyong Men about engaging in business for themselves or who are seeking employment, the QUAKSE CITY BUSINESS COLLEUR. TENTH and CHESTNUT Streets, offers advantages of the highest order. This institution is what its name imports.

And is organized and conducted upon a plan essentially different from that of ordinary commercial colleges, under the management of gentlemen of liberal education and thorough business experience. The system of instruction combiness experience. The system of instruction combiness the property of the system of instruction combiness. The system of instruction combiness transactions, buying, selling, and delivering goods by sample, keeping the books by original entries, thus avoiding the defects of copying systems, making out invoices, Bills, and Receipts, and drawing all the forms required in every department of Trade and Commerce. How many study Book-keeping and yet are almost totally ignorant of the real requirements of business!

The system dopied here is intended to give the student a correct idea of the details and routine of actual business, and to render him perfectly familiar with that which every man must understand in order to conduct his own or others' affairs with skill and credit.

The Institution has more extended and infinity of the buildings, together with the office on the ground door, and the whole is furnished in the best and most substantial manner.

over all others. This superiority is derived from three sources:

Ist. Being fifty per cent, heavier than the common chimney, they may be handled with much less care.

2d. The ovai shape is an adaptation to the fat fame, the Chimney being at all points the same distance from the heat; so that the danger of sracking by unequal expansion is avoided.

3d. The material of which these Chimneys are manufactured is unequalled by any other glass as a rapid conductor of heat; and, practically, it is found that the sombination renders them almost entirely free from itability to destruction by the heat of the fame. Hence the obstacle in the way of the universal use of Carbon Oil, found in the unreasonable expense for Chimneys, has been met and removed by the introduction of DITHEIDGES FIRE-FROOF CHIMNEYS.

The popularity of these Chimneys has induced some unprincipled persons to make use of our name and trademarks, and their reputation has been partially impaired by the worthlessness of spurious Chimneys as dataged of some glass Chimneys would do well to easil and try the XX Flint.

We have appointed Messra PERRIME & DRYDEN, No. 1028 South SEOOND Street, Sole Agents for our Chimneys in Fhilsdelphia, from whom they can be obtained in any quantity, at manufacturer's prices, with the addition of freight.

TO NURSERYMEN AND RESERY, Woodbury, N. J...

FOR SALE.

Established in 1851.

Owing to the death of the proprietor, DAVID J. GRISCOM, the grounds and entire stock of this well-established Nursery are for sale, comprising about sixly-five acres, stocked with Deciduous. Evergreen, and Fruit Trees, in all their popular varieties. The specimen trees along the avenues and through the grounds are attractive and valuable, for their-benlty, size, and symmetry, comprising most of the rare and hardy evergreens. The buildings are all good, and ample for the purpose. The shove property is in a thriving neighborhood, and within a few hundred yards of the depot of the West Jersey Railroad, and offers every opportunity for the profitable prosecution of the business.

Adjoining the above will be sold a valuable tract of fifty acres, well calculated for a small farm, or sites for country residences. It has all the advantages of good toil, high and healthy location, nearness to market, schools, railroad depot, and good navigation. Would divide well into eight or ten-acre farms.

Terms moderate, and title indisputable.

Those whishing to view either property or wanting information, will apply to two wants of Eriscom, formation, will apply to two wants of Eriscom, formation, will apply to two wants of Eriscom, for, 11, 18-31* COPARTNERSHIP.—The undersigned have this day formed—a-cuttuership under the style and firms of BRITE. The attention of the travelling public is most respectfully called to this old-established stand, which for the past five month has been closed to trade, and during that time has been closed to trade, and during that time has been thoroughly remodeled, repaired, and newly furnished throughout, until it now possesses all the conveniences pertaining to a first class hold, which are in any manner calculated to insure the perfect composition of its guests.

Its eliuation alone would recommend it as a topping place, being only two and a half squares from the depota; near enough to prove convenient, sufficiently distant to avoid the annoyance of railroad noise and bustle.

The furniture the cuttiefly sich, rooms large and well ventilated, table supplied with every luxury the market san afford, while as to the management, it is troubed to the judgment of a discriminating public to decide.

The Proprietor, having determined to make the character and reputation of the house the object, without regard to cost, hopes to marit the patronage and favorable opinies of those who design stopping in the State sapital.
