MONDAY, MARCH 13, 1865. A GLANCE at the map, and a careful reading of the telegrams of to-day, will show that the victory claimed by one of the Richmond papers is not worth the boast. General FOSTER had not advanced in strong force on the 9th, and the construction corps he had sent to repair the railroad was not sufficient either to win or lose an important battle. Gen. Brage, if he defeated this force, has not retarded SHER-MAN one day in his march, nor in any way manged the situation. In assuming, from the result of this skirmish, that SHER-/ MAN cannot advance through North Carolina, the rebels merely utter a boast which the North can hear with indifference. Far more important is the announcement that SHERMAN is expected to reach Goldsboro on the 17th inst. This fact the War De partment would not publish if any rebel force could prevent him. Goldsboro is about eighty miles north of Wilmington.

History Vindicates Honesty. In the early part of the war the embarrassments of the Government led to many abuses, particularly in furnishing supplies to the army and navy. A committee of the Senate, under the chairmanship of Mr. GRIMES, investigated the subject and made a report involving many of those who were in the service of the Administration. Among others, Capt. R. F. LOPER one of our most patriotic townsmen, was charged with having taken advantage of the authorities, to the injury of the service and his own gain. The blameless life of Capt. Lo-PER and his identification with many of our city's bost interests, Bade it impossible for us to accept even the condemnation of a committee of the Senate. The decisions of these committees are too often imperfect and even exparte, and require the just revision of the people. Capt. Loren has re ceived this vindication in the most gratifying and triumphant manner, as will be seen by this correspondence: WASHINGTON, Feb. 27, 1865.

Captain R. F. Loper:

DEAR SIR: As you desired, when I saw you in the early part of the month, I addressed a note to the Solicitor of the War Department, Mr. Whiting, and received his answer, under date of the 9th inst., a copy of which I enclose to you.

I never claimed infallibility for the committee of the Senate on army transportation, of which I was a member. The testimony taken by the committee was necessarily mostly of an ex parts character. The conclusions reached by the committee were honestly drawn from the testimony before them, and it would seem from the letter of Mr. Whiting that his attained the same conclusions with the committee, "on the facts a presented to them."

I am happy to learn that you have been able to present to the Solicitor other facts, not in evidence before the committee, which, in his opinion, wholly exonerate you from all blame in your transactions with the Government.

Your obedient servant,

JAMES W. GRIMES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9, 1865.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9, 1865.

Hon. J. W. Grimes, United States Senate:

My Dhar Sir: I have just received your note inquiring whether I have examined into the transactions of Captain R. F. Loper, with and for the Government in connection with army transportation, and requesting me, if willing, to communicate the result of such examination.

Captain Loper's transactions were brought to my attention through the Quartermaster's Department, to which he had presented claims for adjustment, and also by a report of a committee of the Senate, referred to me by the Secretary of War. As great trands had been committed by certain persons in that department, suspicion had fallen on many others, and the Government was anxious to protect itself as far as possible from injustice by a searching examination of all transactions relating to the chartering of vessels for transportation.

From the great respect I entertained for the committee who investigated and reported on these subjects, and with whose conclusions, on the facts as presented to them, I generally agreed, I was led to believe that Captain Loper's conduct had been censurable, although not such as to subject him to legal liability to the United States. But during my investigation of the case a large mass of facts was disclosed, which had not been known to the my investigation of the case a large mass of facts was disclosed, which had not been known to the committee, nor till then to the Department From my examination of all the facts in the case, I was brought to the unbesitating conclusion that Captain Loper's conduct in his transactions with the Government had been honest, honorable, and patriotic, and that he was entitled to the respect and confidence of the Government and of the country. With great respect, your obedient servant, in a few days, when these commissions will be re-newed by the President, or other appointments made in place of the incumbents, leaving the Senate to act apon them at its next meeting. The Late Sheriff Thompson.

We regret to have to announce the sudden death of John Thompson, Esq., late Sheriff of Philadelphia, which occurred on Saturday morning at his residence in this city. He was in his sixty-seventh year. His death is a severe shock to the community in which he so lately moved, and in which he was so widely known and respected. He was taken ill, we believe, on Monday last, with an affection of the heart, which rendered breathing difficult, but on Friday was thought to be improving, and on the morning of his death had arisen and dressed himself as usual. Lying down again shortly afterwards, he passed away without a struggle, and almost without a premonition.

Sheriff Thompson had filled a number of public positions. He served with reputation in 1237 and 1837 in the State Legislature, and afterwards performed, with unusual credit and acceptability, the duties of ture, and afterwards performed, with unusual credit and acceptability, the duties of Alderman in this city, for over twenty successive years. Such was the general estimation in which he was held that for years his political opponents made no nomination against him. In October, 1861, he was elected Sheriff of Philadelphia county, from which office he retired in November last, upon the expiration of his term.

There was no man, perhaps, in this entire community, who possessed in a more marked degree the implicit confidence and real esteem of his fellow-citizens. His life and character were so pure, his integrity so strict, his manners so gentle, and his charity so wide, that it may be truly said that he was generally beloved by all with whom he came in contact—by high and low, rich and poor. Few men leave behind them a more honorable name, and few die more sincerely mourned.

LETTER FROM "OCCASIONAL."

WASHINGTON, March 12, 1865. The executive session of the United States Senate closed its session on Saturday. An immense number of nominations, military and civil, have been confirmed, and it is possible that the President may make appointments for certain of the Federal offices, the commissions of the incumbents of which will expire during the recess; but of this I am not positive. What policy will be adopted in regard to these offices is not definitely known; but from what I can gather there is not much disposition to displace an officer at the end of four years if he is competent and honest. If the extraordinary pressure upon President Lincoln to be intensified by throwing upon him and rusting of deciding between swarms of contending applicants for his patronage, he may well be appalled at the effect upon his health. Indeed, I'understand that this is his own opinion. That there will be, and must be, many changes in the course of events, is natural; but there will be no sweeping removals of tried servants. Integrity, loyalty, fitness, these are the great pre-requisites. And never before were they so essential as at present; never has the Government been so resolutely exacting in demanding that without them no man can long hold place. He who, in such an hour, uses his position for himself, or for the purpose of speculation, is not only false to his vote and his country, but is sure to be caught. Talk as we may of "military arrests" and "military trials," (and I have my own strong feelings on this subject, and sometimes think the law of necessity is stretched to too severe & tension,) yet it is only by this process that the terrible frauds in the great cities, includ-ALL QUIET AT THE PRONT ing the system of bounty jumping, have been unearthed. In such cases, the Go-

WELLS READY FOR PUMPING. Engine on the Ground! IMMEDIATE REALIZATION

The almost countless number of petroleum associa-tions, and the non-fulfilment of promises made, give rise to serious apprehensions in the minds of the many rise to the wisdom of investing at all in an enterprise of the kind. The profits are oftlimes indefinitely prospec-tive, while the dividend day is too distant even for pope to dwell upon with pleasing anticipation Again, many labor under the delusion that only in Venango county oil is found in paying quantities, where enormous prices are paid for a few acres of hills, with about as many rode of boring surface. Add to this the high figure at which the companies in consequence are compelled to sell their stock, and can say one wonder that the percentage accruing is quite trivial, and the investment somewhat precarious? THE PHILADELPHIA LUBRICATING OIL COM-PANY present the lollowing facts for consideration, and ask the public to say whether or not the chares they and sak the public to eay whether or not the shares they offer at twenty five cents will in value favorably compare with many in the market at dollars each. The land owned by this company is in fee simple, and numbering in all one hundred and sixty-four acres.

No. 1 contains sixty acres, situated in Crawford county, Pa. On this property is a well four hundred feet deep, now being tubed for pumping. The force of the gas when boring completely demolished the derricks, while the yield of oil following was such as to insure success from the start.

This well was sunk in the centre of an old Indian pit, of which there are a number on the land. The natives in primitive times gathered gallons of oil daily from these pits, as well as off the streams. It was in Graw ford county that oil was first gathered for medicine purposes. This one well alone will pay a handson profit on the entire capital.

No. 2 contains sixty acres in Eric county. There is a well on this property fifty feet down, with a goodly show of oil. When sufficiently deep there is no double No. 3 contains forty-four acres in Eric county, with the best surface indications. The oil found is lubrica-ting, and of the very best quality, commanding readily $30 per barrel. All the lots are heavily timbered with emlock, ash, and maple, and is considered very valuable, should the Company see fit to dispose of the same.
Thereabouts are large oar manufactories, where countless numbers are annually made for the navy.
Every acre can be bored or cultivated—no waste whatever. There is a machine shop within six miles, while the Pitisburg and Erie Railroad and Beaver and Erie Canal run close to the several properties. Adjoining the land New Fork and Pittsburg Companies are sink-ing wells, while the Noble and Delamater Company have an interest only a few rods distant A first-class 12-horse power engine, with boring and pumping apparatus complete, are on the ground, which, with the wells in their present condition, are not only a saving to the stockholders of many thousands of dolrs, but a sure guarantee of success, enterprise, and Those desirons of investing in stocks should not ever-Those desirous of investing in scores should not ever-look a fact of such importance.
