Dramatis Persona MR. FUDGE THE FORT. As easy, 'tis, as lying. See, I take Some fancied barren rascal-call him Sludge; Some motion barren familiar talk of Sanl. Put in his mouth familiar talk of Sanl. Jonathan, Gasar, Bacon, and their like, Who speak through him their shallow messages From tother world, mixed with some crude dis-

On truth and falsehood-rather less obscure Than my lost essays in philosophy.

A dull invention-shallow i That I grant

Lacking the spice which thus I dredge upon it; Add carioature or its tags and rags, Some easy strokes -- a chat of Presidents, Oocktails, V-notes, and Greeley's newspaper ; A little ungrammatic nasal slang; And straight my Sludge is something more than Sludge, A type of Yankee nationality ! And this is Satire.

Wise the artist, who, Missing a likeness to the noble face Of the great Emperor, painted his hat; A hat the like of which he never wore Save in such daubs. What odds! It did as well; The hat was recognized, the people ory Vive l'Empereur!

Ah, I know the tricks I) the trade, and use them to advantage : And when the play grows dull I laugh myself-Vide Hamlet, there's a barren quality Still left among my patrons ; if the wit Is thin, there's still the toothsome malice left,

A common poet, gazing from the tomb Of classic virtues unto the New World, Might see a soldier subjugating States, Great with the sword and greater with the pen.

I see my Sludge— A statesman more than brave, and ell the house; Serene while the rude storm shakes all the house Trusting the people, trusting more in God, And to the least of His poor little ones Giving the cup-e'en though the fount may fail. Sludge-Sludge, forever!

What I would, I know. There's nothing mean but ministers to use. The Gladiator stood with sword and shield, Advanced-fronting the lion-masterfulgnat smote in his eye-the man went down, The beast was victor. So my Sludge-my gnat-My gad-fly, haply may annoy and harm, And help to give a triumph to the beast, Or, show that I in my philosophy Questioning which is better-man or beast, Care nothing for the issue-break my jest And pass, well knowing that the beast will win.

Parisian Morality. THE LATEST SENSATION-LA THERESA AND HER

sones. In the Paris correspondence of the Pall Mall

Gozette wo road :

In the Paris correspondence of the Patt Matt Gazette we read: Another great subject of gossip in Paris just now is La Therees. New shops are designated "A la Thereesa," and her songs ploadraf the walls. Thereesa is a woman famous for singing "gaillard " songs in one of the low cafes charkmarks near the Bonlavard Beaumarchais-songs of the kind to which Colonel Newcome took such honorable of-jection. She is not pretty, but remarkable for that kind of impudence which, if it were innocent, might be called piquancy. Now there is a certain Duc de Gallera and his wife living in the Faubourg St. Germaine. His oreation as Duc is very modern, and he as well as his wife are Gencess by descent. But they receive and are received by the "upper ion thousand " of Paris, they are very wealthy, and their house is usually accounted pleasant. About a fortnight ago they gave a musical party. Some two hundred and fifty married people were invited, and about ten.young laddes. More than fifty were not requested to accompany their fathers and mothers, and were consequently disappointed and forfinded. But the ten who went were offended too. Imagine their dismay when the name of the nooffended. But the ten who went were offended too. Imsgine their dismay when the name of the no-torious Theress was buzzed about, and when she began to sing her oharacteristic songs with all the requisite memore and expression. M. Guizot, who was at the Duchess de Galiera's soirce, led his daughter away as soon as he understood the nature of the song ; but we do not hear of any who followed his example, and rince that evening it has become rather the fashion in certain "respectable" of lords to have this woman to sing. We could name a lady well known in London from her connection with journalistic literature, who only last Sunday gave a party to a select set of friends to hear La Theresa.

Soldiers' Families.

To the Editor of The Press : SIR: As I can only get the ear of the community through your valuable paper, please give room for other appeal. A soldier's wife, with two children, has not a A solder's whe, whe two children, has hot a bed to lie on, nor a single thing to throw over har at hight. We rented her a room, and paid for it; bough her coal, food, clothing, and all the furniture in her room, but have not the means to furnish her a bed. Will not some or many respond ' She is a nice, worthy.woman, and can do all kinds of plain sewing. Here is another family with three children is credit here.

Dr. Klapp sworn.—I believe the prisoner to be sane; my opportunities of judging have been ample. Oross-examined.—He never complained to me of a cut in his head. The case was now closed. The case was ably argued by the counsel on both sides Mr. Brewster made a very foroible argument, olaibing a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity. Bides. Mr. Brewster made a very foroible argument, claiming a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity. Mr. Mann, in the course of his argument, said in a short time we would have hundreds and thousands of soldiers and sailors at home. War did not im-prove the morals of men, and if at this time we per-mitted men to stalk abroad with revolvers in their pockets shooting down innocent people, we might hereafter expect to see men out of employment de-manding aims with pistols at our heads. There was no necessity in this loyal and pasceable city of Philadelphis for any man to carry arms, no matter how he was olcthed. He pressed for a conviction of insanity was a farce. This man had his faculties about him shortly before the murder to such an ex-tent as to claim a drink for which he had paid and not received. Judge Ludlow charged the jury, going over the evidence and the law bearing upon homicide cases. He size read to them the act of Assembly relating to cases of insanity. The charge of the judge was an able one, and delivered in a very impressive manner. The bil of indictment was handed to the jury at.

or supper. As an article of diet, they are said to be better than shad, as in the process of human digestion they impart more iron to the blood. Shad, however, is so universally esteemed as to become a necessary of life at the prices of lux-ury. Rockfish will always be a great favorite with the people, and it is a gratifying fact that already they have made their appearance in the Delaware and Schuylkill. Wherever there is a waterfail the angler may cast his line and meet with success. At Fairmount dam there has been some rare sport within the past week. Quite a number of this ever-welcome fish have been caught, and among them were two very remarkable in size. One weighed 35 pounds, and the other 15 pounds. It was interesting to see the veteran sportsmen bringing their fish in pafety to land. Much skill is required in accom-plishing such feats, and as the opening of the sea-son bids fair for some fine sport, the disciples of Sir Isaac will of course get their angles, reeks, lines and hocks in order to enable them to indulys in the sport of fishing. INCREASED RAILROAD ACCOMMODATION.

sport of fishing. INCREASED RAILROAD ACCOMMODATION. The readers of The Press are referred to an adver-tirement in another column. It will be seen that the Philadelphia, West Chester, and Media Rail-road Co. have adopted a new time table, to go into effect on and after April 17th. A fast line, leaving Philadelphia in the afternoon and returning at a Suitable hour in the morning, has been among the new features introduced. The latter line will make but few stops, and delivers passengers in West Chester in a little over one hour. There are several additional trains added to the schedule, which must be the means of a great accommolation to the hundreds who seek the delightful air of this locality for a summer residence. The Baltimore Oentral Railroad connects with this road, and it also will be benefitted by the change. THE CATHEDRAL,
