National Heart must feel for a'Martyr for her unity?

We say this unhesitatingly. ABRAHAM LINCOLN is, at the present moment, dying the death of a Martyr for that country to which he a second time, on the Fourth of last March, pledged his fealty. Unswerving in the path which his conscience told him was the right onesingularly honest and faithful to the fortunes and Unity of that country of which he had a second time become the sworp and highest servant-he has perished a true Martyr to our Unity.

In these circumstances what must be the deep and terrible suffering and rage which the entire nation will feel when they receive this intelligence ! Words are inadequate to express it. As we write our mouth is parched and our hands tremble. We scarcely know what words we place upon the paper before us.

Other Rulers have died under the redhanded assassination provoked by private ambition or personal hatred. Tyrants have been slaughtered by the dagger of the Patriot, whose brethren they had ground in the dust. Profligate Princes have perished under the steel of those whom their corruption had stung to the very core.

But here the case is different.

A good Man-a pure Ruler-one who had been called again to fill the Presidential chair of that People who were so thoroughly satisfied with his selfless and honest attempt to walk evenly in the path to which they had once before summoned him, has been slain, as it were, at the very threshold of his dwelling.

After almost certainly crushing out the Sin of Slavery in the War which had against his personal kindliness of heart been thrust upon him, he perished as Moses died, without setting his foot within the promised land to whose boundaries he had led his People. No private wrong or profligate sin had provoked the hand of the murderer. ABRAHAM LINCOLN has probably-can we not say he has certainly-been assassinated by a Southern hand. ABRAHAM LINCOLN has been assassinated because he did his duty unhesitatingly to that people who had embodied their Government twice in his person." It could not have been private malice which nerved the hand that was lifted against his life. ABRAHAM LINCOLN, and those associated with him in the Government, have dealt perhaps far too leniently with the traitors who have fallen into their hands. Had they been more bloody and unrelenting - had they crushed out those who stood in their path-we MIGHT POSSIBLY HAVE BEEN SPARED THE AFFLICTION WHICH THIS INTELLIGENCE MUST SPREAD THROUGH

OUT THE WHOLE NATION The frightful Martyrdom which has taken this man from the midst of our Nation-this man, whose integrity and faith in God's justice saved this Nation in its most fearful hour of struggle, occurred on at home. Still, it warns its readers to exinstantaneously. While they read it, their pect "that this Mexican question is about jaws dropped, and their eyes opened widely, while the ruddy health upon their cheeks, to loom up into vast proportions before long. the fruit of liberal ease, good living, and And unless France withdraws her proteccash profits, blanched perceptibly as they torate there is every appearance even now did so. Nonsensel There must be some of trouble, which may prove serious!" The War Office order officially gazetted error. So they read it a second time. It on Thursday, and published in THE PRESS was enough. They felt that the political yesterday, gives a very palpable indication surgeon had made up his mind to remove of Mr. LINCOLN's pacific policy. The parting of his family with the dying President is too sad for description

The President and Mrs. Lincoln did not start to the theatre till fifteen minutes after eight o'clock. Speaker Colfax was at the White House at the time, and the President stated to him that he was going, although Mrs. Lincoln had not been well, cause the papers had advertised that General Grant and they were to be present, and as Genera Grant had gone North he did not wish the audience o be disappointed. He went with apparent reuctance, and urged Mr. Collax to go with him, but that gentleman had made other engagements, and, with Mr. Ashmun, of Massachusetts, bid him good-
