BELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE. THE PRESENTERIAN CHURCH IN THE SOUTH.— Before the war all the Christian denominations had their branches extending over the whole cou their branches extending over the whole country and each member wrought in harmony. But po litical resulted in religious secession. Division o entiment on the subject of slavery occurred in every senomination, with the exception of those who had lways condemned it, and disciples of peace became opposing warriors or abetters of war. Among the divisions was that of the Old School Presbyterian Church. The Southern portion of the New School Ohurch had already withdrawn from their brethren at the North, and set up an establishment for themselves, before the war. The seceders from the Old School formed themselves into a new body, and afterwards united with the New School, under the title of the Presbyterian Church of the Confederate States. The church supported the rebellion with a good deal of spirit, and although there may have been no Bishop Polks in the communion, yet there were others who ranked higher as soldiers than as mem bers of the denomination. The effect of the war on this rebellious branch of the Presbyterian Church this rebellious branch of the Flosoperus the last Gen' may be judged by the facts presented at the last Gen' may he judged by the facts presented at the last Gen' may he judged by the facts presented at the last Gen' may he judged by the facts of the f thirty-seven ministers present; the Theological Seminary had but seven students against sixty-two Seminary had but seven students against sixty-two before the rebellion, and the endowment fund had gone almost entirely for the benefit of the rebellion. $107,533 went from the Seminary fund; $20,000 from the publication from the Seminary fund; $20,000 from the the domestic missionary fund—in all $181,890 in this unsafe and unprofitable risk. It is to be hoped that this lesson will teach the ill-doers a better understanding of the ways of Providence. A FINE SERMON.-The sermon of Rev. D. L. Gear, pastor of the First Congregational Chapel, on Sunday evening, April 23, has been issued in pamphlet, in compliance with the wish of some of his parishioners, who appreciated its exhaustive ability and genuine feeling. A New Church Building.—The Congregation-A New Church Building.—The Congregation-alist congregation, now worshipping at Concert Hall, have purchased a fine let on Eighteenth street, between Green and Mount Vernon, upon which they intend to erect a church edifice. The building will cover the entire let from Green to Mount Vernon, Ground has already been broken, and the founda-tion will be laid in a few days. THE NEW MOVEMENT FOR CHRISTIAN UNION.— We understand that it is the design of T. H. Stockton, pastor of the Church of the New Testament, at Eleventh and Wood streets, to pay some special attention to this new movement, in his sermon on Bible Creeds, on Sabbath afternoon, at 3½ o'clock. Oblistians of all denominations interested in this important subject are cordially invited to be present. The meetings at the Presbyterian and Baptist churches, last Monday and Tuesday nights, were domenstrative of an earnest desire, at least, for the promotion of this cause.

The Whereardours of the Sepulcher of Christ.—The interest which the Empress Engenishes manifested in the restoration of the sepulchre of the Saviour has awakened in many classes a fresh concern on the subject. In England Mr. Ferguson has lately been delivering, before the Royal Institution, a lecture in which he endeavors to show that the building in the sacred enclosure at Jerusalem, called by Europeans the Mosque of Omar, is the Church of the Resurrection built by Constantine over the rock which he believed to contain the sepulchre of Christ. This Mosque of Omar is styled by the Nussulmans the Dome of the Rock, and is affirmed by some to have been erected Omar is styled by the ituses misses the Dome of the Rock, and is stiftmed by some to have been erected by Omar over the site of the alter of the Jewish Temple. Mr. Ferguson, who is both logical and lucid, argues first from architectural grounds, and enforces his reasonings, by a description of the dilucid, argues first from architectural grounds, and enforces his reasonings by a description of the dimensions of the successive temples of the Jows. He affirms that the rock in the centre of the Mosque is outside theiremple area. But if this be true, the structure could not have been built by the Moslems. The only reason people assign for attributing the building of it to them, is that on that rock stood the Holy of Holles, or altar of the Jews. If it was not erected by the Moslems, however, it must have been by the Unristians; and if by the Unristians; then by Constantine, and must be the church reared over what he believed was the cave containing the body of Christ. The architecture of the building is of the age of Constantine. Neither he nor any other Christian ever built, in Jerusalem or anywhere else, a church floored with a rock containing a cave, but the one which Eusebius describes as having been built by Constantine. The letter of the Empress has had the effect of revivitying archeological researches, and of ascertain-The letter of the Empress has had the effect of rovivifying archeological researches, and of ascertaining the precise locality of the Saviour's sepulchre before attempts are made to restore it.

ITEMS IN MINIATURE.—Some one has prepared a table of comparative statistics, showing the present conditions and relations of the two bodies known as New and Old School Presbyterians in this country: The Old School breabyterians in this country: The Old School body has 2,285 ministers, 2,626 churches, 231,860 members, and contributed during the year 1864 $376,557 for benevolent purposes. The New School has 1,644 ministers, 1,442 churches, and 138,074 members. LINE OF COMPARABLY STATISTICS, SHOWING THE PROPERTY OF THE VICE AND A STATES AND A 1,442 Churches, and 188,074 members.

The General Assembly of the Old School Presbyterian Church will hold its next meeting in the First Church of Pittsburg, Pa., on Thursday, the 18th day of May.

Yesterday afternoon the Annual Commencement exercises of the Zane-street Boys' and Girls' Grammar Schools were held, in the School building. All the young ladies were elegantly dressed in their light summer dresses, which, with the colors in their cheeks, almost surpasses in beauty the love-linest and colors of the roses which were displayed in such profusion in their head-dresses, on their desks, and in every other available place. The room was tastfully draped. The friends of the young ladies, the members of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, of the Board of Control, and the School Directors, filled the room to its capacity.

The exercises were opened with prayer. Then followed the reading of the Scriptures by Mr. Bartine, principal of the boys'school. The school then joined in singing "Forevernore." Master Albert E. Abbett, one of the graduates, then recited "Our Defenders." This was followed by the school singing a "Dirge." Cyrus Horne, also a graduate, in a neat and manly address, presented to Mr. Bartine an elegant photographic picture of Abraham Lincoln, in a carved walnut frame. Mr. Bartine returned his thanks to the boys for their ming gift.

Colonel D. W. C. Moore was now introduced and spoke on the subject of education. He declaimed, in a very funny way, a comical address said to have been delivered before our Legislature on education by a member from the country. Colonel Moore kept the whole house in a roor of laughter, not only throughout the address, but for some minutes after he had finished his remarks. He drew from the comic address of the country member some good advice to the class to continue in their studies throughout life, and not imagine that their education was finished by their graduation.

Mr. John L. Young, president of the board of directors of the ninth section then delivered diplomes to the tolowing graduates:

Judge Ludlow told the wife that although she had married for money, she had assumed the duties of a wife, and unless she would have to support herself.

The wife now commenced crying, and thought it was awful hard to live with the old man's son and wife.

The old man attempted to say something to the wife, but she turned from him in disgust. He left the court-room and she followed him out.

A SAILOR AND HIS WIPE.

Mrs. W. H. Fogerty charged her husband, who is a sailor, with desertion. She testified that her husband shilsted four months ago, and left her $150, which she had expended in paying bills, rent, &c. A man, named John Thorston, had $400 of his money in his hands.

An afidavit was presented by Mr. Worrall, counsel for Thornton, setting forth that Fogerty left him a power of attorney to collect all money due him, and to discharge all obligations against him. The proceedings against Thornton were dismissed.

Mr. Thornton said that Fogerty was willing to support his wife and two children.

The court suggested that a power of attorney be left with the proper authorities of the Government so that the wife could obtain some of his pay.
