Abraham Lincoln, and what the English

Say of him.

(From the London Times, May II.)

There is no doubt that had the sovereign of any country with which we are on terms of anity perished by a fate so sudden, so terrible, and so numerited, a lively effect would have been produced on the public mind; but in the case of the American President there was something for England still more striking and affecting. Though in power and influence something more than a king, Mr. Lincoln had never ceased to be a citizen; he did not belong to the race of crowned heads who, intermarrying exclusively with each other, are said to form a nation apart—beling of every country and of none. Mr. Lincoln had risen, by his own exertions, through a course of honorable and smocessful industry, to the highest office his fellow-citizens had to bestow. There was a home-lines and simplicity about him, a quasint humor, a genial nature, and a sterling rectitude of character peculiarly calculated to conciliate to him the sympathy and regard of great masses of mankind. For the last four years his name has been constantly in our mouths; his every act, thought, and word has been the applicate. The rest of the rest of the subtact.

lines and simplicity about him, a quaint humor, a genial nature, and a sterling reculture of character pathy and regard of great masses of mankind. For the last four years his name has been constantly in our months; his every act, thought, and word has been the subject of criticism and comment. We have traced his motives, we have speculated on his intentions, till we really seemed to have established a sort of intimacy, and to have with him something like personal acquaintance. It has been a matter of curious speculation how such a man would acquit himself under circumstances always so difficult, and often so depressing and disheartening. At last fortune ascened to become weary of testing any further his patience and his constancy; the tremendous obstacles which had held him a tray for four years, gave way with almost theatrical sudcerness, and he found himself—what at one time seemed scarcely within the reach of probability—victorious in the final and conclusive condict of a great historical picture, and, as far as we can judge, was prepared to play a most noble part. He was animated by the spirit of conciliation, and the last, and perhaps the happiest day of his life, was appear and perhaps the happiest day of his life, was appear and rightful contest. Without an instant's notice, without the slightest apprehension or foresight of his fate, he was plunged by the puring of the toof of Rea & Riley's carpenter shop, back of five, about noon yesterday, was capent and ever eathlished.

SERIOUS CASUALTY.

Mr. D. C. What

There is in such a tale everything that can excite the tragic passions of pity and terror. In proportion as he was raised high above the rest of mankind, great as wes his power, supreme as was his success, was his fall terrible and sudden. He seemed, in the words of the Roman satirist, "only to have climbed to the top of a lofty tower in order that his fall might be the greater, more signal, and more awfal." But though raised to such a pre-eminence, Mr. Lincoln was still one of the people-feeling as they feel, thinking as they think, speaking as they speak, looking upon matters from their point of view, and ready at the expiration of his office to descend to and be lost again and their ranks, without leaving to his children or his family any title or reveard beyond the honor of his good name and the respect for his virtues. Abraham Lincoln.

POULLY ASSASSINATED, APRIL 14, 1865. You lay a wreath on murdered Lincoln's bler, You, who with mocking pencil wont to trace, Broad for the self complacent British eneer, His length of shambling limb, his furrowed face, His gaunt, gnarled hands, his unkempt, bristling hair, His garb uncouth, his bearing ill at ease, His is ck of all we prize as debonair, Of power or will to shine, of art to please. You, whose smart pen backed up the pencil's laugh, Judging each step, as though the way were plain; Reckless, so it could point its paragraph Of chief's perplexity, or people's pain. Beside this corpse, that bears for winding shee The stars and stripes he lived to rear anew, Between the mourners at his head and feet, Say, scurril jester, is there room for you?

Yes, he had lived to shame me from my sneer, To lame my pencil, and confute my pen— To make me own this hind of princes' per, This rall-splitter a true-born king of men. My shallow judgment I had learnt to rue,
Noting how to occasion's height he rose,
How his quaint wit made home truth seem true,
How, iron-like, his temper grew by blows. How humble, yet how hopeful he could be; How in good fortune and in ill the same; Nor bitter in success, nor boastful he, Thirsty for gold, nor feverish for fame. He went about his work—such work as few Ever had laid on head, and heart, and hand— As one who knows where there's a task to do; Man's honest will must Heaven's good grace com-

That he felt clear was Liberty's and Right's.
As in his peasant boyhood he had piled
His warfare with rude Nature's thwarting

The uncleared forest, the unbroken soil,
The fron bark that turns the lumberer's axe,
The rapid, that o'erbears the boatman's toll,
The prairie, hiding the mazed wanderer's tracks, The ambushed Indian, and the prowling bear— Such were the needs that helped his youth to train : Rough culture—but such trees large fruit may bear, If but their stocks be of right girth and grain. So he grew up, a destined work to do, And lived to do it: four long-suffering years' Ill-fate, ill-feeling, ill report, lived through, And then he heard the hisses change to cheers, The taunts to tribute, the abuse to praise,
And took both with the same unwavering mood;
Till, as he came on light, from darking days,
And seemed to touch the goal from where he stood. A felon had, between the goal and him, Reached from behind his back, a trigger prest— And those perplexed and patient eyes were dim, Those gaunt, long-laboring limbs were laid to rest!

The words of mercy were upon his lips, interpretable in his heart and on his pen, when this vile murderer brought swite college To thoughts of peace on earth, good-will to men. HOME FOR INVALID SOLDIERS.

The inauguration of the United States Pennsylvania Home for our Invalid Soldiers and Sailors took place last evening in the Academy of Music. Ex-Governor Pollock occupied the chair. The exercises were opened with the singing of a hymn. Rev. Dr. Newton then offered a devout prayer. Mr. Pollock then delivered an introductory address in which he stated that it was the intention of the originators of the enterprise to Secure two homes; one in the vicinity of this city, and the other nearer the interior of the State, to have a shool and farm attached to each home, where the physical, intellectual, and moral condition of the soldier could be improved. Formaratively, quite dull for the season.

The stated monthly meeting for May was held on Monday evening.

President Weish occupied the chair. But little business came before the meeting.

It being understood that Postmaster Walborn had under consideration certain improvements upon present post-office and postal arrangements, upon which he proposed to ask the judgment of the representatives of trade and business, the Secretary was directed to signify to Mr. W. that the rooms of the Board should be placed at his disposal, at his convenience, and a meeting called at a correspondconvenience, and a meeting called at a correspond ing time.
On motion of Mr. Marshall, the Chair was requested to name a delegation of ten gentlemen to represent Philadelphia in the proposed convention of mercantile associations at Detroit, in July next. At the suggestion of Mr. Biddle, an expression of the desire of the Board was incorporated in the resolution that the Corn Exchange and the railroad interest and management should be particularly recognized in the selection to be made.

The Board then adjourned.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY. HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The monthly display before the Horticultural Society was quite large last evening. John Ellis, gardener, exhibited a bunch of black Hamburg grapes, weighing three pounds. They were raised at the Fox Meadow Gardens, above New York. A collection of new Alpine ever-bearing strawberries, called the triumph of Holland, were exhibited by P. Mackenzie & Son.

Some splendid specimens of Victoria and seedling rhubarb were exhibited by Charles Harmer.

There were also two beautiful table designs: one from D. Robertson, gardener to Matthew Baird; the other from Donald McQueen, gardener to Joshua Longstreth. the other from Donaid McQueen, gardener to Joshus Longstreth.

There was a greater variety of new native indigenous ficwering plants, or wild wood flowers, than ever before. These were from Thomas Mechan, editor of the Gardeners' Monthly, and by Waiter Bailey, gardener to D. Rodney King, president of the society.

BIGAMY.

Adam Hoffman was arraigned yesterday, at the Central Station, on the charge of bigamy. It seems, from the evidence, that he was married at Rechester, N. Y., and deserted his wife. He came to this city, and recently married another woman, the keeper of a lager-beer saloon in the upper part of the city. He sent a letter to his first wife stating that he had married again, and she was at liberty to get another husband. It was from this letter that she ascertained where he was. She arrived in this city a day or two since, and yesterday he was arraigned, as above stated. The legal evidence was produced in regard to the marriage. The accused was required to enter ball in the sum of $1,000 to answer at court.

HOUSE ROBBERY.

John Wayne, alias William Fisher, alias William John Wayne, alias William Fisher, alias William Reddy, was arraigned yesterday on the charge of robbing the house of Julius Cregar, on Lindsay avenue, near South and Twelfth streets, on the 2d of May. The sum of $500 in United States Treasury notes was stolen. The family were absent at the time, the house being left unguarded. The defendant and several others were seen lottering around the neighborhood, closely scrutinizing the house. None of the money was recovered. The acoused was committed in default of $5,000 bail to answer, The prisoner was before Mr. Alderman Clouds, a short time since, and was then bound over to answer the charce of robbery.

short time since, and was then bound over to answer the charge of robbery.

Edward Hastings was arrested yesterday by Messrs. Taggert and Smith, of the detective force, on the charge of being implicated in the recent robbery of the shoe store of Mr. Robert Selfridge, on South Twelfth street. The defendant keeps what is known as a "gin mill," at 130 Vine street. The store of Mr. Selfridge was broken open in the night time, a week or two since, and robbed of four hundred collars worth of boots. The officers recovered two boots at Hastings' place, but he denied all knowledge of any robbery. He said that he had purchased the boots for his own use, but from whom he did not know. The officer discovered them to be odd boots, a fact that could not be readily explained by defendant. He was therefore taken into custody. Mr. Selfridge identified the boots as his property. The defendant was committed in default of $5,000 ball to answer at court.

FINANCIAL. UNITED STATES 7-30 LOAN.

$230.000.000. By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, th undersigned, the General Subscription Agent for the sale of United States Securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and bree-tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the SEVEN-THIRTY LOAN. These Notes are issued under date of July 15, 1865, and are payable three years from that date in our-

THIRD SERIES.

rency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into U. S. 5-20 SIX PER CENT. GOLD-BEARING BONDS. There Bonds are now worth a handsome premiur and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, rom State, County, and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent. more to their value, secording to the rate levied upon other property. The interest is payable semi-suppually by conpone attached o each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank er banker. The interest at 7 30 per cent. amounts to One cent per day on a $50 note. Two cents per day on a $100 nots. Ten cents per day on a $500 note. Twenty cents per day on a $1,000 note. One Dollar per day on a $5,000 note. Notes of all the denominations named will he promptly furnished upon reseipt of subscriptions. event that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent. instead of terest in currency up to July 15th, at the time when they subscribe.

The delivery of the notes of this Third Series of the Seven-Thirties will commence on the lat of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date, The slight change made in the conditions of this THIRD SERIES affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which the return to specie payments, in the event of which the delivery family should own and preserve as a memorial of the time, for themselves; and that their children, when we are gone, may read the thoughts of men who lived in the time of the Great Rebellion.

The book is beautifully printed on fine tinted paper, and nearly bound for preservation. Price $2. Sent by mall or receive of price. The return to specie payments, in the event of Which only will the option to pay interest in gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices as that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three-tenths per ent, in currency. This is

THE ONLY LOAN IN MARKET now offered by the Government, and its superior ad-GREAT POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE. Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by Congress are now in the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within sixty days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has unlformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the Loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to re-ceive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.
