MONDAY, MAY 22, 1865. An English Legal "Clown." We extract the following from the Parliamentar reports of our English cousins as another evidence of the fact that in their very frequent disparaging Omments upon our public manners, they are most singularly blind to their own occasional lapses from public decorum. Upon Tuesday, Mr. Rea, a lawyer who has previously made himself remarkable before the Committee in the House of Commons on the Antrim county and Beliast borough bill, thus perfermed the part of a pantomimic clown to the great splowment of the argentiers. enjoyment of the spectators:
The committee had declared the preamble of the ll passed. Mr. Res demanded to be heard before the decision The chairman (Mr. Talbot) told him he could not be heard.
Mr. Rea.—Then it is illegally passed, and if you were not in the chair, I should say it was corruptly passed. The chairman said he might appeal to the House The claimons.
Mr. Rea.—I will appeal to the House of Commons, and the law of England as well.
The Chairman.—I shall order you out of the room.
Mr. Rea.—That may be, but I shall not leave.
The Chairman (indignantly).—Leave the room, Isay.
Mr. Rea —I shall not. I am not going to be a party to the plundering between counsel and agents in these cases.
The chairman ordered the room to be cleared.
The public appeared exceedingly loth to leave Mr. Rea behind. Mr. Res said he only required a formal assault by ergeant-at-arms. e Chairman.—You must withdraw. r. Rea.—I will not. With the greatest possible re spect, I will not.

A messager was despatched for the police.
In the meantime the Chairman reminded Mr.
Kea that he was damaging his own case. If you will take my advice, he added, "you will quickly leave the room; if you won't, you must take the con-The police entered—three of them.
The Chairman.—We wish you to remove that centleman from the room, and not to let him come The police proceeded to execute their order, an ficer at each side of the refractory individual, layomeer at each sade of the retractory individual, isying a hand on his shoulder.

This did not prevent Rea crying out that he had at his back four and a half millions of Oatholics in his native country, and that it was only a question of time who would win the day.

By this time the trio had reached the corridor, and the efficers released him, Mr. Rea bursiing into a loud laugh. THE GETTYSBURG NATIONAL ORMETERY.-The Cemetery, in that town, on the 4th of July, says forwarded sufficiently to allow the ceremony at that ime. Every effort, however, is made to complete the necessary preparator; labors, and a week or two will determine all doubts. A meeting in Gettysburg has been called for next. J. C. Johlson, one of the wesittlest meni South, died on the 12th instant, at his home, near Edenton, it North Carolina. He disinherited all his relatives because they left him and identified themselves with the rebel cause. His property, amounting to many millions of dollars, be let to a few personal friends. His immense possessions on the Roanoke river comprise the richest lands in the country. At the outbreak of the rebellion he told his slaves, numbering nearly a thousand, that the war would make them free, and that they could romain with him or go where they pleased. He was a personal friend of Henry Clay, whose indebtedness, which amounted to over thirty theusand dollars, Mr. Johnson is said to have cancelled, without Mr. Clay's knowledge, who was never able to ascertain who his benefactor was. He was about eighty years of age when he died, and was a devoted Union man up to the hour of his death.—Correspondence of the New York Herald. THE CITY. Ext. MURDEROUS ASSAULT.
Yesterdey morning, between 11 and 12 o'clock, William Furman, who resides in Seventh street, near Fitzwater, was shot, while in Patrick Ragan's tavern, in Seventh street above Shippen, by Edward Warrenton. He was also struck on the right side of the head with a billy by James Marshall. Warrenton and Misrehall gave themselves up to the police. From what we could learn relative to this matter, it seems that Furman Gharges Warrenton on with improper intimacy with his (Furman's) wife. It is also stated that Furman shot Warrenton on two previous occasions, and that yesterday's work was an attempted closing of the old grudge. Furman was shot through the right temporal bone. The ball was extracted at the Pennsylvania Hospital. After its romoval, Furman, contrary to the advice of the physician, left the hospital. tional right as exercised under the act of 1772. The question of possossien involves so much of the free-hold, which if it of right belongs to the tenant, is for the time paramount to that of the owner of the fee, and if he could not be dispossessed before the passage of the act of 1863, without a trial by jury, under the Constitution, it would not be competent, I take it, for the Legislature to provide a mode for dispossessing him first without such trial to determine the facts necessary to be established under the act of 1772. THE SIX-HUNDRED-POUNDERS.
The two 600-pounders prought from Charleston to Philadelphia, and presented to the city, have been placed on the upper flag of the great atone steps in the rear of the main entrance to Independence Hall.
They are huge spherical boits of fron, flat at the extremities, about fifteen inches in diameter and two feet in length. The weight of the massive mittelles is nearly one-third of a ton. They were carried into South Carolina through the blockade. THE SIX-HUNDRED POUNDERS. IRON-CLADS TO LIE AT THIS CITY. FOUND DROWNED. David Graffin, a storekeeper, testified that the accused purchased nine bags of fertilizer from him and gave the note. Some doubts were expressed as to the genuineness of the note, when Petty said it it was not right he would make it so. The note was taken to a bank and pronounced a counterfeit. The accused being called upon, two weeks afterwards, denied having given the note, saying he gave a sixper cent interest note.

The defendant had dealt frequently with the prosecutor for years, and never passed any counterfeit money before. DOG CATCHERS.

Thomas J. Wolfe asked to be discharged from a charge of false pretence.

P. J. Hall testified that on the 24th of April he sold to Wolfe a bill of goods amounting to $1,100. At the time he said that he had $10,000 in his business, which was entirely unincumbered. On the 27th he sold him another bill on five days. At the expiration of the five days he said he purchased the goods on ten days, and would not pay then. On the 7th of May witness heard that Wolfe was in trouble, and, on calling upon him, he said he gave a judgment to Geo. A. Walker in August last for $10,000. Turner, the actor, who has been in prison some weeks on the charge of a breach of the peace in exhibiting a likenoss of the demon Booth, and protesting he was a gentleman, was admitted to ball. Jas. H. By the act of 1772, a person who had demised premises for a term of one or more years, or at will, and who desired to regain possession of such demised premises at the expiration of the term, and who had compiled with the requirements of the act in relation to notice, could institute proceedings before two justices to eject the tensant. Upon a proper compliant being made, the justices were required to same their warrant to the sheriff, requiring alm to summon twelve substantial freeholders, and also to summon the person in possession to appear before the justices and freeholders, and show cause, if any he has, why restitution of such demised premises should not be made to the lessor. Cause may be shown against the claim of the landlord to have again and repossess the premises; and the tensat may try before the justices and freeholders and the tensat may try before the justices and freeholders every fact which is necessary to be proved by the lessor, to entitle him to a finding in his favor, and the judgment thereon is declared to be final and conclusive to the parties.

The act of 1863 gives to a single justice the determination of the questions required by the act of 1772 to be passed on by two justices and twelve freeholders, and upon a finding against the tenant, to forthwith issue a writ of possession by which he is ejected and the premises delivered to the kadlord, with a right of appeal and ultimate trial by jury in court.

ARREST OF BANK ROBBERS.

James W. Commings, alias George White, alias George Wilson, alias James Whitney, was arrested on Saturday morning, by Detectives Joshua Taggart and George H. Smith, on the charge of being implicated in the heavy robbery at the Walpole Bank, New Hampshire. This is an important arrest of one of the most daring and successful bank robbers that ever operated in this or any other country. Ten thousand dollars worth of stolen bonds were recovered by the officers. The following narrative of the events connected with the career of the defendant will prove interesting:

On the 18th of last November the Walpole Bank, lecated at Walpole, New Hampshire, was feloniously entered, and $50,000 worth of United States bonds stolen therefrom.

As soon as the robbery was discovered, Mr. A. H. Beliows, of Walpole, hastened to New York City, and reported the fact of the robbery to Inspector Carpenter and Chief Young, of the Detective Department.

Detectives Kelso and Golden were delegated especially to work the problem, and on Tuesday last they took into custody at Saratoga. New York Mar ABREST OF BANK ROBBERS. ANNUAL CONFERENCE OF THE A. M. E.
