E. WALBAVEN, hundred and third meeting of this society will be held in the Presbyterian Church, Ray, Mr. Rice, stor. Lembard and Twelfth streets, to morrow of inions of the religious pass.

Action of Virginia Baytists.—A convention of Baytists, laisily meeting in Richmond, passed a series of resolutions disiellowatiping their Northern brothern, and calling on the churches of the Juth brothern, and calling on the churches of the Juth to the no dealings which the ministers seaksons yithem by the American Baytist Hought order of Scoiety. Because this society has, worship acanthe Government, occupied houses, worship acanthe Government, occupied houses, worship acanthe Baytist are out in 1730 usurpation. They charge ty with "pre-ensignatives with "striving to create the seciety and dismonto between classes reading in the Southern States, and especially between the colored people and those who have so long and so fatthfully is boored in their behalf," but adduce not one single fact in proof of the assertion. But the most extraof thary feature in these resolutions is the call which they make on the Suthern churches to "continue to prosecute the work of negro instruction, in which they have been so many years successfully engaged." And yet they nave given the negroes only ord instruction. They have not taught them to read the Bible. They have not taught them to read the Bible. They have not cauged among them a universal system of communings. They have merely given them such an education as would put into them the greatest value as the preparty of their masters. We foreward the Virginia Baptists that their resistance to the new order of things is impotent, a kicking against the pricke, and the lujury to themselves is greater than to those whom they assent. They will find themselves becaused like stranded whales, the element to drift their old liceas of negro calcuation. As will find themselves becaused a returnites distance, My Independent. the Boston Piloi asks, and answers, saying—No. It contends that those who have been trying to infect the public mind with the idea that the Catholic Catholic Sixtors of Meroy; that upon every oattiefield the Roman Catholic chaplaines of the army have been seen pursuitg their sacred calling among the dying and the dead, while still the cannon reared and the shells shricked above them on their errand of death; that Roman Catholic soldiers from the North, the South, the East, and the West, have been fighting in the front of war for the Union, white those hypocritical woives of enarchy, that Recess of evenguical sheep, sale safety at their deaks inditing their venomous balderdarh, to wilme and pevert the public mind; and that the Roman Catholic Church numbers among its most devout adherents in America generals who have carned a fame for patriotism, single-heartecness and gallantry which will lest as long as the memory of this great struggle for the liberties of the nation."

Advice to Christians Seeking Summer Pleasure.— This is the season when large numbers of persons soek change and recreation by guing abroad, and this is well. The body and the mind need occasional unbending. In seeking this change many resort to the public dashionable gathering-places. And there can be no harm in this in itself. Saxan has no more right to a monopoly of healthful and desirable places than he hasef enything class. But that there is danger in such places no one can doubt. The whole atmosphere feeding peryoach with a spirit of lightness, as if all were seeking entertainment and amusement, and so in its proper limits it should be. But the Christian should be specially guarded that he do not allow himself to be led into practices or associations tending to bring reproach upon the Christian name, or to originate or foster haults that would be against grace. Abroad as well as at home true Christians well-being of a man at home, ought to be negleoted or set aside when he is away from home; and in no ordinary case is any one at liberty to feel that a thing is any less wrong away from home;
and in no ordinary case is any one at liberty to feel that a thing is any less wrong a that a thing is any less wrong away from home than it would be at home.

In view of the importance of having professing Christians maintain the true character of the Christian in public piaces as well as in private, we sustain the following suggestions:

Never go to any piace where you cannot take the Saviour with you, and openly and consistently live the religion he enjoins.

Never feel that the reading of the Scriptures and secret prayer, and, it possible, sociat or family prayer, can be dispensed with abroad and among strangers any more than they can be at home.

Never be ashamed to have it known that you are a Christian. Never fail to make it a matter of prayer that in selecting the place to which you will go God will guide you to one where good may be done as well as received. There are churches in Northern New York now that grew out of the summer jaunts of good men from New York, Philadelphia, and other places, who, while they sought bodily recreation, simed also at good. Bright crowns will yet rest on the brows of those that were faithful wherever they went.—Philadelphia Christian Instructor, to-day. The Popedom.—On the 13th of May the Pope kept his seventy-third birthday, and on the 16th of June he completed the nineteenth year of his pontificate. Of the two hundred and hity-nine Popes who have followed St. Peter, there are only eight who have reigned longer than the present Pontiff. St. Syl-

A RAPID TALKER.

Mrs. James Mills claimed support from her husband. The lady made two or three attempts to tell her story, but the talked with such lightning speed that she could not be understood. She was fundiffered that she could not be understood. She was fundiffered that she could not be understood. She was fundiffered that she could not be understood. She was fundiffered that she could not be understood. She was fundiffered that she could not be understood and we can the following from nor slow style: 'During two years my inchand hap-given me five dollars a week. I am not a bad woman in no way or no how, but his sisters caused the trouble. He has given me twelve cells from January 1st to the 20th of March.'

The sister of Mr. Mills testified that her brother had been suffering from a hemorrhaye of the lungs for himsel? and wife. She came there and remained six weeks, during which time she cook out portions of the turninge, and finally took it all away to the with the whitness because the wife took the meat intended for his meal and dragged it about the yard, after which she rubbed it ver a dog and then cooked it for him. Some of the women in the neighborhood helped the wide to detail.

Judge Allison said if this husband made reasonae ble provisions for his wife she was bound to liv with him. It was a mistaken then in a great many wives that they should be the judge of what kind of a home her husband thould furnish her with. This wife had no right to abandon the home provided for her and go plant herself somewhere cles. It was the duty of the husband, however, to provide a mainterance for the wife said children. No provision could be allowed by the Court for house rent. When he will be the onlideren.
