The new stock of the Atlantic Telegraph Company sells in London at a premium, and old one-thousand-pound shares at £560. On the 21st of June the shareholders in the Telegraph Construction Company visited the Great Eastern by invitation from the directors of the Atlantic Company, and on the fol lowing day Mr. Adams, the American Minister. Mr. Adams, in returning thanks, said that during the recent troubles he was selfish enough to wish the cable might not be laid, as he would have been overwhelmed with telegrams: but now he wished it every success, as he be lieved it would do more than any other agency to strengthen the bonds of union between the two countries. The interests and object o Great Britain had all along been to maintain peace; and now that the contest which had distracted the United States had been put an end to, the sole object they had in view was peace also. No more visitors were to be admitted on board of the Great Eastern before she sailed. The present condition of the cable was all that could be desired, and those most inte-rested in it seemed to be perfectly confident of its complete success. GREAT BRITAIN.

The English papers are unusually silent on American affairs. The whole twenty-three hundred miles of the Atlantic telegraph cable was on board the Freat Eastern, and as soon as the balance of the paying-out machinery was put up, the te-legraph fleet would sail for Valentia, and it was hoped before their departure from Valenia, that a United States Government steamer would join them. The vessels will probably leave Valentia on the 10th of July, and arrive at Heart's Content, Trinity Bay, about the 24th of July.
