From Ashmead & Evans we have "Classical and scientific Studies, and the Great Schools of England "-a lecture read before the Society of Arts of the Massachusetts Institute of Tech-nology, April 6, 1865, by W. P. Atkinson. In print it has been much enlarged, and an ap-pendix is given. The writer has seized upon the leading defects of the Public Schools in England, wherein many educational abuses exist, chief among which is the neglect of English, and the over-cultivation of Classical stu-dies; but he errs very considerably in undervaluing the advantage of having these studies perfected at an university. Macaulay and Peel, Bulwer and Tennyson, Gladstone and Derby, Falmerston and Westbury, all won honors at Oxford or Cambridge before they entered public life, and so did most of the lead-ing statesmen, lawyers, divines, and men of science of whom, past or present, England has been proud, or is. (Published by Sever & Francis, Boston.)

Carlton & Porter, New York, send us, through Perkenpine & Higgin, of this city, a batch of their Children's neat and good books. These are "Lives made Sublime, or Sketches of Christian Men who adorned their Lives with Good Works," with six illustrations; "Edith Vernon's Life-work," an English tale, with five engravings; and "Robin Ranger's Picture Books," for smaller children, with ninety-three wood cuts. These books may be advantageously put into the hands of young folks.

From J. B. Lippincott & Co. we have received the "Valedictory Address delivered before the Graduating Class of the Philadelphia Den-tal College, Session 1864-5, by J. H. McQuillen, M. D., D. D. S., Professor of Anatomy, Physiology, and Hygiene, March 1, 1805." It was list-ened to, when delivered at Concert Hall, with great satisfaction—even by the large audience which was non-professional—and has been pub-lished, with a view to distribution, by the class which graduated on that occasion. Its sound advice, personal as well as professional, will recommend it to students in general, and its tone is eminently patriotic. The August number of the Denial Cosmos appears with a partial change of editorship. A month ago, in a brief but neat valedictory, Dr. J. D. White announced his retirement, leaving Dr. J. H. McQuillen and Dr. George J. Ziegler, who had long been his associates, as his successors. Dr. Ziegler will continue to supply the "Periscope of Medical and General Science in their Relations to Dentistry"-the monthly result of extensive and thoughtful reading, which has long been an attractive feature of this periodical. The more strictly original department will be in the hands of Dr. McQuillen, whose Salutatory is written in a truly catholic spirit, which, we believe, will make many able professional writers hasten to give him assistance by their contributions. The present number has a great deal of variety and merit in its original and selected letter-

Blackwood's Edinburg Magazine for July. The New York reprint has reached us through Mr. W. B. Zieber, south Third street. Two or three of the articles are heavy enough, their subjects being the Rate of Interest, Mr. Gladstone at Chester, and the Past and Coming Parlia-ments; but the remainder of the number is very readable. There is a critical review of Carlyle's singular Life of Frederick the Great. Cornelius O'Dowd, whoever he may be, discourses keenly on Mee and Women, and things in general; and three serials are run. ning through Maga, neck and neck, all at once. These are "Miss Majoribanks," by Mrs. Oli-phant; "Sir Brooke Fosbrooke," attributed to Lever; and "Piccadilly," a spirited novel of London society.

The July number of Hunt's Merchants' Maga-zine, edited and published by William B. Dana, New York, opens with a history of all the at-tempts to lay a telegraph line from Europe to America. It goes largely into detail, and, we observe, has been largely drawn upon, without seknowledgment by one or two daily ionrulas acknowledgment, by one or two daily journals

From W. B. Zieber, South Third street, we have the July number of the New York Social Review, a quarterly journal of political economy, and statistics; and, we are clear to confess, not very light reading in the hot days of Aunot very light reading in the hot days of Au-gust. The articles are generally much too long. From one of them, on the custom-house system, we learn that in the last six years, (1860 to 1865, both inclusive.) the total receipts of United States customs were $150,301,827; and the total expenditures to collect this amount, $42,077,861; but that of the cost of the various buildings erected at public expense for cus-tons' purposes, and the further outbay for fitt-ing out, repairing, manning, and officering revenue cutters and blockaders, be consid-ered, as it ought, the whole custom-house sysered, as it ought, the whole custom-house sys-tem costs the Government over fourteen per cent. on the income derived from the same. It ought not to cost one-third of that percentage. What it also costs the people is pro-mised in a future article. This Review, after having dealt with the cost of our external rovenue system, would do much public good by giving details of the cost of collecting the in-
