- Englishmen have a mania for ascending the jey mountains of the Alus. They seem to the log mountains of the Alps. They seem to seek a foolish death among the avalanches and in abysses, and three tourists have just been gratified in that particular. They and their guides tied themselves together to de-scend a difficult part of the Matterhorn; one slipped and pulled two others after him, the guides managing to resist the strain. The three unfortunates bumped from rock to rock lown some four thousand feet, and were lashed to pieces. - A wealthy old man just deceased in Paris left 100.000 francs to a young man who politely gave up his seat to him one night at the crowded opera

-Abd-el-Kadir's two Circassian wives are. it is said, very beautiful. One of them is dark, and the other fair; the eldest of them is but 14, and they cost $3,200. — During a performance an actress at a Paris theatre took laudanum because another ac-tress received more applause. The play stovved.

-Great preparations were making at Biar-ritz for the intended visit of the Queen of Spain, cowardice. With such feelings he never can enter the Union. His remaining out of it is, as I have said, is his own loss. The Government can bear it at least as long as the rebel. The day for urging men to accept its generous offers is past. It is time to cease conciliating the offending section. Let that section now begin to conciliate the power it has disregarded and defied. And the truest proof of its sincerity will be found in the readiest and most graceful submission to the national authority. OCCASIONAL. WASHINGTON.
