Director and General Manager Military Railauv-mwiist roads, United States, ning a daring burglary was committed by some person, at present unknown, on the premises, No. 614 Girard avenue, occupied by Mr. Bernard Kohler. The thief effected an arressed. The lary sensers to Moyamensing for eighteen months.

Hichard Ditte attes Thornton, and John Casey were charged with highway robbery. The complainant, Justice K. Dull, a resident of West Philadelphia, testified that he had reached the vicinity of Lancaster pike and Fortieth street on his way home, on last Wednesday night at about eleven o'clock; he saw a party of five men, one a little in advance of the others. Upon approaching them this foremost man whom he positively identified as Ditle, sprang upon him, threw his arms around his neck, and throttled him until he fell to the ground. The whole party then joined in the attack, beating him with "billys," &c., and ended by stealing his watch and chain, worth $125, and his money. Mr. Dull said that he groaned and struggled considerably, and that his assailants told him that if he did not keep quiet they would kill him. One of them, in fact suggested, that he (Dull) should be given a "silencer." The rascals were, however, disturbed by Sergeant Lister, of the West Philadelphia police, who happened to be in the vicinity, and was attracted by the groans of the victim. He advanced in that direction, and being perceived by the defendants and their comrades, they ran away, pursued by the officer. After a sharp chase, he captured Casey, when he ran into a house in Thirty-ninth street, so much out of breath that he could scarcely speak. Casey admitted to Lister that he was with the robbers, but denied having anything to do with the robbery. Ditte was soon after captured, lying among some weeds in a vacant lot not far off, by Officer Dale. Upon his capture, he remarked to the officer, that he "would not find any watch upon him." There was no defence, and the jury rendered a verdict of guilty.

Judge Ludlow immediately imposed sentence, and, in doing so, referred to the fact that if the defendants had been indicted under the 100th section of the Penal Code as they might have been, instead of the load section, of the Penal Code the punishment was limited to five year entrance through the trap-door in the roof, which he reached through the adjoining WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 16, 1865. THE ROBBERY AT EVANS AND HASSALL'S—RECOVERY OF THE GOODS.

Some time on Saturday night, the military furnishing store of Evans & Hassall, on Arch street, below Fifth, was entered and robbed of a large amount of goods. The attention of the detectives was at once called to the matter. Two or three persons, who had been seen loitering about one of our hotels, apparoutly without any purpose, were suspected, and a "shadow" was detailed to watch their movements. He ingratiated himself with the parties, and soon discovered that they were of a class entirely familiar with the slang used by thieves. Finally one of the suspected parties invited the "shadow" into his room. There he discovered a number of burglary tools. He then invited his quandom friend out for a walk, and seizing a favorable opportunity, he delivered him into the custody of the law. Then he returned to the hotel, and in the same way captured the other thieves. The goods, with the exception of a sword, were discovered at the house of a prostitute, in Ninth street, above Callowhill, where they had been deposited for safe-keeping until the storm should blow over. The sword, a magnificent article, and worth nearly $1,500, which had been exhibited at the Sanitary Fair, and the grip of which was elaborately set with diamonds, was found buried in the grave-yard close to the spot where the mortal remains of the illustrious Franklin rest. It was not found among the property recovered on Ninth street, and a search was instituted. In the burying ground it was noticed that the earth had been recently disturbed, and, on digging, the missing weapon was found. mond Cottage.

Mr. Fox said that this was the second time the Democracy had honored him with the nomination for the mayoralty, and for this mark of their preference for him he returned his heartfelt thanks. The war through which we have passed, and from which, under the Providence of God and the instrumentality of brave men, we have safely energed, has been followed by a fearful spirit of demoralization manifesting itself here, as well as in other parts of the country, in continued acts of violence and wrong doing—our newspapers are filled with recitals of brutal crimes and all grades of wickedness—and so necessary has it become to check this evil drift, that his Honor Judge Ludlow, at the opening of the present term of the Court of Quarter Sessions, made it a subject of special charge to the Grand Jury, and of exhortation to those whose duty it is to see to the peace of the city and the protection of its inhabitants, to exercise the greatest degree of activity and vigilance in the suppression of crime. There is, said he, upon us a grant city debt, amounting to almost forty millions of dollars, nearly seventy dollars for every man, woman, and child now living in the city of Philadclphia. CASE OF WILLIAM HOPKINS.

Whenkins, up cenes of jollity and mirth, Both are reported severely injured; in fact, Moore's wounds are considered mortal. The man who inflicted the wound is known. The case of William Hopkins, under sentence of death for the murder of Andrew McMarity, came up yesterday before the Supreme Court for review on writ of error. The first assignment of error is that the court below erred in admitting evidence to show "that fifteen minutes before the killing of Andrew McMarity, the prisoner threatened he would kill somebody on board the vessel before twenty-four hours, and that he, the defendant, was malignant in his conduct and character at the time."

This item of evidence was objected to by defendant's counsel, "because the said threats were general and vague, and did not refer to the deceased, and were not res gesta or pertinent to the issue." The objection was overruled.

The "Scuryin' is suitable for light towing purposes, Marshal E. D. of Pennsylvania, August 8th, 1865. Fire Marshal Biackourn testheet that he had a conversation with the prisoner, who told contradictory stories as to his knowledge of the house he had taken the child to.

The prisoner had little or nothing to say; he attempted to assume an air of injured hinocence—that he meant no harm, &c. He had been at that house before, but nearly a year since.

The Alderman asked the prisoner if he had any explanations to make. He replied rather aguely. He said that he had merely gone to that house in search of a girl who used to tive at Bristol; the woman drove him away."

"There, that is enough," interrupted the magistrate; "it is a great pity there is not some strong man, to lash such beings as you through the world; there ought to be a whipping-post for such men as you; you—a father of little child like this away from its home, for base purposes! Why, the very woman who turned you away from that house is a queen of morality; she is an angel of Christianity, compared with such a mean, black-hearted, degraved being, as you are.
