BEDFORD, PA., Aug. 19, 1855. The members of the Union State Central Committee, appointed by the recent Convention at Harrisburg, are requested to meet at No. 1105 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, on THURSDAY, the Sist day of August, 1865, at ten o'clock A. JOHN CESSNA, Chairman Union State Central Committee THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVEN-

GRIEF AND RAGE AT THE OVERTHROW OF

THE REBELLION-VAUX ON THE RAMPAGE THE COPPERHEAD PLATFORM AND THE SOLDIER WHO STANDS UPON IT. As we read the proceedings of the socalled Democratic State Convention, and wonder at the pervading and controlling virulence of the speeches and resolutions, the most curious spectacle is to see the figure of a soldier crowning the angry pyramid. Very characteristic is the opening speech of Mr. RICHARD VAUX, the permanent President. A stranger hearing or perusing it, would suppose that Mr. VAUX had been the victim of some grievous tyranny; that he had been thrown by mistake into prison; had lost his property, and especially his "rights," and thus outraged, insulted, and stripped, he had taken the first opportunity vigorously to vindicate himself. No such person would, for a moment, suppose that the man making this passionate and disjointed harangue, was one of the silkiest and safest of the wellprotected people of Philadelphia; that in the years of blood and death, in the midst of a war which he neither sought to avert. nor to close by aiding the Government against the rebellion, he was the best specimen of wealthy ease, security, and calm indifference. If a ragged and hungry Confederate, full of a glorious and charac-ings. Was there ever such a compound of impudence and nonsense as this? "During the last four years of war and op-pression, when the pressure of executive power was used to destroy the Democratic party—when to be a Democrat was something more than at any period in our past history, the Democracy met the enemy upon the great principles of the Constitution, and defied the party in power." [Cheers.]

The "war and oppression" so hard upon the rebels was of their own making, but was only felt by VAUX at a distance. It will amuse the Democrats who have used to destroy the Democratic party." Richard evidently meant not "the Democratic party," but the rebellion: an excusable blunder, inasmuch as many of his belief have regarded the two as very near relations. It is true enough, as he says, that to be such a Democrat "was something more than at any period in our past history,' with a rebellion got up by the most shamethe Democrats always helped rebellions against slavery; but the Democrats of the Vauxonia school were body and soul committed to a rebellion in favor of slaver. We agree with RICHARD that this "was something more than at any period in our past history." The injured RICHARD proceeds:

history." The injured RICHARD proceeds:
"We have here met again; let us do as our fathers in past days of our history have done, stand on the broad principles of the Constitution and demand those rights and privileges which belong to the States and to the people.
We will be satisfied with nothing less. [Applause.] These principles cannot be changed by fanatics or over-ridden by power. The rights of the people are dear to them, [Applause.] Our fathers made this compact of federal unity under hardly less than inspiration, and it cannot be altered by fanaticism or destroyed by power. Its military necessity shall not deprive either of these rights or prileges. [Applause.] Let it be then distinctly understood, that the dignity of American citzenship mustnot be degraded or contaminated by association or an equality with an inferior race, either socially or politically. [Immense applause.]

Not to put too fine a point on it, would it

Not to put too fine a point on it, would it be out of place to ask RICHARD what he means by this farrago? If we did not know him to be a citizen of exemplary habits, we should charge this muddle as the mixed offspring of whisky and lager beer. In the first place, who are "we?" The Democracy? And who has taken any of "their rights and privileges?" Certainly, so far as the Vauxonian Democrats are concerned, they have had more 'rights and privileges' in the last four years than they have ever before enjoyed. They have luxuriated in the "rights" of staying at home while others were fighting for the country, and in "the privileges" of opposing, obstructing, and falsifying the Government in its efforts to help those who were doing this same fighting. But it is the "rights of the States" that "are dear to them." But as no rights of our State have been interfered with, RICHARD must mean the rebel "States rights." Now we understand him. Yet it is a calamitous asseveration; for why should he fly into a passion over what the defeated rebels themselves give up? They went to war for States Rights as expounded by CALHOUN and accepted by RICHARD VAUX, JEREMIAH S. BLACK, JAMES BUCHANAN, GEORGE W. WOODWARD, and WM. B. REED-not the State Rights as understood by ANDREW JACKSON OF ANDREW JOHNSON-and they avow themselves utterly whipped on the issue thus made up by themselves. It is ridiculous to see a "robustious, periwigpated" demogogue whining over the loss of rights for which he did not fight, but which those who did, surrender to the conquering power of the Union arms.

It will be noticed that in all that RICHARD says he does not drop a word of gratitude for the brave men who took such excellent care of his rights. His only solicitude is for the "States' rights" represented by Davis and Breckingidge. Knowing full well that the question of colored suffrage is not a practical one in this State, and that it never can be, he breaks into another paroxysm, and declares that "American citizenship must not be degraded or contaminated by association or an equality with an inferior race, either socially or politically." If it would do Rich-ARD any good, we might refer him to the manner in which the men of Mississippi are meeting this question; and as they are more concerned in it than RICHARD, probably they are entitled to be heard. They are passing laws ratifying the abolition of slavery, and preparing for the elevation and education of the freedmen; while in other Southern States a modified species of negro suffrage is openly canvassed. These proud and sensitive men do not seem to be much alarmed by the ghosts of "social and political equality" from the surrounding myriad of negroes, that carry so much terror to the soul of RICHARD. It is natural, after electing a man with such views, a compound, as we have said, of arrogance and nonsense, of boyish platitudes and laughable rage, to preside over the Democratic Convention, that the resolutions should have been boiled and steeped in the very copperas of hatred to all the great measures that brought the rebellion to the dust. [Of these we shall speak hereafter.] It was also consistent that JERE-MIAH S. BLACK, the Attorney General under JAMES BUCHANAN, he who prepared the fatal poison that came so near drugging the Republic into the sleep of death-the author of the heresy that, though secession was wrong in the abstract, there was no power in the Government to save itself from destruction-it was consistent that he should wind up the dance with a speech, in which he thundered his own hatred and defiance of the Government under the cloak of loud pretensions for that same law which he declared contained no specific to save it from death. It was, in fact, consistent that all these leaders and agencies should be summoned to what seemed to be a carnival of woe at the downfall of the rebellion. With the exception of a resolution of bold and costive compliment to the soldiers, coupled at the same time with an insult to the black heroes who saved so many thousands of white men from danger and death, this Democratic State Convention was nothing but a practical protest against the solid restoration of the Union, and an unconcealed regret that the rebellion had been crushed. When the conquered rebels themselves turn, as they do, with scorn from such a sight, how can any portion of the good people of Pennsylvania be expected to bear with such doctrines, or to stand straight under so galling a burden? Considered in connection with the past aggressions of the leaders upon the doctrines of the fathers, and their past exactions upon the patience of the masses, this is, indeed, an Atlantean oad—a very piling of Ossa upon Pelion. If what is left of the Democracy can bear these accumulations, it is, indeed, made of enduring metal. And it is a soldier that crowns this re volting pyramid! The candidate for Auditor General is Colonel W. W. H. Davis, of Bucks county. We take it for granted that he will accept the nomination, indeed it would be safe to say that he sought that doubtful honor. Colonel DAVIS, though a good soldier, was one of the very few men who fought against the rebellion in the field and allowed his name to re main at the head of a newspaper in Bucks county, in which the war and the Administration under which it was conducted were steadily opposed and misrepresented. Had the counsels of his newspaper, the Doylestown Democrat, been followed, Colonel Davis would now be one of the spectators of (if not one of the mourners over) a divided and sub-divided Republic; each fragment at war with the other, and all ready for a foreign master in preference to a reunion among themselves. Vain, in that case, had been his Sword against the theories of the Pen that wrote in his newspaper. Once it was given teristic forgetfulness of his crime of out that the soldier was not the editortreason, had exploded in this outthat the words of the Dovlestown Democrat burst of indignation, it might have were not the words of Colonel Davis, and been charged to a feeling of disappointment and that he would take an early chance to under defeat, and so passed over; but it is a say so. Time passed. His regiment, the little different when a Sybarite like RICH-104th, has closed its service, been mus-ARD VAUX assumes the dictatorial air of tered out, and the officers and men one who has endured wrongs, or been comhave for months been at their homes. But pelled to groan under inconceivable sufferthe Doylestown Democrat has contained no card from the military editor, rebuking his substitute for the sentiments that made it so vile an echo of the Woods and the W. B. REEDS during his absence. We have, instead, his nomination as candidate for an important State office on the most odious platform ever adopted by any party since the rebellion commenced. We onestion whether the avowals which buried the Democratic party under an avalanche in Ohio in 1863, which lost JESSE D. BRIGHT been fighting against the traitors, to his scat in the Senate in 1861, or which hear that "the Executive power was now constitutes the basis of the Copperhead opposition in Kentucky, was or is more repulsive. It is certain that in none of the lately rebellious States have any of the late enemies of the Republic enunciated opinions at once so revolutionary and dangerous. We are constrained to believe, therefore, that Colonel DAVIS approved the disreputable course of this theatre (lately the Continental, in Walnut street), has been highly successful. The pubs paper during his absence in the field: confession,) because it was the first time "a | and that he accepts the new and demora-Democrat' ever attempted to sympathize lizing position assumed for the Democratic party by the Convention of which he is a less aristocracy of any age. In olden days candidate. Now, while he deserves his share of credit for fighting for his country, that credit becomes a doubtful commodity when it is trumpeted to give solvency and repute to a bankrupt and dishonored cause. No bravery can make such a cause acceptable to the American people. What bitterer insult to a soldier can be conceived than to charge him with fighting not for principle, but for pay? How instinctively this question is understood by the pravest men of our conquering armies, is proved in the overwhelming fact that all of them, without distinction of former party attachments, voted for or recommended the re-election of ABRAHAM LINCOLN, and hence the election of Andrew Johnson, GRANT, SHERMAN, SHERIDAN, HANCOCK.

MEADE, HOOKER, BUTLER, GEARY, all of them, stood on this high level, because they regarded it as a religious duty—in fact, as part of the obligation they assumed when they embarked in the war against the rebellion. Such a Convention as that which met at Harrisburg on Thursday last, would have been quarantined by them under the army regulations to prevent a contagion from spreading, and such a platform as that which Colonel Davis stands upon, would have been regarded at a very long range with their best fieldglasses, and finally pronounced a rebel masked battery filled with the deadliest missiles. And so Colonel Davis and the Democracy of Pennsylvania will find it to be in October next. The Pittsburg Commercial of Friday even-ing contains the following account of a horri-

The Pittsburg Commercial of Friday evening contains the following account of a horrible murder in that city:

Yesterday (Thursday) morning before daylight an unknown man was found horribly murdered on the vacant ground known as Boyd's Hill, in the Eighth ward. Between three and four o'clock a German who was crossing the hill on his way to work discovered the body of a man lying with his face downward in a pool of blood, at a distance of about fifty feet from the footpath. He at once communicated the fact to Mr. D. Hutchinson, who went and examined the body, and having come to the conclusion that the man had been murdered, sent immediately to Mayor Lowry to inform him of the case. A few minutes only elapsed, when the Mayor was on the spot, and examined the body and the surroundings.

He found that the unfortunate man had his face awfully mutilated, his throat cut from under the chin round to the left ear, and several horrible gashes in his back. The vest which had been worn by the deceased was cut into fragments, and his coat cut across the back with the same instrument which had been used to inflict the wounds in his back. His suspenders were cut in front, and his shirt torn up round his body, as if the murderers had been ripping their way to a money belt worn next the skin. The pockets were all turned inside out, having been carefully surveyed by the murderers before leaving their victim. Not a vestige was left by which the deceased could be identified.

An envelope bearing the name of Babcock was found on the ground in the vicinity of the body, but at present no importance is attached to it.

A struggle for Life.

A STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.

The victim of this terrible deed must have had a severe struggle for his life, for besides his having been a man of powerful muscular development, the ground where his body was discovered gave indications of a terrible conflict, in which he must have contested flercely against at least two or three assailt arts. The assault appeared to have been commenced on the foot-path leading across the hill, and being in a line at a right angle with Pennsylvania avenue, midway between Chestnut and Magee streets. Near this spot laya large boulder of about fifty pounds weight, with which it is supposed the deceased had his face demolished. The struggle which took place here was very evident from the irregular manner in which the ground was scratched all around it, and must have extended over a space of about twenty feet, when the murderous gang succeeded in cutting the throat of their victim, for at that distance from the spot first affulded to, was a pool of fresh blood, which had undoubtedly flowed from the wound in the neck. From there to the hollow in which the body was discovered, a distance of about fifty feet from where the struggle had commenced, there were traces of blood.

The body of the murdered man, now done A STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.

there were traces of blood.

The body of the murdered man, now done for, was evidently dragged to the hollow where it lay when discovered. At this spot the savage murderers undoubtedly made their cureful examination of the pockets in the clothing of the deceased, and in their search for money, cut everything before them; tore off the coat of deceased, and, after rolling him over, left for their hiding-place. It should be mentioned that when the body was found the feet were without either shoes or stockings. What object the murderers could have in this part of their behavior is open to conjecture.

STRANGE, BUT TRUE.—A one-legged soldier holdbled into a crowded street car in Chicago on Friday, and a pale-faced but pretty little woman arose and gave him her seat. As he was passing up to the vacated seat their gaze met, and they threw themselves into each other's arms. The soldier had been terribly wounded in Tennessee, and was supposed to be dead by his loving little wife. Before he was able to write to her she removed to Chicago, and his letter never reached her. As soon as he could travel he set out for home, and met his sorrowing wife in the romantic way we have described. But for her generous impulse—so rare in these days—in giving her seat to a mained soldier, their reunion might have been long delayed.

WALNUT-STREET THEATRE,—Saturday nigh nn and winterseason commenced her with the most favorable and gratifying pros-pects for Mesers. Clarke and Booth, the propri-etors, and for Monsieurs, Mesdames, and Mademoiselles, who constitute the play-going public. The theatre, in its improved condition, would scarcely be recognized by any of its frequenters during the last five years.

The auditorium is enlarged, altered, and wonderfully amended, There is new seenery, there is a renewed wardrobe, and the proprietors are old favorites, though young nen. It is said, and we believe it true, that the acceptable and wholesale remodelling of "the d Walnut" has been designed by Mr. T. J. Hemphill, the business manager and treaurer. After Mark Hassler's orchestra had discoursed most eloquent music, as he and they can do it, Miss Effie Germon appeared, and oke a poetical address, which, with his wontd kindness and ability, our ever-young friend, David Paul Brown, Esq., had written for the ccasion. We take it for granted that it was good and suitable—because if the author were dull or prosyrit would have been for the first ime, and because in the few lines which we heard, we recognized a graceful expression and now and then a fine thought. But, on an opening night, perfect silence cannot be obined, even when a pretty girl recites a wise nan's poetry, and also because, possibly from aving played in a theatre of considerably less size, Miss Germon spoke too low. Few in he front of the house heard more than one word in five of Mr. Brown's address. She was ore audible when she acted, because then. by strong listening, one could catch about three out of every five words she spoke. No matter! A popular, pretty actress, whether she be soubrette or tragedienne, is sure to have admirers; and so, what may be called "the Germon Confederation" threw about a dozen of bouquets to lively and little Effie, when she had concluded the Opening Address. After which the play commences; a pleasant piece it is, between a farce and a comedy, written by Sterling Coyne, (a native of Cork, who, like all Corcagians, has seen many draw ngs of it,) and entitled "Everybody's Friend." In this Miss Germon was "overweighted," for though a pretty little actress, it is in pretty little parts. We would not mind walking to Germantown to see her play "The Youth who never saw a Woman." Miss Annie Graham, who dressed with good taste, played the part who dressed with good taste, played the part of Mrs. Swandown very well—more animated than usual. If we did not have an en-during memory of Miss Mary Wells in that part, Miss Mary Carr's Mrs. Major de Boots would have satisfied us. Mr. Herne (who was extremely well received) was a tolerable Mr. Felix Featherly, and Mr. Fawcett, from the Winter Garden, New York, was less effective as Mr. Icebrook than he might have been. Mr Herne will play his part very well, if he pay attention to the apparently insignificant but really important circumstance of by-play Mr. Fawcett, until the last act, wholly ne glected this. Mr. Clarke appeared in the middle of the first act, and it may be doubted whether, at any time, or upon any stage in this city, actor had such an enthusiastic and prolonged reception. Usually what is called "a cool hand," he was taken off his balance for a minute or two, by the warm greetings of his friends and admirers. We have never seen him play the part of Major de Boots so well comedy, and-perfect in its way. The farce of "Love in Livery" followed, which we did not wait for. Mr. Barton Hill and Mr. G. H. Griffiths are members of the Walnut-street com pany, and so are many others of whom we will speak hereafter. CHESTNUT-STREET THEATRE.—The commence

Smith, will appear in two dramas, "The Wonder," by Mrs. Centlivre, and "Naval Engagements." In the former, Mr. F. Mordaunt will appear as Don Fetix which used to be the chef d'œuvre of the fa-mous light comedian, Robert W. Elliston, We shall be much pleased to see Mr. Mordaunt succed in this difficult character, which does not seem much in his line. THE BOYS IN BLUE AND COPPRINEADS.

On the 23d instant there was held at Des Moines, Iowa, a so-called "Soldiers' State Convention," which was really intended only as a Democratic and Copperhead wire-pulling gathering. On opening the meeting it was stated that only anti-stone and anti-negro suffrage men were entitled to seats. A number of soldiers who attended in good faith, expecting to dind themselves in loyal company, were much annoyed at learning of the deception. Several exciting speeches were made, and finally the soldiers withdrew in a body and held a loyal meeting of their own in another hall. The Copperheads left behind passed a number of resolutions in the usual style.

The loyal soldiers, after addresses by several of their number, Resoluted, That we, the citizen soldiers of lowa, of their number,

Resolved, That we, the citizen soldiers of Iowa, never have affiliated, and never will affiliate, with the Copperheads of Iowa, in any political party whatever.

Resolved, That leaving the question of negro suffrage in abeyance, we will support the nominees of the Republican Convention held at Des Moines on the 14th of June last.

COULD NOT FIND THEM.—The Harrisburg Telegraph says that it transpired on Thursday morning that at a caucus the night before of the delegates at the Copperhead Convention, when the proposition to nominate soldiers was being discussed, it was proposed to select as candidates two private soldiers who had lost either a leg or an arm in battle. The delegates present were asked to name, from their localities, any Copperheads who had thus been wounded while serving in the ranks, who might be made available as candidates. After a pause of some time, it was conceded in silence that not a single delegate present knew a wounded private soldier who would accept the Copperhead nomination for Auditor and Surveyor Generale. We allude to this fact as we received it, as being fraught with significant evidence of the material which now composes the Copperhead organization. Not a single wounded soldier—no, not one, claiming fellowship with that faction.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. There was only one Board on Saturday, and onsidering this fact, the stock market may be said to have been active. Prices were gen rally firm, and the outside public disposed to operate more extensively. United States securities are firm, notwithstanding the reduced quotations from the other side of the ocean, where the markets seem to be adversely affected by an over-supply, for the time being which very naturally has caused a moderate reaction in prices, from the higher points, previously attained by them in London and Frankfort; but the case is quite different on this side, where the daily demand is quite equal to the supply for sale. There was nothing said in State loans, and for City 6s there was but a moderate inquiry. Sales of the old at 88-no change; and the new issue at 91, a decline of 14. The Railway list was generally weak, excepting only Camden and Amboy, which sold at an advance of ½. Reading was steady at the closing figure of Friday, while Pennsylvania Railroad declined 14, with sales at 5714. Catawissa preferred sold at 2514; Lehigh Valley at 64, and Northern Central at 4434; 29 was bid for Little Schuylkill; 55 for Minehill; 25 for North Pennsylvania; 12% for Catawissa common, and 20 for Philadelphia and Erie. In City Passenger Railroad shares there was little doing. Second and Third sold at 73; 18½ was bid for Thirteenth and Fifteenth; 9 for Seventeenth and Nineteenth; 65 for West Philadelphia; 18 for Arch street, and 10 for Race and Vine. Canal shares were in better demand. Schuylkill Navigation preferred sold at 32, an advance of 34; and Morris Canal preferred at 120. 59 was bid for Lehigh Navigation: 9 for Susquehanna Canal, and 29 for Delaware Division. Union Canal also sold at 14. The oil stocks are still unchanged, and the transactions are light.

Thirteen wells are yielding a constant supply of oil to the Cameron Petroleum Company. On the Hoover Farm alone the average yield for many weeks has been fifty barrels per day. At this rate Cameron cannot fail to place itself in the panies. Its present prospect entitle those interected in its management to hope for this result at a very early day. In addition to its success in the obtaining of oil, the company has been singularly fortunate in its management, he officers being gentlemen of industry, tact, and sound business character. about to negotiate a long loan, payable in part n compound interest, legal tenders, and certificates of indebtedness. His object, it is said. is to curtail the currency, and to consolidate the debt. The report is probably without foundation in fact, for the Secretary of the Treasury, in private letters, has stated that he will not call for such a loan. An important meeting of the superintend ents of oil companies was recently held at Funkville, Pa., to adopt some general plan to prevent the wells from interfering with each other. In the course of some general remarks about seed-bagging the wells on the McElheny farm, a Mr. Lee addressed the meeting relative to the operations upon the Tarr farm. He stated that the experiment there had been attended with successful results, the product of oil having been increased about eight hundred barrels as a direct result of their operations. He said that in the case of aband wells they had plugged them up below the water veins, in the second sand rock, with a plug made of cotton rags wound about a stick culiar form. Other wells that interfered with neighboring wells were cased with threend-a-half inch artesian tubing down into the second sand, and permanently seed-bagged at that point. By so doing, the inside tubing could be drawn from any seed well without danger of flooding another. He further stated that the owners of wells pledged themselves to continue pumping their wells until the water was exhausted. Mr. Lee gave it as his opinion that t would pay well-owners to case their wells in every instance, as a precautionary measure; and, in support of this opinion, made some statements relative to the cost of exhausting the water of certain wells, which was very arge, and might have been saved if this plan had been adopted when the wells were first The following were the rates of gold on Saarday, at the hours named:

military railroad rolling stock, which includes n all about three hundred locomotives, and nearly eight thousand cars. Some of the rollng stock is new, and will, doubtless, bring s good price. But most of the railway companies are averse to buying old rolling stock, as the cost of repairs in a few years equals the rice of new stock.
The creditors of Messrs. Ketchum, Son, & Co., have been invited, by circular, to meet on Friday next, to hear a statement of the affairs of the concern. The liabilities are stated to be about $4,000,000, and the assets $2,500,000 to 3,000,000. The securities taken by the abconding partner amount to $2,800,000, and it s suggested that some of them may be made available. At the meeting it is expected that proposition will be made to the creditors. It is stated that the Pacific Mail Steamship company has obtained the contract for the mail to China. The company is ready to comnence without delay.

The revenue cutter Cuyahoga, Captain John Faunce commanding, left New York on Satur-day for the Carribean Sea, for the purpose of endcavoring to recover the balance of the $1,500,000 which went down in the Golden Rule when she was wrecked on her passage to San Juan. Mr. Victor Smith, agent of the Treadury Department, after being five weeks on the reef, assisted by divers and two wreeking. chooners, has recovered only mout $140,000, which were in a safe. The Cuyahoga takes out experienced divers, and it is possible that other portions of the large sum may be recovered, although it is highly probable that it will be in a condition wholly useless for circulation. The Treasury Department desire to be certain that it has been destroyed or forever lost, so that they can strike it off their books, and, if needed, issue other notes in their place. The Cuyahoga will probably be absent several

Mr. George T. Curtis, at the request of the Metropolitan Bank of New York, has given an elaborate opinion in regard to taxing the national banks.

Mr. Curtis concludes, as the result of a careful examination of the subject, that the national banks are not, as corporations, taxable by State authority, and also concedes that stocks of the United States are not subject to taxation by the States. But he shows, by incid and cogent reasons, that although the corporations are not taxable by the States, the property of citizens in their shares is subject to the same liabilities as the general mass of personal property; and also that the income of dividends from such shares can be taxed by the States in which they are owned. Shares in the stock of a national bank are the property of the holder, subject, like other property creates no relation between the holder and the General Government which a state tax would imtional banks. THE BEST FITTING SHIRT OF THE AGE is "The improved Pattern Shirt," made by John C. Arrison, at the old stand, Nos. 1 and 3 North Sixth street. Work done by hand in the heart ment nor parties to a contract with it, and do not therefore come within the operation of the principles on which exemptions from State taxation are made to rest.

Advices from San Francisco to the 2d of August report:

The money market is easy, with a free offering of capital for loan purposes. The prevailing rate in bank is still 1½ per cent, per month, but short business paper, with first-class signatures, can be negotiated at 1½ per cent. Out-door transactions are rather more restricted than usual, and upon fair securities accommodations are obtained at 1½ 22½ per month. The banks and bankers of this city are probably in a stronger position at this time than at any other period in the history of the country, and have on hand in their yaults an unusually large amount of cash means.

Telegraphic transfers are quotable at 3 per cent. premium; and sight drafts payable in coin at 13.62 per cent. premium: Bankers' sterling is selling at 48.61, and good commercial bills are ruling at about 49.644.40. Legal-tender notes have been dull and inactive for two weeks past, and small transactions were made to-day at 74.644.40. In anticipation of an advance in tolls on the 4st of Soptember, the coal trade is brisk, and 4st of Soptember, the coal trade is brisk, and demand active at fair rates. The miners at the colleries in the vicinity of Ashland bave gone to work again, a compromise having been effected. The trade now wears, all in all, a healthy appearance, with a good prospect of satisfactory continuance to the end of the sea-son, as the stock in market is light, and manufacturing operations have revived. The shipments from the Pottsville region, says the Miners' Journal, would have been heavier this week if an unfortunate accident had not hapnened on the planes of the Mine Hill Railroad near Ashland. On Monday morning last the the cylinder head of the lower engine at Gordon Planes blew off. Since the occurrence be siness has been suspended on the planes, and will not be resumed until Monday or Tuesday. Shipments from Ashland have, in consequence, been checked, the only coal sent to market from that point, during the week, eing by the way of Mahanoy. The New York Post of Saturday evening says:

Wall street is somewhat disturbed by the rumor of the new Government loan which Mr. McCullough is believed to be about to put on the market as a first step towards realizing the important objects of consolidating the debt and contracting the currency.
The arrest of Edward B. Ketchum, of which full particulars will be found elsewhere, forms the topic of conversation, but it awakens no excitement outside of a very limited circle. There is a rumor, which receives but partial credence that a part of the missing bonds and other property which was abstracted has been recovered. On his arrest Edward Ketchum had in his possession $49,000.
Gold is more firm. There is but little business doing, and the chief transactions have been done at 144/2014%.

being, as is usual on Saturdays, a general desire to lend balances to secure the two days'
