The success of such an undertaking must be regarded with great interest by all who understand and recognize that the true grounds of national prosperity, as well as individual security and the permanency and regularity in the workings of the gene ral financial system, must be ultimately found in the wise regulation of our indus trial relations. One of the first objects of the association has been to acquire and collate the statistics relating to their special business. This has been attended with difficulties, and the reports are as yet necessarily incomplete. Circulars containing interrogatories have been despatched to all persons known to be interested in the manufacture, but the returns are not yet full. From the statistics reported, we find in the twenty-one loval States seven hundred and forty-six factories; Massachusetts heading the list with one hundred and fifty-four, New York following with one hundred and twenty-nine. and Pennsylvania standing third, with one hundred and twenty-eight factories. Connecticut reports fifty-six; and, then descending in a rapid scale of reduction, until Oregon and Minnesota close the list with some open advocates. Now, our State but one each. They asked each other, "What if we should succeed, and esta-blish our independence? What shall become of usi Shall we cling together as now, and become a great and united people?" Their conclusions were always despondent; they could gather little hope from the prospect; that cursed element of secession and division was implanted in the constitution for which they were contending, and it cast a dark cloud over all that lay before them. He said he intended no disrespect whatever to the convention of 1861, by voting to declare their ordinance null and void. Far from it. He meant the contary thing. He would be greatly obliged, if he were in their places, to any one who would cause it to appear that they meant to rebel instead of perpetrating the amazing farce of secceding. He wanted to dignify their action. He would be greatly obliged to any one who could convince him that he himself had been fighting four years for something else beside the stupid, the ab-surd right of seccession. He wanted ho decep-tion for the future. He wanted the people fo understand what they fought for (if they did so foolish a thing), and not again tell their leaders "You deceived us with this pretence of 'peaccable secession."" to give him a call. At that time the old bank had about $75,000 of its bills in circulation, and among its assets were notes which it held against its late President, Capt. Henry Cooper, to the amount of $40,000. Imi-iating in a small way the example of his New York prototype, Ketchum, a week or two since Cooper disappeared from Hallowell, and it is ascertained that he is now on his way to Europe, having transferred funds thither, sufficient, it is supposed, to make himself comfortable, and leaving very little behind to reinburse the bank for the financial accommo-dation it had so obligingly extended him. We learn that the bank has attached some real estate and other property belonging to the absconding officiai to the value of Some $10,000 or $15,000, but its available assets being insuffi-cient to meet its liabilities, it no longer re-deems its bills, and its affafrs will be sum-marily wound up by the intervention of the bank commissioners. By the laws of the State the property of the stockholders is holden to fujuidate the liabilities of the bank, and it is hoped that ultimately no loss will accrue to the bill-holders. In the meantime the public is cautioned against receiving bills of the American Bank. factories reaches 118,729,600 pounds, ing paid without inconvenience to our which 84,000,000 is our home product and people. 39,000,000 pounds are imported. In a general report of the value of the woollen goods manufactured in the United States for the year ending June 30, 1864, the sum total is stated as $121,868,250. Of which Massachusetts manufactured in round numbers $40,500,000 worth ; Pennsylvania, ranking next, having $16,500,000; Connecticut, third in the list, manufacturing somewhat less than $16,000,000, and New York not reaching $14,000,000. Rhode Island and New Hampshire follow, manufacturing respectively to the value of ten and nine million ; Maine and Vermont each return more than three millions, and New Jersey more than two, not one of the other States reaching much more than one half million of dollars as its share of the nation. al product.

A wonderful increase in the production of wool and its various manufactures has occurred during the last few years, and the present condition of the country gives assurance of increased consumption, and most hopeful prospects for all engaged in the different ramifications of this branch of industry.

The various committees of this com vention are busily employed, and promise the publication of the result of their labors in a short time. Without doubt, a complete report will show a greater amount of manufactures than many have supposed possible, for the requirements of the last four years must have stimulated the looms, and excited the spindles to doubled activity. Under this great pressure our immense armies were clothed to a great extent in goods of domestic manufacture, and it is to be hoped that the hard lessons taught by experience will not be forgotten. An unexpected and unparalleled prosperity to many branches of industry has been wrought out of our terrible struggle; and if wealth has accrued largely to some and prosperity to many, from the fact that we were forced to clothe our American soldiery with American cloth, let it be remembered in the future, and let the huge armies that are gathering, and to be gathered, for the conquest of field and forest, prairie, and mountain top, and that grand campaign just opening a dazzling prospect among the golden fields of our Western mineral lands, he also clothed in American manufactures. It is a trite saying that the victories of peace are greater than those of war; but it has been reitcrated so wearisomely, because it is true, and every year of American civilization serves to repeat it with greater force. Even with the sound of the cannon still lingering along our hills, and with the laurels of our heroes fresh upon them, we receive it as a certain truth, and look to the future to accumulate the proofs year by year. This labor is our great national "devoir," and it behooves us to devote ourselves wisely to the work; and protection and assistance of every kind extended to every species of remunerative industry is the speediest and most effectual method of furthering the desired end.

NEW YORK AND PHILADELPHIA

The last number of the Scottish American Journal has an amusing and instructive article on "The Daily Newspaper Business in New York." It notices, as a singular fact, that there is less daily newspaper competition in New York than in any city of the United States, North or South, and says: "In spite of the vast difference in their population, as compared with this city, Boston. Baltimore, Richmond, Chicago, and Cincinnati, have each as great a number of daily morning papers as New York. Philadelphia, although but three-fourths the size of New York, has a still greater number."

The geographical statement in the above paragraph, which we have put into italics, is the reverse of correct. In no way is Philadelphia "but three-fourths the size of New York." Both cities wholly occupy counties of the same name, but the county
