BERNE, SWITZERLAND, August 16, 1865.

HOW THE TOWN OF BERNE LOOKS.

I arrived here some days ago, and, having since that time visited the town thoroughly, will proceed to give you a short description of the place and its surroundings. Borne is the capital of the canton of the same name, and is the seat of the general government; its population is about 29,000. It is situated upon a high plateau, and, upon three sides, is sur-rounded by the river Aar, the banks of which are about one hundred feet in height, and ong which are some beautiful promenades. along which are some beautiful promenates. The fortifications of the town, now being useless for defence, have also been turned into promenades, upon which, in the evening, bands are playing from seven until nine o'clock. The streets have a very peculiar appearance, as the houses are all built of massive stone, and generally rest upon arcades, which letter upon a lendy day, make the which latter, upon a cloudy day, make the sidewalks rather gloomy.

THE WATCH-TOWER AND CLOCK.

One of the sights of Berne is the old watchtower, which now stands nearly in the centre of the city; it is surmounted by a large clock but the chief attraction about it is the move ment of some puppets on its front, upon the striking of the hour. Just before the bell strikes, a large cock flaps his wings and crows, then a figure above strikes the hours upon two small bells, suspended near him, whilst a proression of bears, most fantastically dressed passes in front of a king, who waves his sceptre over them and reverses an hour-glass, which he holds in his right hand. The king's guard consists of one large bear, standing erect, and armed with a spear, who, during the striking, wags his head solemnly from side to side. After the striking, the cock again crows, and this finishes the performance. I must tell you that the great distinguishing mark of Berne is the bear." You can see the device in every street and almost in every store. The word Bern," in the old German, signifies "bear," and this animal forms the armorial badge of the town; for many years living specimens of the mimal were kept here: but when the French took possession of the place in 1728, they were removed to the "Jardin des Plantes," at Paris, but when order was resumed, these favorites were replaced in Berne; there are now several here in a large den near the city, and there is a fund maintained for their support—throwing anything to them, except fruit and bread, is strongly prohibited, under a penalty of punishment by law.

THE ALPS.

The greatest beauty of Berne consists in the magnificent view it affords of the Bernes Alps. They can be seen from all parts of the city in clear weather. The most prominent is the peak of the "Jung frau," towering up thirteen thousand seven hundred feet above the level of the sea. At a distance their tops have more the appearance of clouds than of mountains. and one scarcely realizes at first that they are indeed the Alps. At sunset their appearance is sublime, as the slanting rays of the sun give them a most beautiful pink tinge. The public buildings of Berne are worthy of

THE CATHEDRAL. The cathedral or "Minster," is a fine Gothic building, begun in the early part of the fif-teenth century, and has some fine sculptures over its western door, representing the "Last Judgment." The interior has nothing worthy of notice, except four large stained glass win-dows, which are curious from the grotesque-ness of the figures upon them; they are called "wafer windows," as they consist of representations of the Eucharist. There is a great deal of carved work upon the outside, which resembles very much the cathedral at Strasburg, so noted for its "open work."

THE MUSEUM.
The museum here is also worth a visit; in addition to a fine collection of birds, they have the stuffed skin of "Barry," a large dog of "St. lives by his exertions and sagacity.

THE COUNCIL HALL. The Palais Federal, or Council Hall, is the finest building in Berne; here, during the month of July, the national Council holds its sittings. It is built of the same kind of Stone and resembles very much the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's offices, on Third street, Philadelphia. In front of the building is a beautiful marble fountain, surmounted by a figure representing Berne and surrounded by four bronze figures of the four seasons. The ground around the building is laid out in fine gardens, full of flowers. HOW SWITZERLAND IS GOVERNED. I will endeavor to give you some idea of the Government of the Swiss Confederation.

The Executive power is vested in seven men, who are termed the "Federal Council," and who are elected by two bodies—the "National Assembly" and "Council of States"—for three years. One of the Federal Council is termed "President," and is chosen by themselves for one year, but no authority what-ever is given him; his duty is merely to receive foreign ambassadors and to preside over the Federal Council at their session. The National Assembly consists of a body ected by the people for three years, at the rate of one member to every 20,000 souls; and the Council of States, consists of 44 members, two from each State or Canton and these are elected by the Legislature of each Canton; they serve one year. The regular sessions are held during the months of January and July, and usually last from three to four weeks. As three different languages are spoken in Switthe speeches are delivered in the native lan-guage of the speaker, but interpreters immediately translate them into the other tongues. Altogether there is a great resemblance between the workings of the Swiss Confedera-tion and of the United States. C.

Correspondence between General Mejia and General Steele Relative to Corninas' Movements.

New Orleans, Sept. 11.—The Matamoros Monitor contains an interesting correspondence between General Mejia and General Steele. The former complains that Cortinas had fired on a body of Imperialists while in transit, General Steele replies, regretting any viola-tion of the international laws, and says that it was against his express injunction. Cortings, he said, had complained of a similar outrage on the part of General Mejia's men. THE MOBILE AND ORIO RAILROAD OPENED.

The Richmond Republic says: Hon. Wm. U.
Seward, Secretary of State, accompanied by his daughter Miss Seward, and son Frederick and lady, arrived at Rocketts vesterday at noon on the steamer River Queen.
General Perry and Governor Peirpont, having been apprised of the expected arrival, met hem at the boat. The Secretary and his daughter were assigned to seats in an open barouche with the Governor and General Terry, while Mr. Frederick Seward and lady were escorted to unother carriage by General Hawley. The whole party then proceeded up Main street, passing through the burnt district and other points of interest. Their sojourn was necessarily brief, as they had made arrangements to leave the city for Washington early in the af-

October with his family, and accept the kind hospitalities of the Governor. He also proposes to visit various other sections of Vir-An Important Correction in Henry A. Wise's Letter. C., Sept. 8.—There is now a onsiderable tide of emigration from the North, most of it under the auspices of the General Southern Land Agency, which established an office for the Northern States at No. 62 Broadway, New York. The company offers land for sale throughout all the States, and its agents estimate that at least 100,000 emigrants will go from the Northern States during the present year.

Murder at Augusta, Georgia. New York, Sept. 11.—The Savannah papers contain an account of the murder of Captain Heesler, 33d U. S. Colored Troops, at Augusta, on the night of the 6th inst., by three young men, members of three of the most respectable families of the place. It appears the cap-tain was discovered in company with a mulat-to girl, the mistress of one of the young men, and they all attacked him with their revolvers, one of the shots penetrating his neck and proving mortal. Not satisfied with this, they fell upon his prostrate body and inflicted several ghastly cuts with their knives. The affair had caused such a wide-spread excitement that there was danger of a riot, and threats were made of burning the city; but the assassins were arrested, and quiet was Destructive Fire in Pittsburg.

Between two and three o'clock on Sunday morning a fire was discovered breaking out between the towboats River Queen and George Albree, lying alongside each other at the levee on the Monongahela river, below Ferry street. The fiames spread rapidly, and the boats were soon completely enveloped in fire, causing the greatest trepidation amongst the comparatively small crowd as yet gathered, there being every appearance of a most disastrous conflagration. The wharf below the scene of the fire was lined with steamers, and a stiff breeze blowing in the direction of the Point. A towboat was at hand, and the steamers being lashed together, were drawn out into the river just at the critical moment when the Albree, her fastenings having been burned loose, commenced floating down. Her wheel lodged against the bow of the Coal Valley, rendering this boat in the most imminent danger. Through the promptitude of one of the assistant engineers, Mr. David Hall, the Neptune engine changed position, and was brought to the immediate point of danger, and a stream of water was thrown upon it until the danger had passed. The Albree and River Queen were burned to their hulls, and their machinery was therefore greatly damaged. The flames communicated to a small, partly-built towboat of Mr. Wm. Hanna, jand her upper works were considerably damaged. The River Queen, upon which it is said the fire originated, was in the sheriff's hands, having been seized for debt, and is owned, we understand, by a New York company. She is almost a Destructive Fire in Pittsburg.

ball seems to be all the rage. In the grand sliding-scale of athletic sports, it has rapidly ascended. This may be attributed to several causes. The fire companies, under the present power of horses and steam, have less attractions for the rising generation than they had a few years since. So used have we become to the appearance of military columns passing through our streets during the past four years, that the sound of the bugle or the drum have almost ceased to awaken extra attention. Various excitements incident to the past three or four years have died into a calm forgetfulness, and the boys, of course, are driven to their wits to introduce some new sport or pastime for their own especial gratification. The great American game known as base-ball, established in this country half a century since, is new to youth of the present time, and therefore they have availed themselves of it, have formed clubs to an almost indefinite number, and some of the older organizations of the juniors aspire to what is known as the championship, like "any other man."

Accordingly, an arrangement has been perfected between the junior clubs "Eureka" and "Union," of Camden, New Jersey, to play a game on the ground of the Camden's, senior, to-morrow afternoon, commencing at half-pust two o'clock. These clubs are reputed to be composed of nimble members, and, laving already attained high rank in the profession, quite an exciting time may be expected.

The "Juniors" are swelling into large proportions. They have arisen to the dignity of holding a general convention, like "any other man." This convention will assemble to morrow evening, and it is expected that four hundred delegates will be prosent.

The proceedings of these conventionalists will be looked forward to with as much interest by the base-ball clubs generally, as the doings of the Continental Congress were by the colonists of nearly a century since. It will require a vast amount of endurance and muscle to keep the ball moving as it has been for some time past. If the juni can game, the next generation of men will be athletic, healthy, and valuable members of society.

It is reported, that a few days since, at a cricket match, a spectator who prizes that game, said, "there's no wood in Hamerica it to make a cricket club; the honly place to get the right kind of wood is in Hingland." His knowledge of such matters may be attributed exclusively to his ignorance. At the store of Wilson & Co. on Chestmut, above Fourth, as will be seen by the advertisements in another part of The Press, bast made of all kinds of the best wood for such purposes, may be found. Maple, willow, beach, blich, ash, white and red, are brought into requisition. Mr. Louis George, a veteran caterer of base-ball clubs, and an old member of the Athletic, will exhibit at this place a general assortment of everything connected with the American game. It was also said, at a recent cricket match, that a ball suitable for a game of this kind could not be found in Philadelphia We are quite sure that Mr. George can exhibit an American manufactured ball equal to anything imported. One thing is very certain, if the game of cricket could become more general introduction of whalebone in the handle to give the bat a spring, another arrangement would be made, that would make a better and more serviceable but.

JUVENILE INNOCENCE AND JUVENILE DEFRAVITY.—The following incident of juvenile simplicity and depravity occurred a few days ago. A little girl, of five years, was sitting at the door of her father's house, in Tenth street, making a horse-hair finger-ring for her father. The front door was open, and on it hung a fancy hat, belonging to the baby, and another belonging to her little sister. A little girl, about seven years old, stopped on the sidewalk, in front of the little ringmaker, and asked what she was making.

"I'm making a ring for my papa."

"Oh, how pretty," said the little stranger; but I've got some red and blue horse hair at home that will make a pretther ring. I will give you some, if you want it."

"I would like very much to have some red and blue hair; it would make a very pretty ring."

"You shall have it." replied the girl, and. and blue hair; it would make a very pretty ring."

"You shall have it," replied the girl, and, looking in at the hat-rack, she asked if that was the baby's hat, and added, "My mother is well acquainted with yours, and she wants to get a hat like that for our baby, and she sent me to borrow your baby's hat, so that she could pick out one like it: won't you let me take it along?"

"Certainly," said Ada, the ringmaker, "if your mother wants to get a hat like that, and if your mother wants to get a hat like that, and if your mother wants to get a hat like that, and your mother wants to get a hat like that, and you might as well let me take the other hat, too, because my mother may want to get one of that kind; I live just round the corner, and I will bring them both back, safe and sound, in ten minutes."

Ada, unconscious of evil, went to the rack and took the two hats off, and handed them to the stranger.

The girl then said. "Now as you have been and took the two nate on, and another the stranger.

The girl then said, "Now, as you have been so kind, won't you loan me your hat to keep off the sun! I'll bring it back straight with the others."

Ada took off her hat and handed it to the wind and saw her walk rapidly along the Ada took of her hat and named to the street, and turn into the first alley. Then she knew that she had been victimized, for the girl did not go round the corner, where she said she lived. The little girl was a thief, and the lats were not returned. Ada cried; but learned a lesson which may be worth many dozen hats to ber. DELAY IN TRANSPORTATION .- A COTTE-

GRANDLY DECORATED .- Last evening GRANDLY DECORATED.—Last evening, the house of the Fairmount Engine, of which Chief Engineer David M. Lyle is a member, was gaily decorated with star-spangled banners. Two flags were displayed from each window of the spacious edflice, and five large battle-flags were spread across the street. As the Fairmount boys want their choice for Chief to be at the top of the heap, they had their flag-staff, which reaches far up to the cupola, decorated with a trio of flags, reaching from the truck to the roof, and gracefully extending around the cupola. The ladies of the neighborhood were in high glee at the sight, and young America enjoyed it hugely. Chief Lyle can well appreciate this compliment to him. When the result of the election was announced—that Chief Lyle was the lucky candidate—the house was brilliantly illuminated.

ARRIVAL OF TROOPS .- The 2d Massa ARRIVAL OF TROOPS.—The 2d Massachusetts Heavy Artillery, numbering 1.084 men, arrived from Washington on Sunday night, and were entertained at the Refreshment Saloons. The same regiment was received three years ago, on their way to the seat of war. Information has been received that about thirty regiments and batteries will pass through this city on their way home in a short time. They will all be welcomed and provided for in a manner worthy our great city and of our Refreshment Saloons.

MARSHAL'S AIDS, FIREMEN'S PARADE. MARSHAL'S AIDS, FIREMEN'S FARADE.—
H. B. Bobb, chief marshal of the firemen's parade, yesterday appointed the following special aids:
Samuel Henderson, Western Hose Co.
John McIlwain, Vigilant Fire Co.
Wm. Van Osten, Good Will Engine Co.
Alfred Ruhl, Fairmount Engine Co.
Lewis Sweeney, Pennsylvania Hose Co. Ex-Alderman Welding.—A notice appeared in the papers, a few days ago, that Alderman Welding had been seriously injured by the rallroad collision at Heightstown. The alderman has reached the city, and we are happy to announce that the papers were in error. The alderman received a slight scratch on his face only.

HOSPITAL ITEMS.—Sarah Dougherty, aged fifty-five years, was admitted into the hospital yesterday. She broke her left wrist, by falling on the filoor.

John Welsh, aged twenty-two years, fell from the rigging on board the brig Humboldt, on the river Delaware, and was injured internally. ACCIDENT TO A FIREMAN. -Last evening, as the members of the Ringgold Hose were running with their apparatus along Ridge avenue, to the Fairmount Engine house, one of their members was run over and badly hurt. He was taken home in an ambulance. SLIGHT FIRE.—Last evening, about nine o'clock, a slight fire was occasioned at Lowis' lead-works, Thompson street, above Cumberland, by the explosion of a fluid lamp. Loss, fifty dollars. BODY FOUND.—The body of Rody Brophy, fitty-four years of age, who was drowned about two weeks ago, was found on Sunday evening, in the mill race near the Blue Bell Tavern, on the Darby road.

THE POLICE. [Before Mr. Alderman Hutchinson.] COWARDLY ASSAULT ON A WOMAN. Yesterday morning Orlando Sayers, recently discharged from the Eastern Penltentiary, where he had been serving out a term of five years' imprisonment for burglary, was committed to prison in default of bail, to answer the charge of outrageous assault and battery with intent to kill. The evidence shows that on Sunday evening Sayers and three companions were coming down Vineyard street, near Perkiomen street. Here they saw a Mr. Morgan, who was sitting in the doorway of his house. It is alleged that one of them struck him, and then selzed his wife, who was standing behind him, dragged her to the pavement, where the four men beat her, knocked her down, kicked her terribly about the head, breast, and abdomen, and stamped on her, causing her to sustain serious injuries—so much so that the hearing had to be delayed some time until she was able to appear and testify. CONFIDENCE MAN AND A SHARP SOLDIER.

CONFIDENCE MAN AND A SHARP SOLDIER.

An honest country-bred private in one of our State regiments recently arrived from the South. While admiring the photographic specimens of art as displayed in a window up town, he was accosted by a well-dressed individual, who proceeded to indulge in critical remarks upon the pictures. Presently he produced what appeared to be a magnificent goldcase hunting watch, and offered it for sule.

At first the offer was met with an emphatic "no," from the soldier. He "reckoned" that to "sport" a watch of that "ar" kind would be too expensive. be too expensive.

"No, you are mistaken," replied the oily-tongued stranger, "I can let you have it for the small sum of fifty dollars. Besides this, if you wan't to 'spout' it, you can get twice that amount for it." amount for it."
"Well, now, do tell—is that so," replied the apparently wonder-struck countryman.
"Yes, sir," replied oily gammon, emphatically. "Wall, then, stranger, jus 'spose you go and spout it; you can't fool me."
The stranger departed. (Before Mr. Alderman Hunter, 1 ALLEGED STABBING APPRAY. James Houghey and Alexander Sharkley have been arrested upon the charge of seriously stabbling a man in Richmond street, above Cumberland street. The first intimation that the officers had of the matter was hearing a girl cry out, "There are the men that stabbed my fainer." There men were seen running away. Pursuit was made, and two were captured and held to bail for a further hear-ing. The wounded man was taken to the Epis-copal Hospital, where it was ascertained that he had been stabbed in the left breast, making a wound about four inches deep and over gu inch wide. His name could not be ascertained. [Before Mr. Alderman Beitler.] LARCENY CASE-A FORTUNE-TELLER CON-

Before Mr. Alderman Beitler.]

A LARCENY CASE—A FORTUNE-TELLER CONBULTED.

Benjamin O'Donnel, charged with the larceny of two watch chains, was up again for a further hearing.

Joseph H. Jones testified that he and the accused were in his room together one Sunday when he showed him two chains, one gold and one plated; accused said they were valuable; witness put them in the trunk and locked it, putting the key away; O'Donnel saw where the key was placed; the next Sunday the chains were missing; he taxed O'Donnel with the theft, which that party denied.

James Jones testified that the accused kept his clothing in the house, and often came there to dress and change his attire; he came thore on the Thursday after he had seen the chains; they were missing the following Sunday.

Matilda Jones, sister of the preceding witness, testified that she had given O'Donnell permission to keep his clothes at their house. On cross-examination the witness admitted that she had been to a fortune-teller to obtain tidings of the missing property.

Alderman. Did you go to a fortune-teller? Witness, Yes, sir.

Alderman. Where does she live?

Witness. I don't remember.

Alderman. What did she say?

Witness. She said that the articles had been taken by a young man who visited our house. Alderman. What did she say?

Witness. No.

Alderman. When was this?

Witness. About two weeks ago.

Martha Speegle testified that O'Donnel came to the house once after the chain were missed; he appeared very lidgetty.

The evidence was deemed sufficient to warrant the binding over of O'Donnel in $1,000 bail to answer at court.

RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS. Martha Femple, charged with receiving sto-len goods, was ordered to find bail in $1,200 to answer. GRATIFYING VISIT.

The Hon. Oswald Thompson, president judge of the court, came into the room and took a seat on the bench. He was warmly greeted by his brother judge, Ludlow, the district attorney, and members of the bar. It will be gratifying to the friends of the Judge to know that he looks quite well after his long indisposition. FORCIBLE-RIFFER CASE.

John Hay, Edward Fox, and Samuel Harrop were charged with forcible entry and detainer. The evidence was that the sheriff sold the lease, machinery, &c., of John Gadsby & Son. The sheriff's watchman had the keys taken from him, and the sheriff broke in and delivered the articles to the purchasers. Hay, who had purchased also, went in and attempted to place some shoddy in the building. Gadsby resisted this, and Hay drove him off with a cocked pistol and retained possession of the building.

The defence called witnesses to show that Gadsby said that he had nothing to do with the place, as Hay had bought it, fute and all. Gadsby wanted one of the witnesses to try and get the place back, but Hay wanted %3,000 for it. Gadsby said he was willing to give $2,500 to get the property back, and subsequently said that he had not him give also claimed that, as they purchased the lease, they had a right to the building, and, further, that immediately after the sale Gadsby rented another place.

The court charged that the proper way for the defendants to have obtained possession was by an act of ejectment or a suit under the toriginal proprietor. Verdict, guilty of forcible detainer. Sentence deferred.
