Our people, generally, do not seem inclined to invest in this character of stocks at present, and no matter how great induce-ments are, it seems almost impossible to find any one who is willing to put a dollar in oil stocks or in oil territory. As a matter of course, there are good oil companies, with valuable territory, judicious management, and energetic and intelligent develop-ment, but these are the excention ratio r the the ment, but these are the exception rather than the ceneral rule, and the outside public do not seem disposed to discriminate between the good and bad; classing them all alike, as not desirable. The following were the rates for gold vesterday the hours named:

Up to the close of August the receipts of cotton at New Orleans amounted to 27,000 bales against 131,000 last year. The recepts of the new crop have begun to arrive in small lots. Unless the planters succeed in reviring the cultare of cotton and sugar, their demand for provision for consump-tion will be extremely limited, for they will raise their own corn and swine, and thus become in a mensure independent of the West. casure independent of the West.
